JAPAN WARNS RUSSIA: TAKE YOUR ARMY OUT

Siberian Border Be Cleared

Tokio, Oct. 27 [Wednesday].—(AP) Baron Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister, in a memorandum forwarded to Moscow, requested that Russian troop demonstrations on the Manchukuo-Siberian border be discontinued. He declared the military movements might be misinterpreted.

Baron Shidehara's communication on the Russian troop demonstrations was causing an unpleasant effect on Japanese as well as Chinese soldiers, the foreign minister said he was fairly concerned.

30,000 Troops Concentrated.

Vigorous reports to the Japanese consulate at Tsitsihar indicate that between 25,000 and 30,000 Russian troops are concentrated in the vicinity of Pokotushikou, or Sulfenho, north of Hulan-chih, and also west of Manchouli on another front.

Vernacular newspapers today published Harbin dispatches stating that the Russians have sent arms and munition to the Amur army, composed of Chinese and Mongols, which was reported aiming to establish here an independent state with Tsitsihar as the capital.

The dispatches said the Amur troops are endangering Japanese interests on the Taonan-Angangchi railroad.

Japan to Send Troops North.

Tokio, in connection with Baron Shidehara's "most cordially warning," as the Japanese newspapers described his communication, it was announced the Japanese Manchurian railway is sending a repair force to repair the Nonni river bridge, which was damaged by Chinese or Hailung-kiang troops.

The Amur faction, by closing the Nonni bridge, sought to hinder movement of forces of Gen. Chang Chai-peng, governor, who has ambitions to control his own government at Harbin.

The bridge engineers will be accompanied by a small detachment of Japanese soldiers. The war office explained the small detachment of troops accompanying the engineers merely was as a guard.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 27.—The South Manchuria railway today officially charged Soviet Russia's activities in regard to troops in Manchuria who are said to have aided Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, governor of Manchuria, who was ousted by the Japanese.

Today, according to official Japanese sources, four Russian railway cars arrived at Manchuli, on the southwest border of Manchuria, bound for Harbin. They were loaded with field guns, machine guns and ammunition. The Japanese consul at Manchuli demanded an explanation from the Chinese military authorities, he said, but met with silence and later a blunt denial.

CHINA DENIES MOBILIZATION.

The Soviet government, through its assistant, Klementi Voroshilov, today denied reports that soviet troops were being mobilized on the Manchukuo border.

Dispatches from Peiping to the London Times last week said, however, that Chinese authorities, fearing Russia would be involved in the Manchurian conflict between China and Japan, had concentrated tanks on the border and were taking precautionary preparations for the transportation of troops.

Russia Rejects U. S. Claims.

HARBIN, Manchuria, Oct. 27.—Gen. Tamon Honjo, commander-in-chief of the Japanese forces in Manchuria, in an official statement today declined any responsibility for the damage suffered by neutral foreign interests as a result of the dispute with Chinese in Manchuria.

"Although the present complications are due to unlawful actions by the Chinese government of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang," Gen. Honjo declared, "neither the Japanese army nor the Japanese government is responsible for these losses, which is a matter for settlement between the interests concerned and Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang."

Old Chinese Custom Helps Mrs. Wong Trouble

Mrs. Charles Wong, 27 years old, of 3139 Wentworth avenue, a Chinese, was arrested yesterday in the Goldblatt department store at 22d street and Wentworth avenue and charged with shoplifting. She was carrying a number of small articles she had picked up, which had been taken to the Armour avenue police station. Mrs. Wong explained through an interpreter that she was only following the old Chinese custom of choosing what you want to buy as you leave the store.

CITY FUND MAY PROVIDE CASH FOR TEACHERS

Pay Prospects Are Much Brighter.

JAMES A. KEARNS. [Wallinger Photo.]

City Treasurer James A. Kearns prepared a letter to the city council, suggesting that he be authorized to invest between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 of the city's funds in 1931 tax warrants of the board of education. That would give the school board sufficient money to pay a month or six weeks' salary to all its employes.

At the same time a committee of bankers and others conferred with City Controller Szymczak. That conference discussed the plan to sell $6,965,000 worth of 1930 school board tax warrants held by the city and also the disposal of some of the city's own tax warrants.

Await Revenue Report.

Plans were laid for an appeal to bankers and the leading taxpayers of the county to buy the warrants, but action was deferred pending the report of financial relief plans by Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission. Attorney Silas H. Strawn was appointed to report on the commission's recommendations for legislative action.

The commission is scheduled to make its report tomorrow, but Mr. Strawn will be out of the city on that day and an attempt will be made to postpone the report until Friday so that he may attend the meeting.

Mr. Strawn will then call the bankers' and taxpayers' meeting to launch the tax warrant sales.

"It is like leaping in the dark to act before we know what the legislature will be asked to do in the situation," Mr. Szymczak said.

Plan Use of City Funds.

Mr. Kearns said that he would take up with Mayor Cermak and Mr. Szymczak, as well as with the council, his proposal to turn city funds over to the school board for pay rolls, through the tax warrant purchase. The city now has approximately $40,000,000 in its aggregate of funds. About $13,500,000 will be required to pay city employés until Jan. 1, the earliest date at which legislative relief is expected to become operative.

The funds for purchase of the school tax warrants would be withdrawn from various bond funds, on the supposition that the relief plan passed by the legislature will make it possible to repay those funds by the time the money is needed for public improvements, Mr. Kearns said.

He also arranged with Mr. Szymczak to use $3,250,000 from the aggregate of funds for the purchase of corporate fund tax warrants. The money so realized will meet the city's pay rolls for the month of October. The city has been delinquent on its pay rolls since Oct. 2.

Pay Firemen and Police Today.

Firemen and police will get the pay checks today which were due them Oct. 15, and payment of some city hall employés was started yesterday. Mr. Kearns said that he would also seek to arrange to pay public library

Bowman of the Biltmore Dies, Aged 56

New York, Oct. 28 [Wednesday.]—[Special.]—John McEntee Bowman, 56, president of the Bowman-Biltmore corporation and affiliated companies, which control hotels throughout the United States, died at 2:45 o'clock this morning in Post Graduate hospital. Mr. Bowman underwent an operation for the removal of gall stones at the hospital on Oct. 12, and subsequently had shown some improvement. Mrs. Bowman was with him at the hospital during most of his illness. He suffered a relapse a few days ago.

Comes from Canada When 17.

Mr. Bowman came to New York from Canada at the age of 17. He became a hotel employé at the age of 22 and eventually largely was instrumental in creating one of America's two or three largest hotel chains.

He was president of the Bowman Biltmore Hotels corporation and a score of affiliated companies which controlled hotels throughout the United States and one in Canada. The most important hotels in the chain were the Biltmore and the Commodore, in New York.

Opens Biltmore in Los Angeles.

Mr. Bowman and his associates built the Los Angeles Biltmore. Eleven cars carried him and his guests from New York to California for the opening in 1922.

In association with William Candler, Mr. Bowman built the Atlanta Biltmore in Atlanta and the Miami Biltmore at Coral Gables in Miami, Fla.

HIS VOICE, TELLING OF LOVE FOR A GIRL, NOW TO ACCUSE HIM

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Robert P. Mellus is an inventive and thoughtful gentleman, but perhaps not forward looking.

Some years ago Robert and Genevieve Kelley were very good friends. He lived in Milwaukee and she in London, Ont. Letters seemed cold things, so Mr. Mellus talked into a phonograph.

"Gee," said one record; "I am lucky to have a girl like you love me. How happy I am to know that all your kisses will be mine alone."

But later, Miss Kelley alleges in a suit filed today, Robert changed his mind. She seeks $10,000 "for anguish and humiliation."

STATE ALIENIST EXAMINES BELL; SAYS HE'S SANE

Frank Bell, who pleaded insanity and escaped electrocution on Oct. 16 for the murder of Chris Patras, café manager, in a holdup, was pronounced legally sane last night by Dr. Francis Gerty, state alienist, who examined him in the county jail.

At a sanity hearing in Criminal court yesterday, Dr. Gerty and Dr. John P. Murphy, alienist of the Edward Hines Jr., Memorial hospital, were appointed to determine Bell's state of mind, Dr. Murphy to represent the defense. Although the two alienists were to make a joint examination, Dr. Murphy did not appear last night.

Dr. Gerty was attended to Bell's cell by a court reporter, who set down every word spoken. The alienist afterwards informed Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler that Bell refused to "cooperate," mumbling incoherent words and contorting his limbs.

KILLS HIS WIFE AS SHE SLEEPS, ENDS OWN LIFE

Frank Names, 47 years old, driver for a motor livery, and his wife, Harriet, 43 years old, were found shot to death early this morning in their home in Frank avenue, near Milwaukee avenue, Niles. Sergt. George Le Grus of the county highway police at Morton Grove, who investigated the tragedy, said he believed Names had shot his wife as she slept and then had killed himself. Both were shot in the head.

The death weapon, found beside Names, had been given to his wife by her brother, Peter Ouzyklewski, former chief of police of Niles, the police said. The bodies were found by two sons of the couple, Edward Names, 21 years old, and Chester, 18, and a friend, Arthur Hoppe of Benton Harbor, Mich., a visitor in the home. They were aroused from their sleep by the shots. The sons said they knew of no motive for Names' act.

Druggan Parts with Cash, but Saves Library

Terry Druggan, with an English accent and a hurt look in his blue eyes behind big horn rimmed glasses, took the witness stand in Judge Michael J. Feinberg's court yesterday. The man for whom the title "beer baron" was coined was grieved because he had been subpoenaed to explain what he was going to do about $17,000 he borrowed on unsecured notes from the West Central State bank, now in receivership.

TERRY DRUGGAN.

"Now, all I want to do," said Terry expansively to the judge and crowded courtroom, "is to pay up what I owe." He motioned to his attorney, Peter Sissman.

The lawyer produced a stack of bank notes. A $100 bill was the top note.

Offers Payment of $2,500.

"Here is $2,500 in cash," said Attorney Sissman. "My client is willing to make this a first payment on what he owes."

"Very good," remarked the court. "If we can get $2,500 out of Mr. Druggan every time we issue a subpoena, that will be fine. We have plenty of subpoenas."

"Mr. Druggan isn't so rich as all that," said the attorney, hastily. "He used to have lots of money, but in the last four years——"

"He'll have less competition from now on," said the judge, smiling. The courtroom crowd, which had just heard that Al Capone had been denied bail, grinned with the judge.

The cultured Mr. Druggan was worried when the question of disposing of furniture in his luxurious flat at 7054 Greenview avenue was given the court's attention.

Demands Sale of Furniture.

"The receiver will not surrender possession of the flat or furniture," Judge Feinberg said. "We must sell the furniture and get the flat rented so the income can be paid to the bank."

Druggan gave his lawyer a pained look.

"What about Mr. Druggan's books?" asked the attorney, pleadingly. "You wouldn't take his books away from him, judge?"

There was a solemn moment in

Capone to Stay in County Jail; Bail Is Refused

Al Capone will remain in the county jail for the time being. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday denied the gangster's application for bail, but granted a writ of supersedeas, staying his removal to Leavenworth penitentiary pending an appeal from his conviction for income tax evasion. No credit toward his eleven year sentence is allowed for the time he spends in jail.

JUSTICE WILLIS VAN DEVANTER.

Defense Attorney Michael Ahern said, however, that he might decide to go to Washington and apply for bail to Justice Willis Van Devanter, the Supreme court member assigned to the 7th judicial circuit.

Ahern Has Second Plan.

If he goes to the Supreme court justice and is refused bail Mr. Ahern indicated that he might ask to have the supersedeas vacated so Capone will be taken to Leavenworth at once to start receiving credit on his sentence. Thus for at least several days Capone will remain in the county jail, where he has been since Saturday, when he was sentenced by Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The three judges of the Circuit court assembled in the chambers of Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler promptly at 2 p. m., at which time a decision on Capone's application for supersedeas and bail had been promised. Mr. Ahern and the prosecutors, headed by United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, filed into the small office. Twenty reporters, excluded from the private office for lack of space, crowded the reception room of the chambers.

Court's Order Is Read.

Through a screen placed at the open door the reporters heard this order read:

"Upon the docketing of the appeal we have agreed upon the following order to be entered:

"It is ordered that supersedeas be granted suspending further execution of the sentence of imprisonment of the defendant, but not suspending any proceeding for collection of the judgment for fine and costs awarded against him.

"It is further ordered that defendant's petition for enlargement upon bail pending the hearing of his appeal be denied.

"It is further ordered that the appeal herein be set down for oral argument immediately following the filing of appellee's brief, which shall be filed not later than fifteen days following the filing of brief for appellant; but if appellant does not proceed with expedition to perfect his appeal the court will entertain a motion to vacate the supersedeas."

Decision Read by Alschuler.

The order was read by Judge Alschuler, who, having been appointed by President Wilson in 1915, is the senior member of the court. Judge Evan Alfred Evans, appointed in 1916 by President Wilson, and Judge Will Morris Sparks, appointed in 1929 by President Hoover, were the other members.

Judge Sparks, who was supported for the judgeship by Senators James E. Watson and Arthur R. Robinson of Indiana, presided as an Indiana circuit judge at the murder trial of

LANDSLIDE OF BALLOTS BACKS MacDONALD RULE

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Oct. 28 (Wednesday.)—(AP)—Returns from 313 of the 615 British parliamentary districts shortly after noon today left the standing of the parties as follows: Conservatives, 243; National Labor, 7; Liberals, 37; opposition Labor, 23; Independents, 1. This gave the national government a potential total of 289; opposition, 23; doubtful, 1.

BULLETIN.

ANGLESEY, Wales, Oct. 28 (Wednesday.)—(AP)—Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of David Lloyd George, running on a liberal ticket, defeated A. Hughes, Conservative, in yesterday's election by a majority of more than 4,000 votes, it was announced today.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 28 [Wednesday].—Prime Minister MacDonald's national government supporters won yesterday's general election hands down. It was a landslide, and the nation overwhelmingly prescribed a sane and constructive diet for an ailing Great Britain through the government now in power. Thirty million voters visited the polls.

Every member of the national cabinet, with the exception of Prime Minister MacDonald—who will learn his fate later today—and Sir William Jowitt, attorney general, was reflected to the house of commons.

Most Cabinet Men Winners.

Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal, home secretary, won at Darwen by a majority of 4,287.

J. H. Thomas, Labor, secretary for dominions and Mr. MacDonald's bosom companion, defeated his opponent in Derby by more than 20,000.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Conservative, secretary of state for India, was returned from Chelsea by 13,239 votes.

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Conservative, president of the board of trade, led in Herndon, Middlesex, by 51,000.

Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader and lord president of the council, was named by acclamation on the day he was nominated. Lord Reading, Liberal foreign secretary, and Lord Sankey, Labor lord chancellor, did not face the voters. They are in the house of lords. Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden was not a candidate, having announced his retirement. He will probably obtain a seat in the house of lords.

Henderson First to Fall.

The confidence the British voters have placed in Prime Minister MacDonald and his emergency régime was also indicated by the fact that all but two members of the old Labor cabinet were swept from their seats.

Arthur Henderson, former foreign secretary in the Labor cabinet and new leader of the Labor opposition, was the first to topple in the Conservative landslide. Then in rapid succession came the following casualties:

Tom Shaw, former minister of war.

J. R. Clynes, former home secretary.

Arthur Greenwood, former minister of health.

A. V. Alexander, former first lord of the admiralty.

Sir Charles Trevelyan, former minister of education.

C. G. Ammon, former financial secretary to the admiralty.

H. B. Lees-Smith, former president of the board of education.

Two Survive Landslide.

The only survivors of the old Labor cabinet were George Lansbury, minister of public works, and Sir Stafford Cripps, solicitor general. Their victories were attributed to a tremendous personal popularity.

Henderson's conqueror was Rear Admiral Gordon Campbell, wearer of the Victoria Cross, whose campaign cry was, "I am going to give politics a hell of a kick in the pants." He won by almost 9,000 votes.

Sir William Jowitt, who was one of the few of the national government's supporters to taste defeat, lost to a Conservative candidate, but it was a case of two national government candidates fighting each other.

Sir Oswald Mosley, England's "young man in a hurry" and millionaire leader of the New party who stumped the country for his organization with a bodyguard of boxers and football players, was defeated by Mrs. Ida Copeland, Conservative. Sir Oswald ran a poor third in a three-cornered contest.

Lady Nancy Astor was returned to commons in a straight Conservative-Labor fight in the Sutton division in Plymouth.

Supporters of Prime Minister MacDonald see in the Secretary for Dominions Thomas' triumph a victory for "Jimmie." Like MacDonald, he fought the concentrated strength of the Labor machine.

Labor Admits Defeat.

As Conservative after Conservative candidate was announced a winner, Labor headquarters in London privately admitted defeat.

"We may be down, but not out," their leaders exclaimed.

One of the early Conservative winners was Viscount Herodale, son of the earl of Beatty and the former Ethel Field, daughter of the late Marshall Field Sr. of Chicago.

Even if Mr. MacDonald is defeated in his constituency in the Seaham Harbor division and falls before the strength of the Labor coal miners he will be found a safe seat at once and will be back in the house within two or three weeks. The same path will probably be followed in the cases of Henderson, Clynes, Alexander and other prominent defeated Labor leaders.

Hate to Give Up Pay.

The process calls for the resignation of members representing rock ribbed constituencies and then at a new election which is generally uncontested the leader will get his seat. The chief trouble in the case of the Labor party is to find enough self-sacrificing Laborites to surrender their seats and the salary of 400 pounds a year [about $1,700 at the present value of the pound] to the defeated chieftains.

Edwin Scrymgeour, the only prohibitionist in the British parliament, lost his seat today when he and his Labor party colleague, M. Marcus, were defeated in their constituencies in Dundee, Scotland. Their seats went to Miss Florence Horsbrough, Conservative, and to a Liberalite. At the last election Scrymgeour ran way ahead of his opponents.

The enormous victory for the National government, according to political observers, may eventually prove to be Prime Minister MacDonald's downfall. Should the Conservatives gain a majority of the 615 seats, which is almost certain, in the house, there is the likelihood that the Tories will take over control and announce that they from now will take over the reins.

Expect Protective Tariff.

Most of the Conservatives sent to parliament waved the banner of protectionism in their campaign and there undoubtedly will be an attempt to pass tariff legislation through the next parliament with the aid of Sir Herbert Samuel's group of National Liberals.

Baldwin and other Conservative leaders have been somewhat noncommittal on this point, merely backing Mr. MacDonald in his statement that nothing would be excluded in the attempt to restore prosperity in Great Britain. Strenuous efforts to pass tariff legislation are regarded as certain.

King George and Queen Mary were at Buckingham palace getting the returns over the radio, telephone, telegraph, ticker tape, and wireless. The prince of Wales listened to the radio at his country home, to which bulletins were also sent by telephone.

Guard Against Riots.

The newly elected parliament will assemble on Nov. 3 after electing a speaker; the rest of the week will be spent in swearing in new members. The formal opening by King George takes place on Nov. 10.

The government is taking no chance on civil disorders after the election. A special force of detectives has been sent to Scotland and to the north of England with orders not to allow communist leaders out of their sight. It is feared they may undertake some desperate enterprise of sabotage as a demonstration against the new government. A similar force will watch suspects in London, but the total number of such suspects in the whole country does not exceed 50.

CLEARING HOUSE CLERK MISSING FOR TWO DAYS

Chicago and Oak Park police joined last night in a search for Lenox Roberts, 27 years old, 320 South Clinton avenue, Oak Park, a clerk in the office of the Chicago Clearing House association, who vanished Monday en route to his office in the Federal Reserve bank.

Relatives of Roberts suggested that bank bandits might have kidnaped him to force him to reveal the plans of some bank they planned to rob. Daniel J. Breen, chief clerk of the clearing house, said Roberts had been working Saturday in a bank on the west side and was due in the office Monday for another assignment.

Howard M. Sims, chief examiner of the clearing house, expressed doubt that Roberts would be able to give bandits any pertinent information. Roberts, he said, was a minor clerk. When last seen Roberts wore a dark blue suit, gray top coat, gray felt hat, black oxfords and green socks.

SPAIN VOTES FOR PARLIAMENT OF SINGLE CHAMBER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Oct. 27.—How firmly the radical element is in the saddle in the Spanish cortes was revealed clearly tonight when all Conservative proposals for the creation of a senate were thrown out, and a one chamber parliament was voted for, 140 to 83. Former President Zamora urged the creation of a senate as a brake on the actions of the cortes. He fought the unicameral project as being an actual danger to the life of the republic.

EDWIN WINTER ESTATE IS PUT AT $1,017,984

The late Edwin W. Winter, former president of the Northern Pacific Railway company and later of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company, left an estate amounting to $1,070,653 gross and $1,017,984 net. This was disclosed yesterday when a tax appraisal was filed in the Surrogate's court, New York City. Mr. Winter died in Fall River, Mass., on June 28, 1930. He was 84 years old.

Under the terms of his will most of his estate was left to his three daughters and two sons, each of whom received $199,192. They are: Wallace C. Winter, 50 East Deerpath avenue, Lake Forest; Mrs. Elizabeth Ritchie, Mrs. Laura W. Dean, and Everett P. Winter, all of St. Paul, and Mrs. Edelma W. Mead of Bronxville, N. Y. A sister-in-law, Mrs. Adele C. Winter of Barrington, receives a life estate in $15,000. The chief assets of the estate were in stocks and bonds, which amounted to $808,271.

LADY ASTOR GETS BIG THRILL OUT OF HER TRIUMPH

England Now 4-Square to the Winds, She Says.

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

PLYMOUTH, England, Oct. 27.—Lady Nancy Astor was indeed a happy warrior tonight surrounded by her family. Even her son, Michael, came especially down from Eton to witness the final scenes of his mother's triumph.

Her face flushed, her eyes sparkling, Lady Astor, who was born in Virginia, stood listening to the plaudits of an enormous crowd that gave her a majority of 10,204, the largest she has ever enjoyed in the winning of a seat in the house of the Sutton division for the sixth time. Two years ago it was 211. She has never fought a more pleasant election, she declared, but she was a little perturbed tonight when her advances to the Socialist candidate and his wife were hardly reciprocated.

Young Voters Aroused.

"Despite my opponent dwelling mostly on personality," she said, "we have not replied and have managed to keep bitterness out. Two things struck me. One was that the people wanted to know the facts, and the second was that in no political fight have I ever seen young voters more thoroughly roused. National character appeal won and socialism may have been found too sordid in its appeal.

"It seems that people realize some sacrifice has to be made and it is in common sacrifice that England rises and tells the world that she is four-square to the winds. Fact, not fiction, won the election. It was wonderful that they knew the great issue and applied their common sense."

After her declaration thousands of people cheered her. Later Lady Astor again acknowledged tributes at the Conservative club. Then despite the lateness of the hour the crowd followed her home and continued the demonstration after she went indoors.

LONDON TAKES A HOLIDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—London's fashionable hotels and restaurants were crowded tonight with throngs listening to the election returns. So far that matter were the pubs. Everybody appeared to be having a great time celebrating the National government's overwhelming victory.

The only unwelcome visitor to the evening's festivities was the yellow fog which seeped through doors and windows and enveloped the diners in what looked like a cloud of smoke.

One of the distinguished vistors tonight was Jean Chiappe, prefect of police in Paris. He wanted to see how London election crowds act and came as the guest of Scotland Yard.

Most of London, however, sat by the radio. The pea soup fog was too much for them. Those who wanted to get election returns first hand crowded in front of newspaper offices but found that they couldn't read the bulletins flashed on screens. The fog was that thick. They soon went home, to a hotel, or a pub. Even at that it was estimated that about 2,000,000 braved the fog to learn the returns.

Irish nuns voted for the first time in history today. Thirty-six nuns from the Convent of Mercy, Strabane, in County Tyrone, northern Ireland, marched to the polls and registered their votes for the national government candidate.

Other election precedents were established when airplanes and motor boats were used to carry the voters to the polls. Other conveyances included autos, charabancs, horses, bicycles, bath chairs and ambulances.

The voters ranged in ages from five to 106 years. The youngest voter was Ernest Motherwell of Belfast, aged 5. In Ulster none whose name appears in the register is barred from casting a ballot providing he or she can pronounce the name of a candidate, and Ernest did. The oldest voter was Mrs. Caroline Marriott, aged 106, of London.

Borrows Father's Trousers.

A child, ten months' old, whose name appeared on the voting lists, was taken to a Southampton polling station, but was not permitted to vote. A 10 year old boy, whose name was registered by mistake at Hull, voted. He borrowed his father's trousers for the occasion.

Most of the 7,000 miners in the Burnley division, who are opposed to woman's suffrage, forbade their wives to vote. The women in order to preserve domestic harmony waited until their husbands descended into the pits and then dashed to the polls.

Lord Apsley, Conservative candidate, used two airplanes to give free rides to voters, carrying them from Cardiff to Bristol. A Manchester voter, living in Scotland, traveled 800 miles, there and back, to cast his vote for the national government candidate.

The first person to vote at Ashby-de-la-Zouch, Leicestershire, was a man named John Bull.

A significant feature of today's election was the attitude of the older working men, who deserted the trade unions mandate and voted for national government candidates on the issues of the preservation of the pound sterling, and the control of the unemployment dole to young men and women who have never worked.

BARE COMMUNIST PLOT TO BLOW UP CYPRUS OIL STORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A communist plot to blow up important oil reserves in Cyprus and to incite natives to a rebellion, which it was hoped would have a telling impression on the British election, was revealed here today by reliable sources.

An official communique from the colonial office tonight reported that the situation in Cyprus was "distinctly easier," but added that three communist meetings were broken up "without casualties." In one village rioters attacked a patrol of British troops. Several rioters were injured. The bishop of Kyrenia was arrested.

The colonial office also announced that the customs sheds in the village of Piasouri had been burned. An elected member of the legislative council, named Gelatoupoulas, was arrested for this offense.

The total casualties in the Cyprus disorders so far number four killed and 66 wounded.

The British authorities have known for some time that the Third Internationale, through the British branch of the League Against Imperialism, has been working in the island.

Strict censorship of private mail addressed to the Third Internationale's agitators has revealed that an attempt was to have been made last Wednesday night to blow up the immense naval and private stores of oil in Cyprus.

The British imperial staff has decided to maintain a regiment of infantry at Cyprus hereafter.

THRILLING AIR SHOW NOV. 8 TO HELP CHARITY

Famous Pilots to Fly in Grant Park Spectacle.

A spectacular air show for the benefit of charity, to be held over Grant park on Sunday, Nov. 8, is planned for Chicago relief by THE TRIBUNE. Famous pilots have been invited to perform at the show, the large transport lines will be asked to form a parade of airliners and squadrons of fast planes are expected from the army air corps and the navy.

Chicagoans will have the opportunity of seeing the newest, fastest and best in aviation in the city's front yard, and at the same time contribute to relieve the suffering this winter of their less fortunate fellow citizens. All funds collected at the air show will be turned over to the Joint Emergency Relief committee.

Speed and Thrills in Sky.

Speed planes with such pilots as Brig. James H. Doolittle, Lieut. Alfred J. Williams, Capt. Frank M. Hawks, Roscoe O. Howard, and John Livingston at the controls will roar over the lake front. Huge airliners that speed along all trans-continental lines daily will also cross the sky. Powerful fighting planes will demonstrate their thrilling tactics.

Invitations have been sent to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, Paulo Codle, Amelia Earhart Putnam, Jimmy Haizlip and his wife, Mae Haizlip, Capt. Ira C. Eaker, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the round the world flyers, and many other transatlantic fliers.

Lieut. Williams said last night that he would be glad to take part in THE TRIBUNE show. He wrecked his plane recently at an eastern aviation event, but E. M. (Matty) Laird, Chicago airplane manufacturer, said he would provide Williams with a plane.

Other Famous Flyers Coming.

Russell Boardman and John Polando, who flew from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, said they would probably be able to attend the show. Lowell Bayles, who flew his Gee Bee racer to victory in the Thompson trophy race at the national air races in Cleveland two months ago, promised to bring the racer to Chicago for the charity spectacle.

Bernt Balchen, famous pilot on Admiral Byrd's expeditions, said he would be glad to participate. Hugh Hamilton Jr. and Clyde Pangborn, who made aviation history by their recent nonstop flight across the Pacific ocean, believe they will be able to attend the show. They will know definitely today.

Sportsmen Pilots to Parade.

The charity air show will place the sportsman pilot in the limelight along with his more famous contemporaries. Many Chicagoans who own planes and fly for sport will take part in the celebration, forming an aerial parade with Dr. Sydney Walker in his Arco biplane in the lead. Dr. Walker promises full cooperation on the part of Chicago's sportsmen pilots.

Many organizations swung into the project with enthusiasm yesterday. Leaders of aviation, including Maj. Burd Landis, war time ace and chairman of the Illinois aeronautics commission, praised the plan. "A fine idea, which will benefit charity and at the same time stimulate Chicago's interest in aviation," he said.

Maj. Schroeder Cooperates.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of Sky Harbor airport in Northbrook, promised his assistance. "I am sure that all Chicago airports will cooperate to their fullest with THE TRIBUNE'S air show," Maj. Schroeder said.

Officials of oil companies replied favorably when asked if they would be willing to donate the oil and gasoline consumed by the planes participating.

Daniel Insull Jr., chairman of the local emergency relief committee, declared THE TRIBUNE plan is "a great idea—one that all Chicago should support." He pointed out that an air show for charity would be particularly appropriate, since aviation is one industry that has made great strides forward.

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding officer of the Sixth Corp area, who has been asked to arrange for army air corps participation in the show, promised to cooperate. Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley, in command of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, has been asked to see that the navy is represented in the show by a detachment of fighting planes.

Late yesterday an enthusiastic response to a request for hotel accommodations for the visiting pilot participants was received at a meeting of representatives of eleven of Chicago's largest hotels. The hotel men promised to care for the pilots, and said they would be glad to assist the air show in any way.

Prepare to Fete Pilots.

At the meeting entertainment of the visiting pilots was discussed, and a reception for them, followed either by a banquet or a grand ball, was suggested. J. K. Blatchford, secretary of the Chicago Hotel association, was appointed to represent the hotel owners in making the necessary arrangements.

The hotels represented are the Blackstone and Drake, by S. Barkley; the Palmer house, by A. C. Fuller; the Auditorium, by F. S. Avery; the Stevens and La Salle, by E. J. Stevens; the Bismarck, by Otto Eitel; the Congress, by John Burke; the Knickerbocker, by A. G. Hurst; the Sherman, by Frank Bering; and the Morrison, by Thomas Sadler.

Form Committee Today.

Aviation leaders and business men will meet today to form a committee to complete arrangements for the charity air show. Permission has already been obtained from the south park board to rope off Grant park from Michigan boulevard eastward, south to Randolph street, and there will be a small charge per person for admittance to this arena, from which the aerial spectacle will be observed to best advantage.

In expectation of heavy traffic into Chicago for the show, the railroads are considering special rates from nearby cities and some of the air lines plan to run special sections. In addition the air lines have promised to supply some of their large transport planes for the sky parade. United Air Lines, Century Air Lines, American Airways, and Transcontinental and Western Air, with others, will be represented.

Miriam Hopkins, screen star, was a Chicago visitor yesterday. She was met at the train by her mother, Mrs. C. G. Mackin, a resident of the Exmoor Country club. MOB IN IOWA KIDNAPS, BEATS A COMMUNIST Council Bluffs, Ia., Oct. 28 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Violence flared late last night in a fight between a band of anti-communists and organizers for the Communist party.

Gordon Burroughs, 50, lieutenant of George Papcun, 29, who is the communist organizer here, was forced from his room by a gang of men armed with tear gas bombs and spirited into the country.

Early today he was found wandering along the road near Neola. He was in a dazed condition and bore evidence of having been severely beaten. He was not able to make a statement.

Trouble between the anti-communist leaders and Papcun began Monday night when Papcun was taken into the country and ordered to "keep on going." He was seized by a dozen men as he left the police station after being arrested on charges of disturbing the peace of a city council meeting.

Papcun, however, went to Omaha, across the river from Council Bluffs, and last night said he would return here and demand the arrest of his abductors, several of whom he said he recognized. He charged that city and county officials had connived with the gang and that police did not give him protection from the anti-communist leaders.

MAYOR CHARGES SCHOOLS FAIL TO CHECK SPENDING

Holds Fiscal Troubles Are Caused by Board.

Describing President Lewis E. Myers of the board of education as "honest but without any backbone," Mayor Cermak yesterday placed the blame for hungry school children, payless teachers and the lack of needed educational funds upon the school trustees.

"In my opinion," the mayor said, "the board of education is discredited in the eyes of the people and whatever steps they now take shall be looked upon with a grain of salt. They now have the teachers in a mood similar to that of the unfed children and the whole teaching staff is in a terrible condition. They were offered cooperation but they refused."

Hits Two Economy Surveys.

In addition, Mayor Cermak charged, the school board made no efforts at retrenchment and blithely went its way, taking no cognizance of its straitened financial circumstances. A case in point was the spending of $150,000 by the board to discover some method by which they might save. Of this amount $50,000 was spent on a preliminary audit, which will be duplicated in another audit recently authorized which will cost $100,000.

"The $50,000 was just thrown away," he declared. "Mr. Myers assured me he would urge that a survey be made by the advisory committee but it seems while he was seeking to be elected he was dickering with the Cleveland Audit company. While this new survey, costing $100,000 is being made many of the teachers are on the verge of being compelled to ask for charity."

The mayor said that if the board had taken steps six months ago similar to those now being taken financial interests of the city would be in a much better frame of mind toward the purchase of securities. He charged the board employed needless help in the face of the request of the governor's revenue commission that all taxing bodies do all within their power to reduce expenditures.

Myers to Make Reply.

"The mayor's charges, as reported, are untrue," Mr. Myers said last night. "They do, call for a comprehensive answer and that answer will be forthcoming."

Trustee Joseph Savage said, "Nobody is responsible for the chaotic condition but the mayor himself. He has absolute control of the city's aggregate of funds. Never before have city employes been paid out of these funds to the exclusion of school board employes.

"As for the survey of the Cleveland Audit company, that was made at the request of the senate committee on education. The cost was not $50,000, but something less than $7,000. Already it has resulted in savings of more than $2,000,000.

"We did not go to the mayor's advisory committee regarding the present survey because we want a competent survey, not a political search for new places to lodge political henchmen. The work is to be done by Columbia university."

SENTENCED FOR FRAUD.

Harry E. Thayer, 39 years old, 5330 Cornell avenue, was sentenced to 20 days in the Bridewell by Judge Mathew D. Hartigan yesterday on a charge of issuing fraudulent checks and operating a confidence game.

PAY PROSPECTS FOR TEACHERS MUCH BRIGHTER

and municipal tuberculosis sanitarium employes.

Monday Mr. Szymczak was asked on the eve of his conference with the bankers when he expected to be able to give city employes their October pay.

"I hope they will get it by Christmas," he said.

At that time, it was learned yesterday, the tax warrants were being prepared in his office for the transfer of the funds for the pay day today.

Busch Continues Efforts.

Former Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch is chairman of a committee which is asking large taxpayers to buy $6,965,000 worth of school board tax warrants, now held by the city, by the rescale of which it is hoped to obtain pay roll funds for school employes. He said last night that his committee will continue its efforts regardless of the action taken on Mr. Kearns' suggestion. Were both plans successful, he pointed out, the total funds obtained would not meet all of the overdue pay, now more than $17,000,000, due school employes.

Railroads, utility corporations and other large taxpayers have been approached on the purchase of the warrants, which they will be able to use for the payment of that portion of their 1930 taxes due the school board when tax collections start shortly after the first of the year. The proposition has been received favorably in a number of quarters, but none of the companies has taken formal action, Mr. Busch said.

Surface Lines Will Aid.

The Chicago Surface Lines probably will turn over to the city, county and school board their checks for $2,250,000 worth of 1930 and 1931 tax warrants on Friday, Charles H. Allen, controller of the company, said yesterday.

The purchase has already been authorized by the board of operations of the traction lines, and Mr. Allen's office is now engaged in computing just how the warrant purchase shall be apportioned in order that the warrants may be used for paying the company's taxes when they become due.

Guy Richardson, vice president and general manager of the surface lines, was one of those who attended the meeting with Mr. Szymczak and Mr. Strawn yesterday to discuss the general tax warrant situation.

Others present were Donald C. Miller, J. W. Denison, and Frank C. Gordon, representing the banks; Bernard J. Mullaney, representing the gas company; D. F. Kelly, head of The Fair store; R. M. Winston, real estate man; H. L. Stuart of Halsey, Stuart & Co., investment brokers; Corporation Counsel Sexton, Mr. Busch, and N. Lieberman.

Mr. Lieberman, it was explained by Mr. Szymczak, has a plan for formation of a trust to purchase tax warrants and resell them to taxpayers for use in meeting their tax bills.

ASKS RULING ON GUY BUSH'S GAS STATION PERMIT

Corporation Counsel Sexton was asked yesterday to decide the legality of a permit obtained by Guy Bush, Cubs' ball player, to install gasoline storage tanks preparatory to building a gasoline filling station near the southeast corner of Devon avenue and Rockwell street.

Protesting property owners say that Bush did not comply with the requirements in the city code that he first obtain the consent of the owners of a majority of the square footage of property within a prescribed area around the proposed location. The city map department found that Bush had obtained the signatures of property owners on a frontage foot basis instead of the square foot basis.

WOMEN BEATEN BY ROBBERS IN TWO HOLDUPS

Two women were beaten and robbed yesterday, one in her home and the other on the street. Both were sent to hospitals.

Mrs. Mary Craven, 68 years old, keeper of a rooming house at 1333 Foster avenue, was slugged with a pistol butt and kicked in the ribs by a man to whom she had rented a room a few hours before. He struck her when she refused him bus fare to Detroit and fled with her purse containing $10. She was taken to the Edgewater hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Stella Baker, 36 years old, 2401 Monroe street, was beaten unconscious by a footpad as she alighted from a Jackson boulevard bus at Western avenue. The robber fled with her purse containing a few dollars. A passing motorist took her to the county hospital, where she was treated for a possible skull fracture.

GRAIN SUES FOOD DEALERS.

City Sealer Grain yesterday filed suits in the Municipal court against four bakers, four poultry dealers, and a meat market. The defendants are charged with giving short weight.

BADGER RADICALS TO BOLT G. O. P. IF DENIED JOB AID

Warn Regular Republicans in Congress.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The La Follette wing of Wisconsin's delegation to congress served notice today, through the Madison Capital Times, La Follette newspaper, that it will not support the regular Republicans in the organization of the house in December unless its demands for unemployment and agricultural relief are given consideration.

Eight of Wisconsin's Republican congressmen are members of the La Follette faction, organized by the late Senator Robert M. La Follette. The present party division of the lower branch of congress is so close that the eight hold a balance of power.

Will Formulate Platform.

A meeting of the eight congressmen is to be held in Madison within a few weeks and invitations are to be extended to radical represenatives of other states to join them in formulating a platform for the 72d congress.

The Times announced that the legislative program agreed upon at this meeting, which probably will contain definite proposals on unemployment and agricultural relief, will be made known to house Republican leaders.

If there is not assurance that this program will be permitted to come to a vote the group likely will side with the Democrats in selection of a successor to the late speaker, Nicholas Longworth, and the lining up of important committee memberships, the Times said.

The Wisconsin La Follette congressmen are Thomas R. Amlie, Elkhorn; Charles A. Kading, Watertown; John M. Nelson, Madison; Gardner R. Withrow, La Crosse; Gerald J. Boileau, Wausau; George J. Schneider, Appleton; James A. Frear, Hudson, and Hubert H. Peavey, Washburn.

Invite Six to Join Group.

Invitations to attend the Madison meeting are to be extended to Congressmen Philip D. Swing, California; E. H. Campbell, Iowa; Fiorello La Guardia, New York; James H. Sinclair, North Dakota; O. B. Lovette, Tennessee, and Paul J. Kvale, Minnesota.

No comment on the group's plan was forthcoming today. Until he had conferred with his colleagues, Congressman Nelson would have nothing to say about the meeting except that it was to be held.

The Times said the La Follette adherents also would insist upon abolition of "gag rule" by the regular party leaders which members of the faction considered responsible for defeat of La Follette measures.

Capital Takes Notice.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—An ultimatum of Wisconsin La Follette Republicans that their legislative program must be considered, or they will bolt the Republican party in house organization, today attracted attention on Capitol hill.

The notification, however, given by the independents in a Madison newspaper and demanding consideration and agricultural relief, drew little comment of their demands for unemployment ment.

Representative Christgau, independent Republican, Minnesota, said that by mutual agreement the independents planned to meet in Washington shortly before congress convenes Dec. 7. He said he had not heard of the Madison meeting, to which other independents were invited. Other than Christgau, no house independents could be located.

Representative Schafer, regular Republican, Wisconsin, said, "It is the usual Progressive bunk."

More than a dozen independents bolted the Republican caucus last February when Nicholas Longworth was renominated for speaker.

Jarecki Warns Tax Objectors to Pay on Account This Week

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Garrick Building corporation, which is protesting the taxes on its Randolph street property, paid $20,000 on account yesterday. This company owed $15,500 on its 1928 taxes and $43,293 on its 1929 bill, according to Assistant State's Attorney James Clancy.

Its protest case was on call last Monday before County Judge Jarecki and was continued to Nov. 3.

Judge Jarecki yesterday informed half a dozen lawyers who represent large loop properties that they can expect no judicial mercy on their tax bills if they refuse to pay anything on account. He served notice that he will insist upon the last dollar in penalties from tax objectors who do not pay a large part of their taxes this week.

Judge Gives Warning.

"Under the statutes the County court has been granted the power to reduce the penalties on delinquent taxpayers who come into court in good faith," said Judge Jarecki. "The property owner who declines to pay any taxes does not come into court in good faith.

"The 1929 taxes were payable last May 15. The protestors against these taxes came into this court last July. Many of them have not paid any taxes for that year, although it is certain that they owe some. They have not paid what they consider fair; they have refused to pay anything.

"These property owners have had four months in which to contribute something to the cost of government, and so far have refused. I will give them the remainder of this week.

Nov. 1 Is the Deadline.

"Any taxpayer who has not paid a substantial amount of his taxes by Nov. 1 has not come into court in good faith, in my judgment, and can expect no reduction from me in the penalties assessed against him for delinquency."

"But we question the legality of the assessment in its entirety," protested one attorney.

"Suppose your contention proves correct," replied Judge Jarecki, "and the entire assessment is declared void, you as a property owner will still owe taxes; because in the event of an entirely void assessment there would be another assessment. You know that. I have announced the policy of this court, and that policy will be carried out."

Judgments Are Entered.

The judge called for hearing the protests of about 40 large property owners, who owe a total of $2,119,326 in 1929 taxes. Attorneys in some of these cases did not appear, and Judge Jarecki gave judgment to County Treasurer McDonough for the amount of the 1929 taxes against each. These judgments total $218,397. Some of these same property owners also owe $25,560 on their 1928 taxes.

The judgments confirmed by the court and the amounts are:

The Hilton company	$77,483
Chicago Riding club	19,161
Great Northern-Majestic Bldg. Corp.	12,827
Seipp Realty trust	13,347
J. R. and R. M. Thom	18,177
Leroy D. and James G. Kellogg	17,007
Ada S. Garrett	17,493
Illinois Merchants Trust company	14,720
J. W. Grace and Ursula Lavender	15,713
Charles Kaufman & Brothers	14,430

The Kaufman concern, according to the state's attorney's office, owes $5,641 on its 1928 taxes, the Seipp Realty Trust $11,177, and the Great Northern and Majestic Building corporation $10,741.

Three Cases Up Today.

The cases of three large property owners are set for hearing this morning before Judge Jarecki. One of these is the Bills Realty company. On 10 pieces of property, the state's attory says, this concern owes $53,884 on its 1929 taxes and $1,507 on its 1928 taxes. Another case for hearing this morning is that of N. K. Aranoff against whom are listed $37,125 in 1929 taxes and $23,757 in 1928 taxes.

The third case is that of the Flamingo hotel, against which are $27,485 in 1929 taxes and $23,016 in 1928 taxes.

A number of the lawyers representing large property owners who appeared before Judge Jarecki yesterday wanted continuances. They pleaded they were not prepared. The cases have been pending since last July. Several could not tell the court whether their clients had paid any of the 1929 taxes or whether they had paid their 1928 bills. The court gave a continuance to every one who asked for it.

Fifty-seven Loop Objections Heard.

Most of the court day was consumed in the trial of the objections of 57 loop property owners whose taxes were boosted for 1928 by the board of review. These same property owners appeared before the board of review yesterday and asked for a decrease in their 1930 taxes, which was refused.

The property owners claim that the board violated the rules of the state tax commission in fixing the increased valuations, and denying the objectors a hearing.

Much of the evidence heard by Judge Jarecki was to show the assessments made against these properties by the board of assessors and the process followed. Harry S. Cumore, former director of appraisals for the assessors, was on the witness stand all day.

TEST ROOSEVELT AND AL SMITH'S POWER NOV. 5

Voters to Decide Issue on Forestry Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—An innocent sounding but far reaching proposed amendment to the state constitution which will be voted on by the people a week from today apparently has brought Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith to the parting of the ways. The amendment has a socialistic joker.

These two political associates of many years have taken different paths at the edge of the great forests of New York state. Mr. Smith repeatedly has attacked the $20,000,000 reforestation proposal and Gov. Roosevelt has been one of its stanchest advocates.

State Would Spend 20 Million.

Briefly, the proposed amendment commits the state to expenditure of $20,000,000 during the next eleven years for tree planting and acquisition of lands not suited to agriculture for reforestation purposes. The proposal has been approved by two legislatures and will come before the voters for ratification at the general election.

The "joker" in the text of the amendment lies buried in legal phraseology. It reads:

"Nothing contained in this section nor . . . shall prevent the state from cutting, selling, or removing the trees, timber, forest products, and other materials on any lands hereafter acquired with the moneys herein authorized within the forest preserve counties, but outside the Adirondack and Catskill parks as now fixed or hereafter extended by law."

A concerted drive against "imposing twenty million dollars additional taxes on our citizens for putting the state into the business of raising a crop of trees or any other commodity for the benefit of a special group" has been carried out by civic organizations.

Dr. R. C. Hill, president of the Schenectady County Conservation council and chairman of the Mohawk Valley Towns association, terms the forest amendment a "twenty million dollar scheme.'

"The New York Development association," Dr. Hill says, "claims to have originated the scheme and states that: 'It is well known that Floyd L. Carlisle initiated the movement. The same organization referred to Mr. Carlisle as 'chairman of the board of directors of the Niagara-Hudson Power corporation, and president of the St. Regis Paper company, whose companies own 35 per cent of all privately owned land in the Adirondacks.'"

Foes Insists It's Politics.

In some quarters former Gov. Smith is charged with attacking the proposed amendment in order to injure Gov. Roosevelt's prestige and indirectly hurt his presidential hopes. Mr. Smith, however, bases his arguments against the forest plan on the belief that the people cannot benefit for generations, if ever. He also has pointed out that the amendment will open the way to lumber interests to tap the state's resources through state aid.

Gov. Roosevelt's theory is that reforestation will hasten the restoration to usefulness of millions of acres of abandoned and waste farm land. Gov. Roosevelt has insisted that "every acre state owned and every acre to be acquired in the future will be guarded against cutting."

The political significance of the vote on the reforestation is that it is certain to be interpreted as showing the relative political strength of the governor and his predecessor. If it is beaten in the face of the combined influence of the Democratic and Republican party organization, Al Smith will be given credit for it and will be assured of his old political control of New York state. If the amendment is adopted Gov. Roosevelt will be on top.

The reforestation amendment originally was introduced by the Republicans, but now has the united support of Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic state committee and Republican State Chairman W. Kingsland Macy.

TELLEGEN'S EX-WIFE, HIS THIRD, MARRIES COUNT FROM DENMARK

Announcement of the wedding, which took place here Saturday, was made today by the bride's father, J. Dale Dilworth, president of the Salem Glass works.

The countess was the third wife of Tellegen. They were divorced in November, 1928, in Los Angeles. The countess is a granddaughter of former Gov. Dale of Virginia and a cousin of the earl of Craven of England. After being graduated from the Ward-Belmont school in Nashville she attended a dramatic school in New York and met Tellegen when she was accepted for a rôle in the stage version of "Don Juan." She was known on the stage as Nina Romano.

HOAN DECLARES HONEST RULE IS UP TO CITIZENS

Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee, in an address before 200 members of the Chicago Real Estate board in the board rooms at 67 West Monroe street, yesterday drew a comparison between municipal government in his city and in Chicago. His subject was "Getting a Dollar's Worth for 100 Cents Spent."

"Chicago's problem," he said, "is to make the people want a dollar's worth. The people must be aroused and demand service for every dollar spent of their tax money. There must be concerted action on the part of the citizens determined to place the city on a paying and businesslike basis."

Mr. Hoan, who has been mayor of Milwaukee since 1916, told how his city fought its way clear of financial chaos.

"Milwaukee," he said, "took every bit of graft out of its government. The police and fire departments are now operated on a merit basis under which a policeman—of high or low rank—finds it unprofitable to graft.

"Chicago has the largest job in the United States in cleaning up. To do it more laws won't help and electing a good man to office now and then won't help. You have to organize. Then you will get somewhere."

COPS SURPRISED AT GAMBLING IN GOLD COAST CLUB

Captain Is Stickler for Legal Procedure.

Capt. Gregory Moran, maestro at the East Chicago avenue police station, made it plain yesterday that he is a stickler for orderly and legal procedure.

Capt. Moran was discussing the affairs of the Gold Coast club, 19 Cedar street, until recently the rendezvous of the sporting elite of the city, which has suffered reverses lately because the operators of the club were dismissed as welshers on an $18,000 gambling debt.

Lewis Irish, the New York broker who won the $18,000 at roulette in the club, was homeward bound last night, without the $18,000. He had a promise of payment from Ben Marden, who parades as the owner of the club, but Mr. Irish said it was difficult to cash promises at the banks.

Capt. Moran's Strategy.

Capt. Moran was asked yesterday what steps he would take toward closing the club, which is in his police district.

"Why," replied the captain, "I guess I'll send another man around tonight to serve another summons on the club for not having a license."

"Are you going to raid the place?"

"No."

"Well, it's a gambling joint, isn't it?"

"Oh, yes, there's no doubt about that. Ben Marden admitted that to me this morning, although I never knew it before."

Capt. Moran confessed he was puzzled by the fact that policemen he had ordered to make regular inspections of the club, and to serve his nightly writ there charging violation of the state code, had never seen the roulette wheel at which Mr. Irish won the $18,000.

A Challenge to Sharp Eyes.

"I asked Marden about that and told him the whole police department never could find that wheel in a hundred years," the captain remarked in admiration of his policemen.

The interviewer asked Capt. Moran if he didn't take Marden's statement as a challenge. Could the wheel be so well hidden that the star sleuths of the department could never find it?

"No," replied Capt. Moran, "we will tear down the walls without authority. We'd have to have a search warrant."

The captain admitted that Mr. Irish had informed him that he had played roulette in the place, but said this wasn't sufficient for him to obtain a search warrant himself.

"Marden told me," the captain went on, "that he was going to close down; that he wouldn't open tonight or any other night. Of course, I don't believe him."

A Hopeful Invitation.

Almost coincidentally with the captain's statement Charles Bowman, secretary of the Gold Coast club, was announcing that the place would be open, without even a night's interruption, to all comers. Mr. Bowman was hopeful there would be comers.

Although Capt. Moran found it illegal to invade the Gold Coast club without a warrant, he and his men on yesterday morning staged raids without warrants on the Club Teocalli, 710 Rush street; the Casa club, 10 North Wabash avenue; the Paramount club, 19 East Huron street, and the Walton club, 69 East Walton place.

HOLD CLUB OWNER

Mrs. Elizabeth Tully, 34 years old, owner of the Walton club at 69 East Walton place, was held in bonds of $1,000 yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of violating the prohibition law. Three employes were also held in bonds. The case was set for hearing Nov. 10. The club was raided early yesterday morning by a squad of police and Deputy Prohibition Administrator, A. E. Hamilton. Quantities of liquor were seized. Attorney Max Epstein, representing Mrs. Tully, declared after the arraignment that he would ask that the evidence be suppressed because the raid was made without a search warrant.

HARDING'S HOME TOWN HELPS TO FIGHT NAN BRITTON'S LIBEL SUIT

Toledo, O., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Prominent residents of Marion, O., rallied to the memory of Warren G. Harding here today as the trial of Nan Britton's suit for $50,000 libel over a book attacking one she had written naming the former President as the father of her daughter, got under way.

Miss Britton's book, "The President's Daughter," was introduced into the records as the defendant, C. A. Klunk, Marion hotel operator, won the right to use it in his behalf. The alleged libel charged by Miss Britton occurred in a book entitled "The Answer to the President's Daughter" in which Miss Britton's statements of her relations with Harding were answered and disputed. Klunk is charged with selling the book.

One of the first witnesses for the defense was Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, son of the President's personal physician. Dr. Sawyer said he did not know Miss Britton, but declared that her reputation was bad. Similar testimony was offered by John A. Key, former congressman and close friend of Mr. Harding; Charles D. Schaffner, executor of the Harding estate; French Crow, Marion postmaster. Testimony was also offered by Probate Judge Oscar Gast, Miss Mary Kelley, secretary of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, and H. O. Crawbaugh, business man.

TYROL LEADERS CALL HALT ON ALL TAX PAYMENTS

SALZBURG, Austria, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Burgomasters and representatives of peasants' federations of eastern Tyrol at a meeting here today adopted unanimously a resolution declaring they would cease payment of all kinds of taxes, beginning tomorrow.

The burgomasters and peasants said starvation is staring them in the face. Their action, they declared, was "a lull before the storm," which would burst with great violence unless the government alters its agricultural policy, provides a less costly administration, reduces the social burden, fights profiteering and introduces compulsory military service and better education for youth.

3 JUDGES HEAR PLEAS TO QUASH CANAL PLOT CASE

Fisher Bars State Move to Change Courts.

Arguments to quash the sanitary district graft conspiracy indictments were started yesterday before three judges of the Criminal court after Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher had refused to receive a motion by Prosecutor John E. Northup to take the case out of his hands on grounds of prejudice.

JUDGE KELLY. [Wallinger Photo.]

Attorneys Albert Fink and John McInerney indicated that they might take most of a week in pointing out alleged flaws which, they assert, invalidate the indictment charging Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary board during the "whoopee," era, and eight of his associates with graft, payroll padding, and waste of public funds.

Judges John Prystalski and James J. Kelly of the Criminal court will sit en banc with Judge Fisher in hearing the motions to quash the indictments, Judge Fisher stated at the opening of the session.

Judge Fisher's first action in the case was to refuse to allow Mr. Northup to file a certificate of prejudice, in which reasons were cited which the prosecutor alleged would prevent Judge Fisher from giving an impartial hearing in the trial of the case. The petition was ordered impounded.

There is on file with the clerk of the Criminal court a document amending the rules of the court, signed by twenty-nine judges, to deprive prosecutors of their previous privilege of filing such objections to the trial judge. Mr. Northup has contended, however, that the amendment was not adopted in accord with the rules of the court.

"It looks to me," he said in discussing the matter before Judge Fisher, "as if the express intention of the amendment was that it would be used in this case."

Court Raps Prosecutor.

"Let's not discuss that," said Judge Fisher sharply. "I will have to deny your motion to file the certificate."

Before defense attorneys began their arguments, Judge Fisher made an extended statement charging the prosecutor with "trying the case in the newspapers, so as to create in advance sentiment against any judge who might render decisions displeasing to the prosecution."

"The court has the power to punish for contempt," the judge said.

"As to the prosecutor [Mr. Northup], he is responsible in a great measure for some of the statements, but the court does not wish to make a martyr of him at this time."

Attacks Grand Jury System.

Attorney McInerney made the opening attack on the indictments. After calling Melzar Delano, chief clerk in the office of the Criminal court clerk, to establish the manner in which the grand jury was impaneled, he attacked that system. The practice in Cook county is to summon a venire of 100, and to pick therefrom the twenty-three grand jurors.

Mr. McInerney contended that that action is illegal, that only twenty-three men should be summoned and sworn as grand jurors, and that the error is sufficient to invalidate an indictment drawn by a grand jury selected under the other system.

Attorney Fink announced that his argument would attack the indictment as a whole, on two grounds: First, that its allegations are repugnant, that is, that its various counts make contradictory charges, against which it is impossible to prepare a defense; and, second, that the indictment is invalidated by the statute of limitations.

EDGE, BACK FROM FRANCE, DODGES SENATE GOSSIP

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Walter E. Edge, ambassador to France, arrived tonight on the S. S. Aquitania and answered questions about appointment to the United States senate by saying he intended to return to France in December. Concerning the senate seat left vacant by the death of Dwight W. Morrow, he said:

"I do not know that there is or might be any pressure to persuade me to return to the senate. I resigned voluntarily two years ago to enter the diplomatic service and I feel that my present work in France has much yet to offer me. I have no reason to delve into such unexpected possibilities as what may happen senatorially in New Jersey."

Mr. Edge said Premier Pierre Laval of France, who sailed this morning, "was kind enough to radio me from the Ile de France when we passed at sea at noon."

He expected to go to Washington within ten days, devoting the next week to the support of his friend, David Baird Jr., Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey.

How soft and fleecy they are! But why shouldn't they be? Everyone's woolens would stand year after year of washing, if only everyone knew about the purity of American Family Flakes.

"My cook and laundress are positively opposed to any other soap—for any of our household work. They find American Family Flakes makes suds more quickly, and washes faster. It rinses away so completely that our china and crystal dry sparkling-clean, and all our washables iron so much smoother. We are strong for both American Family Flakes and Soap in our house."

How do these double-sudsing twins help you save? First, in the wear of your sheets, towels, and wash garments; for these sturdier things slip through each laundering, week after week, unharmed. Second, in the beauty of your laces and silks; a soap less pure would soon cut their delicate threads. Third, in time and in soap; a little effort and these fluffy suds simply skim through your heaviest cleaning tasks.

That's why 4 out of 5 of Chicago's Gold Coast women insist on the pure double-suds of American Family Flakes and Soap. Use them to lighten work and worry—all through your household!

The Flakes—double-sudsing—the only soap trusted with the costly laundry of 4 out of 5 Gold Coast women.

The Cake Soap—double-sudsing—for ninety years used by more Chicago women than all other laundry soaps combined.

GOVERNOR TURNS CHICAGO DOWN ON RAISED HIGHWAY

Rejects All Suggestions to Start Project.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Governor Emmerson this afternoon made it plain that he will not include Chicago's elevated highway proposal in his call for a special session of legislature this fall.

"I have heard no feasible plan for financing construction this winter," he said, at the conclusion of a conference with a delegation from Chicago.

Several suggestions were advocated by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, Eugene Taylor, manager of the Chicago Plan commission; Sidney Gorham, chairman of the World's Fair traffic committee, and Al Fash, manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association.

Rejects Two Plans.

"Without any additional legislation," argued Mr. Hayes, "there is already a $7,000,000 appropriation for state construction in municipalities; would you authorize your highway department to spend a large portion of this money on a section of the elevated highway this winter."

"No," the governor replied. "The improvements you urged are of such major importance that I believe the highway department should have specific authorization from the legislature."

"The special session might adopt a special gas tax for this construction," suggested Mr. Taylor.

"I don't think you could get the necessary two-thirds majority of the assembly to approve a state-wide tax for any individual improvement," said Mr. Emmerson.

"Couldn't the special session augment the appropriation for municipal construction from the saving brought about in the reduced cost of rural construction on the bond issue system?" asked the motor club president.

Would Oppose Such Move.

"I would oppose any move that would delay or interfere with the completion of the bond issue system." The governor was emphatic. "I have taken the attitude that the people, through the $60,000,000 and the $100,000,000 bond issue elections, entered into a contract with the state to build certain roads. The bond money was not enough to build these roads. The gasoline excise was voted by the legislature to complete the job."

"We have made a careful study of the plans from the unemployment angle," Mr. Taylor said, "and have found that will full cooperation from the state administration from 10,000 to 30,000 men could be given jobs this winter."

"But do you think you could get the legislature to approve any of the plans for financing the project?" Mr. Emmerson asked.

"Let me be frank with you," said Mr. Taylor, pausing with rhetorical effectiveness. "I don't think I could get the general assembly to pass enabling legislation. But I think you could."

"The 1932 legislature is the place for your proposition," Governor Emmerson summed up his stand. "I have no doubt but what Chicago is going to get elevated highways, to be built in all probability by my successor. Continue your campaign of public education."

NEGROES ROB A JEWELER.

Three Negro robbers held up the Hirsh Jewelry store, 5000 Prairie avenue, yesterday, forced a watchmaker, Julius Gum, 735 East 61st street, to lie behind the counter, and fled with $2,500 in jewelry.

SENATE WILL BALK DEBT CANCELLATION, WATSON DECLARES

The United States senate will never consent to a cancellation of European debts to this country, Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican floor leader, told a crowd of 1,000 at a political address last night in Marquette Park, a suburb of Gary. Senator Watson is up for reelection next November.

"Premier Laval of France seems too prone to confusing debts and reparations, judging from his utterances on his visit to President Hoover," Senator Watson said. "It might be stated right now that the senate will never consent to cancellation of the war debts. I will not oppose a further extension of German reparations on the basis outlined by Mr. Hoover, but I, and a majority of my colleagues, are unalterably opposed to any scheme leading to cancellation."

Senator Watson devoted most of his address to a defense of the Smoot-Hawley tariff. He expressed gratification over the victory of Prime Minister MacDonald and the National coalition in the British general election yesterday, describing MacDonald as one of the most unselfish statesmen in the world today.

GERMANY READY TO LAUNCH MOVE FOR CUT IN DEBTS

Will Ask World Bank to Investigate.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The German foreign office expects that when Premier Laval returns to France he will inaugurate with American support what will turn out to be a re-examination of war debts as well as reparations.

This expectation, it is understood, is based in part on reports received by the foreign office from Dr. von Prittwitz-Gaffron, Germany's ambassador at Washington, covering the conference between President Hoover and the French premier. Laval now is homeward bound on the Ile de France.

Berlin Told What Is Expected.

The ambassador's reports, it was said, have enabled the German leaders to see more clearly what is expected of them by the premier and the President.

"What will probably happen," said the foreign office spokesman, "is this: Laval will ask authorization from the French cabinet to suggest to Germany that she take the initiative and ask for the appointment of a special committee from the Bank of International Settlements, as provided in the Young plan. Laval's suggestion will be seconded by the American government.

"This committee will probably soon find that the reparations question cannot be settled without also tackling war debts, so that Germany's action will logically lead to a discussion of the interallied debts."

Bruening to Act Quickly.

It was learned yesterday at the foreign office that Chancellor Bruening, acting on the joint statement issued by President Hoover and Premier Laval at the conclusion of their talks, would lose no time entering into negotiations on the reparations question.

In diplomatic circles here the most hopeful aspect of the present situation is seen in the forthcoming Washington trip of Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, who has been visiting the German chancellor.

Grandi entrained for Rome late tonight. Chancellor Bruening and officials of the foreign office were at the station to see him off.

Dentist Sued by Wife on Charge of Cruelty

Mrs. Corinne Winnifred Anderson, 7420 Eberhart avenue, yesterday filed a bill for divorce in the Circuit court, charging cruelty, against her husband, Dr. Reuben Alexander Anderson, a dentist, who has offices at 812 West 59th street. She also obtained from Judge Daniel P. Trude an injunction restraining her husband from disposing of his property pending the court hearing.

TARDY JIMMY IS LATE ESCORTING JOSEE TO LINER

So Ship Is Held 5 Hours for Laval Party.

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Ile de France sailed today with Premier Laval and his party five and a half hours late because Mr. Laval's daughter couldn't tear herself away from Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's birthday party.

The flagship of the French line was to have sailed at five minutes past midnight. But at that time Mlle. Josée Laval was dancing in the Central Park Casino with Mayor Walker to the tune of "Cupid on the Birthday Cake," and her father was watching her with an indulgent smile.

The ship waited, and it was 1:15 when Mayor Walker's car arrived with Mlle Josée. The premier's car followed, but by that time the tide was not propitious and the ship remained at her pier until 5:32.

Hoover Sends Farewells.

Today at sea the premier received messages from President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson, dispatched by radio from Washington.

"On behalf of the American people, I bid you bon voyage on your return to France from this memorable visit to the United States. It has afforded me much pleasure to welcome you among us and I personally appreciate the cordial contacts resulting from our conversations," said the President's message.

Secretary Stimson said:

"As you are about to leave our shores, I wish again to let you know what a sincere pleasure it has been to have you come to the United States as a guest of the nation. It has been a privilege which I appreciate to be able to talk with you in the atmosphere of cordiality and frankness which your visit has made possible."

Josée Not Contrite.

Mlle. Laval had no regrets for the delay in her departure. Her last five hours in this country were the happiest, she said. She had ended her five day visit with her father by attending the last act of the "Vanities" and dancing in a New York night club.

Mayor Walker escorted her and her father aboard the ship and there took ceremonious farewell of them. He spoke of what France is doing to benefit humanity and Premier Laval replied with an expression of admiration for the United States.

As the ship put out to sea hours after the Lavals had retired, it passed a glorified Statue of Liberty, flooded with light from a new system put into operation last night by a wave of Mlle. Laval's hand.

Lights Statue of Liberty.

This brief ceremony was performed on the observatory of the Empire State building. After a broadcast address, Mlle. Laval waved her hand over a silver globe and in doing so sent a radio signal to an airplane flying over the statue. A flashlight bomb dropped from the plane, acting through a photo-electric cell in Miss Liberty's hand, and turned on the powerful new lights, which make the statue visible as far as Sandy Hook.

Three American Castaways Rescued from Jungle Island

BY GERALD MARTIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD U. S. GUNBOAT SACRAMENTO, Off Cocos Islands, Oct. 27.—[Via Radio.]—Three American castaways who were shipwrecked on April 15 were rescued today by the gunboat Sacramento from the lonely Pacific island of Cocos after having lived a Robinson Crusoe life for six months. The men appeared to be in excellent physical condition. They had lived on cocoanuts, sugar cane, wild pig, and fish during their entire stay on the jungle island.

The survivors of this fantastic story are Gordon Brawner of Springfield, Ill.; Paul Stachwick of Huron, S. D., and Elmer J. Palliser of San Diego, Cal. They were cast on the island of Cocos when their yawl, West Wind, sank in a storm in April.

Clad in Loin Cloths.

Trace of the marooned men was first found several days ago by a landing party from the yacht Camargo of Julius Fleischmann of Cincinnati, O.

Today the Sacramento sighted the men on the beach and sent out a rescue party aboard a motor launch with a whale boat in tow. The boat was unable to land, however, on account of the heavy surf. The castaways then plunged into the surf and swam to the launch. Then men were clad only in loin cloths, their clothing having long since been destroyed by the hard life they had lived.

Brawner a Former Chicagoan.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The desire of a young man to adventure around the world led Gordon Brawner on the ocean voyage which resulted in the shipwreck and the marooning of himself and two other men on the lonely Cocos islands in the Pacific ocean.

His grandmother, Mrs. J. T. Greenwalt, who lives east of here, told tonight of her grandson's adventursome nature.

Brawner went to live with Mrs. Greenwalt when his mother died several years ago. In 1928 he was graduated from the Pawnee township high school and went to Chicago to work. City life palled on him, however, and he started on a proposed around-the-world trip.

KILLED BY TRAIN ON WAY TO FILE FUNERAL PAPERS

William J. Shae, 71 years old, an undertaker's assistant, was killed by a north shore electric train which struck him at the Oakton street crossing in Niles Center yesterday afternoon. In the dead man's pocket was a death certificate which he was taking to be filed in the county building. Niles Center police took the body back to the Bradley & Hafner undertaking parlor at 8017 Niles Center road, Niles Center, where Shae lived and was employed. Witnesses said Shae was walking east. The gates were down at the crossing. Shae lifted the west gate and had started across the tracks when the train hit him.

REVENUE BOARD PLAN OF FINANCE RELIEF IS READY

Report 27 Million Bonds for City Approved.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the executive committee of Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission, announced late last night that his group of eleven had completed its program of ways and means for the financial relief of the poverty stricken local government of Cook county.

He said that the program would be presented in a report to a plenary session of the commission of fifty members at the Stevens hotel at 10 o'clock Friday morning. In the meantime he and his associates declined to discuss any of the details of their final plans. They said it was their duty to report to the major body first of all.

Will Go to Governor.

After the entire commission has passed upon the report, approved it with or without change, it will forward its recommendation to Gov. Emmerson and it is expected that soon after it is received at Springfield the long awaited call for a special session of the general assembly will be issued. The best guess now is that the legislators will meet either on Nov. 12 or Nov. 16.

The windup of four months' work by the committee of eleven came at the close of an all evening session at the Union league attended by almost its entire personnel, including Samuel Insull and Omer N. Custer, chairman of the state tax commission, who had been compelled to miss many of the earlier sittings. Those present included Fred Sargent, who was ill, and Victor Olander, who has been attending the convention of the American Federation of Labor at Springfield.

Beyond saying that the report of the committee was by general agreement the best scheme of meeting the troubles of the city and county governments, the school board, and other taxing bodies, the departing members of the committee declined to answer questions concerning their numerous proposals.

Report Cermak Plan O. K.'d.

It was understood, however, that they had approved the Cermak plan to meet the emergency needs of the city government and the request of the county board as to the form of the immediate help to be given. The Cermak plan calls for bond issues of $27,000,000 without referendum—$12,000,000 as an addition to the city's working capital and $15,000,000 to cover outstanding warrants—and also for an issue of $9,000,000 to meet old bond issues that mature at the close of the year.

The county board has asked for funds amounting to $14,500,000 and the committee was said to have found the request reasonable. Nothing was learned as to the disposition of the request of the board of education that legislation be passed allowing it to issue $180,000,000 worth of bonds, of which $80,000,000 would be for building, the remainder being an increase in the working capital.

New Taxes Mentioned.

The committee already has been reported as having agreed upon several new means of increasing local governmental revenues. Among these are a state income tax, a tax on amusements, a tax on tobacco, a tax on luxuries and an increase in the tax on gasoline. To just what extent each of these various forms had been approved was not ascertained last night.

It also has been reported that the committee has taken a firm stand in demanding economy in governmental costs and that one of its proposals will be for a form of budgetary control that will have supervision of appropriations of all governments within Cook county. It also is expected that the report will insist upon reorganization of the taxing machinery.

A last minute hearing was granted by Lester L. Falk and other representatives of the Building Managers' association, who stressed the need of governmental economy.

Herb Levy, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, in reply to a telegram, received word from Gov. Emmerson that the call for the special session will be broad enough to include bills on revenue and taxation not included in the commission's report.

MARCONI TESTS OUT TRANSMISSION ON A WAVE OF 1½ FEET

SANTA MARGUERITA, Italy, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Senator William Marconi is expected to announce soon development of apparatus making possible commercial radio-telephone transmission on extremely short waves.

He has been experimenting quietly at a villa on the Ligurian coast near Genoa, installing a new transmitting apparatus there and a receiving station on the peninsula at Sestri Levante, fifteen miles away.

His secret is said to consist of transmitting on waves of only 50 centimeters, or a little more than a foot and a half. The transmitter and reflector are said to embody entirely new features.

AKRON PLACED IN COMMISSION BY THE U. S. NAVY

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The world's largest airship, the U. S. S. Akron, was placed in commission here tonight as a "ship of the line" of the United States navy. In addition to the representatives of the navy here at Lakehurst, Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics in Washington, D. C.; Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy standing on the deck of the frigate Constitution in Baltimore, took part in the ceremony of commission.

RUTH NICHOLS IS BUSY SALVAGING WRECKED PLANE

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Ruth Nichols, New York society girl flyer, was busy today trying to save parts of her plane which was wrecked and burned after she had flown 1,966 miles from Oakland, Cal., to Louisville and set a new long distance record for women.

In salvaging her plane—a Lockheed-Vega, with a Wasp engine—Miss Nichols had the advice and assistance of Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flyer, who came here by plane to help her. Whether an effort will be made to reconstruct the plane has not been determined.

Miss Nichols estimated the damage to her plane at $15,000. She and Chamberlin will probably leave for New York tomorrow by rail, she said tonight.

Examination of the plane indicated that the fire started from a dump valve, while Miss Nichols was warming up the motor, preparing to take off. She did not realize the plane was afire until smoke curled up into the cockpit. Burdened with a parachute and hampered by a steel corset which she has been compelled to wear since her accident in June when she was trying to hop off to fly the Atlantic, Miss Nichols clambered out of the cockpit. She was hardly on the ground when the ship was all ablaze.

ADMITS HELPING MRS. JUDD KILL 2 PHŒNIX WOMEN

Mystery Man Surrenders to Long Beach Police.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—An amazing confession, purportedly placing the Phoenix-Los Angeles "trunk murders" in a new and entirely different light, startled police tonight, following the voluntary surrender of a mysterious transient describing himself as "Fred Williams."

GOV. JAMES ROLPH JR.

The prisoner asserted he had an equal hand with Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd in the Phoenix murders of Agnes Leroi and Hedwig Samuelson. Mrs. Judd shot only Miss Samuelson, Williams declared. He said he himself killed Mrs. Agnes Anne Leroi. After grilling the confessor for hours the police expressed disbelief in the man's story.

Walks Into Police Station.

Williams told his story first to Long Beach police, after walking voluntarily and calmly into the police station. He said he met Mrs. Judd at Phoenix on Friday, Oct. 16, and after spending some time with her, said he accompanied her, at her invitation, to the Leroi-Samuelson bungalow. Miss Samuelson, on their arrival, was alone in the house.

Two hours later Mrs. Leroi returned, Williams said. An argument came up, he said, over his use of Spanish words, and Miss Samuelson finally ordered him and Mrs. Judd to leave the house.

"Mrs. Judd resented this and a struggle followed," police quoted Williams. "Then Mrs. Judd drew a gun and shot Miss Samuelson. But the struggle continued and the gun was dropped. I picked it up and shot Mrs. Leroi. Then I helped Mrs. Judd place both bodies on the twin beds and after this was done, I fled. I took no part in packing the bodies in the trunks."

William said he hitch-hiked his way to Los Angeles. Mrs. Judd's attorney said his client did not know Williams and that the man's story was either an aberration or a hoax.

Mrs Judd May Plead Insanity.

Counsel for Mrs. Judd greeted information from Sacramento that Gov. James Rolph Jr. had signed papers extraditing Mrs. Judd to Arizona, with an announcement foretelling a change in her legal plans. From a plea of direct self-defense she will shift to self defense, with emotional insanity, according to Louis P. Russill, attorney for Mrs. Judd, when the trial begins in Arizona. He said he had conferred with alienists and they may examine Mrs. Judd.

Mrs. Judd had no legal representative at Sacramento, where the Arizona extradition papers went through hands of the secretary of state, and two deputy attorneys-general, and later were forwarded to Gov. James Rolph for his signature in San Francisco. However, Attorney Russill said the papers were faulty and that he would force a court review of them through habeas corpus proceedings. Unless a court intervenes, Mrs. Judd will be on the way back to Phoenix tomorrow.

Mrs. Judd was removed from hospital ward of the jail for the second time in two days. She was taken to the city jail booking office in a police patrol, and finger printed as No. 39995M13.

Sweeping reductions in air passenger fares averaging 14 per cent for one-way and 25 per cent for round trip travel have been placed in effect on the Eastern Transport system, operating between New York, Washington, Atlanta, Jacksonville, and Miami. The reduction was due to a 300 per cent increase in passenger volume since Jan. 1, and 250,000 pounds more air mail carried so far this year than during all of 1930. Curtiss Condor planes with a capacity of eighteen passengers each are used on the line.

HOOVER LEARNS HIS CREDIT POOL SPURS BUSINESS

President Expects It to Restore Confidence.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The first results flowing from the formation of the bankers' half billion dollar credit pool have served to strengthen the belief of President Hoover that a general return of business confidence now is in sight.

Within the last three days bankers associated with the organization of the pool have reported to the President that the credit extension plan already has been of help in strengthening the banking structure and in the restoration of business confidence.

George Reynolds of Chicago, chairman of the board of the National Credit corporation, and Mortimer N. Buckner, its president, advised President Hoover during conferences over the week-end that the whole country has rallied back of the new credit plan so enthusiastically that it will be fully subscribed by the end of this week.

Can Subscribe Up to Billion.

The first capital goal for the corporation was set at 500 millions, although it is authorized to receive subscriptions up to a billion dollars.

New evidence of White House confidence that better times are on the way came today with the disclosure that President Hoover is eliminating new construction projects as far as possible from the 1933 fiscal budget. This is being done, according to close advisers of Mr. Hoover, in the belief that business conditions will have improved so much by the first of next July that it no longer will be necessary for the government to push its emergency relief construction to the limit.

Virtually all departments carrying on new construction or building projects are feeling the effects of the attack against high federal expenditures. It is understood the plans call for slashing all army housing projects almost to the zero point, while new construction work of various kinds planned by the navy, interior, and commerce departments radically are being cut. Unless business conditions fail to improve it is apparent that the government will ask congress to hold down new construction projects as far as possible during the 1933 fiscal year beginning July 1.

Explore Budget Estimates.

During the next two weeks the budget director's office will complete its exploration of departmental budget estimates and make a preliminary report to President Hoover. Efforts now are being made to trim something like 200 millions from budget estimates already submitted. The plan is to take about one-third of this amount from the army and navy estimates. The navy asked 401 millions and expects to receive a little in excess of 340 millions. The army had 324 millions last year and will receive in the neighborhood of 300 millions this year, exclusive of any amounts which may be voted for army housing.

The commerce department as well as the department of agriculture also have been slashed. The agriculture department is cutting down on the number of publications issued. The publicity fund also is being reduced. The justice department, which includes prohibition, does not anticipate any drastic cuts.

Rob Cafe in Which Sheriff and 80 Officers Are Dining

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—While Sheriff William I. Traeger and eighty members of the Los Angeles County Peace Officers' association were banqueting in Marchetti's café on Western avenue, Hollywood, last night robbers entered the place, intimidated the cashiers and a waiter and took $100. The officers never knew anything about it until the robbers drove off.

GETS DIVORCE

MRS. JUANITA F. HOLLEARN. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Juanita F. Hollearn, 32 years old, 401 Fullerton parkway, formerly of the Ziegfield Follies, was granted an uncontested divorce by Circuit Judge Daniel Trude in his chambers yesterday from Frank J. Hollearn, manager of the Philadelphia office of the Diamond T Motor Truck company. She received a settlement of $10,000 in cash and securities. Mrs. Hollearn charged desertion.

Hollearn was captain of the Notre Dame university football team in 1912. Mrs. Hollearn is a sister of Robert Woolsey, film comedian. Her request that she be allowed to resume her maiden name of Woolsey was granted by Judge Trude. Mrs. Hollearn played with Raymond Hitchcock in "Hitchy Koo."

The couple met at the Kentucky Derby in Louisville in 1916. They separated on Aug. 1, 1929. Mrs. Hollearn was represented by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

Refused a New Coat, Girl Shoots Herself

Angry because her mother refused to purchase her a new winter coat, Helen Schneider, 23 years old, shot herself below the heart with a pistol yesterday in her home at 1144 Carmen avenue. Physicians at the Illinois Masonic hospital pronounced her condition serious. The mother, Mrs. Helen Schneider, has been supporting herself and two daughters from her earnings as an employe of the telephone company.

100 MILWAUKEE OFFICIALS VISIT COUNTY FORESTS

Cook and DuPage Officers Are Hosts.

One hundred Wisconsin officials representing the Milwaukee county park commission and the county board of supervisors made a conducted tour of inspection of the forest preserves in the Chicago area yesterday. The party, under the command of W. F. McGovern, president of the park commission, and William McCarthy, chairman of the board of supervisors, were the guests of Cook and Du Page county officials.

In charge of the tour and leading the 95 official hosts of the two counties were President Emmett Whealan of the Cook county board of supervisors; President W. H. Blodgett of the Du Page county forest preserve commission, and Robert Kingery of the Chicago Regional Planning association.

Route of Guest Officials.

The tour started at 10 o'clock, when the Wisconsin party was met by a motor caravan at the Howard street station of the North Shore lines. The route followed Howard avenue to McCormick road, south to Devon avenue, west to Waukegan road, north to Dempster street, west to River road, and south and west through the forest preserves and over the state roads.

More than fifty places of interest were visited during the tour. At each the official hosts showed the guests the buildings and equipment.

In the forest preserves the type of tree planting was explained by Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent of the Cook county forest preserve district. In this program 700,000 small forest trees were set out during the last year. A careful inspection was made of the bank planting on fills and deep cuts made for highway purposes.

Visit Swimming Pools.

Among other points visited were golf courses, the swimming pool at Cermak park in Lyons, the new swimming pool and bathhouse under construction at Devon and Milwaukee avenues, the new shelter and recreation pavilion in Thatcher woods and the system of comfort stations and auto parking spaces throughout the preserves. The visitors expressed especial interest in the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital.

Extending as far as Lombard in Du Page county the tour returned through Oak Park, with an inspection trip to the Chicago Zoological society grounds at Riverside. At a luncheon in the Carleton hotel in Oak Park some of the Milwaukee officials responded to addresses of welcome.

SAVE CREW OF 19 AS FREIGHTER IS SPLIT IN TWO BY COLLISION

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The freighter City of Stamford, inbound from Stamford, Conn., collided with the tugboat Eilin M. Ronan in the East river today, split in two and plunged to the bottom off the north east tip of Welfare island.

The screaming sirens of the freighter and the tug brought other nearby craft to the rescue. As the steamer, her back broken, settled before her final plunge, the crew of fifteen and their four officers scrambled from her stern onto the decks of the other boats. All were saved.

Lines fastened to the City of Stamford enabled the rescue craft to pull her from the ninety foot deep channel where she and the tug crashed to the east channel on the Queens side of Welfare island, where the water is only thirty feet deep.

Ernest E. Fuchs, vice president and general manager of the Thames River line, owners of the City of Stamford, said the craft carried a cargo worth between $30,000 and $40,000.

This afternoon, another collision sent a second boat to the bottom of the river. The tugboat N. John Barrett was rammed by another and went down. No one was injured.

CZECHO-SLOVAKS WILL CELEBRATE INDEPENDENCE

The thirteenth anniversary of Czecho-Slovakian independence will be observed at 7:30 o'clock tonight with a celebration in the Sokol Slavsky hall, 22d street and Lombard avenue, Cicero. Among the speakers will be Mayor Cermak, John Cervenka, former city treasurer; Dr. George Kolumbatovitch, Yuyo-Slavian consul; and Dr. Jaroslav Smetanka, Czecho-Slovakian consul. Two films will be shown, the first portraying the life of Thomas Mazaryk, founder of the Czecho-Slovakian republic, and the second depicting the battles of the Czecho-Slovak legions in their struggle with the bolsheviks in Russia from 1917 to 1919.

FACTOR OFFERS $2,000,000 TO PAY LAWSUITS

Lawyer Makes Argument in Extradition Fight.

Senator Otis F. Glenn late yesterday concluded final arguments in defense of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, whose extradition is being sought by Great Britain. It is charged that he defrauded English investors of $7,000,000 in the sale of stock in worthless mining properties in Africa. The senator's voice arrested the attention of dozens of homeward bound employés, who paused to listen outside the small courtroom of United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, where the hearing has been in progress, intermittently, since Factor's arrest here last May.

Factor, who worked in a Halsted street barber shop 15 years ago, listened intently as his counsel declared him to be innocent of the charge brought by the British crown. He nodded vigorously when Senator Glenn said: "Mr. Factor, here and now, in open court, goes on record as willing to post $2,000,000 to assure payment of any successful civil suit brought against him by the plaintiffs in this case."

Plea Against Extradition.

In his plea in behalf of the alleged swindler, Senator Glenn pointed out that the offense with which Factor is charged in England is not a crime under the statutes of Illinois, and is therefore not extraditable.

"Were the circumstances reversed," Senator Glenn shouted, "England would never permit the extradition of the defendant to this country unless the United States charged him with a crime that was recognized as such in London."

The senator characterized the British government's case against Factor as "pitifully weak" and as one which would be "thrown out the window" if presented to any grand jury in Illinois.

British Arguments Today.

Final arguments for Great Britain will be made today by Attorney Franklin R. Overmyer. If ordered extradited, Factor will be barred from reentering the United States even though he may be acquitted in England of the charges now pending against him.

Factor was not placed in jail following his arrest, as is customary, but was allowed to remain in his luxurious apartment in a loop hotel from which he goes and comes about as he pleases, accompanied by a deputy United States marshal.

Air Liner Forced Down in Indiana; None Hurt

Officials of the United Air lines here announced last evening that their trimotored Ford plane carrying mail and passengers to New York had been forced down on a farm near Helmer, Ind., due to a defective control wire. Neither the pilot, Ralph Reed, the copilot, Charles Wheeler, nor the passengers, B. J. Krieth of Massillon, O., and W. A. Starrett of New York, were injured, the announcement said. All four were to have been picked up at Helmer by the regular 4 p. m. plane, leaving Chicago airport two hours after the disabled plane.

It mars your looks

Ordinary dandruff can be checked and often cured entirely by the frequent, systematic use of full strength Listerine.

You simply douse it on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously. Keep the treatment up several days. Within two weeks you will be delighted with results.

If infection is present on the surfaces of the skin, Listerine attacks it. A powerful germicide, it kills bacteria in 15 seconds, the fastest killing time scientifically recorded by science.

Listerine helps to dissolve ugly crusts and quickly removes them, as well as horny scales. And Listerine quickly relieves that burning, itching sensation. It soothes inflamed or irritated areas of the scalp.

If scalp is excessively dry, a little Listerine may be used in connection with the Listerine shampoo, or before part of it. The oil aids in dissolving crusts and scales and keeps hair from drying out. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

SUPREME COURT LISTENS TO LIFE FOR PINT APPEAL

Palm's Conviction Called Illegal.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Fred Palm, Michigan's original life for a pint convict, who is still serving out a commuted sentence of from 7½ to 15 years in Jackson prison, was sent to a prison cell by a procedure which involved several unconstitutional steps, according to A. Stanley Copeland, Buffalo, N. Y., who appeared in Palm's behalf today before the Michigan Supreme court.

Copeland, who is not an attorney, nevertheless presented highly technical arguments in asking the court to order Palm freed under a writ of habeas corpus. Copeland voluntarily took up the task of freeing Palm shortly after the "life for a pint law" victim received his extreme sentence in 1927.

Pressed Previous Appeal.

He once carried an appeal to the Supreme court, but obtained an adverse verdict. He presented new phases of the case today in urging that the court direct a writ against Warden Harry Jackson of Jackson prison demanding Palm's release on the ground that he has been illegally imprisoned.

Copeland contended that Palm could not legally be charged with possession of the pint of gin which brought him originally a life term because he was never indicted by a grand jury. The constitution of 1835, he emphasized, specifically stated that persons charged with felonies could be tried, with a few exceptions, only after return of an indictment by a grand jury. He said this provision of the constitutional bill of rights was not repealed, either by implication or direct act, by the adoption of the constitution of 1850.

Palm's champion also maintained that the law defining possession of liquor as a felony was an ex post facto law, and hence unconstitutional and not binding on any convicted person.

May Lose Good Time.

Emerson R. Boyles, deputy attorney general, appeared for the state, nominally representing the prison warden. He told the court that the state is not now operating under the constitutions of 1835 and 1850, that a statute exists allowing conviction of a criminal offense without indictment by grand jury, and that the act declaring possession of liquor to be a felony has been upheld as constitutional by the Supreme court.

It was disclosed today that there is considerable doubt if Palm can be released unless the current action succeeds before he has served out the full 7½ years of his present sentence.

GOVERNMENT TURNS 2 DRY LAW GUNMEN OVER TO MICHIGAN

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The federal government today capitulated to the demands of the state of Michigan in the investigation of the shooting Sept. 20 of Frank Ramsay by a United States customs border patrolman.

COL. HEINRICH A. PICKERT.

Acting on instructions understood to have come direct from Secretary Mellon or Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman, Col. Heinrich A. Pickert, collector of customs, retracted his former defiance and the two customs agents and two federal surgeons under fire for the hushed up shooting surrendered to Assistant County Prosecutor George Fitzgerald.

The agents were Vaughan Webster and Mathew Kononen. Webster admitted it was a shot from his gun that wounded Ramsay, but said he was firing into the air while running after Ramsay and slipped on a wet spot, causing his aim to go wild.

Drs. L. G. Linson, chief of staff, and Roy Metz of the Marine hospital, where Ramsay was treated without a report being made to state authorities as provided by the new Michigan criminal code which went into effect Sept. 18, told Fitzgerald they didn't know of the regulation and that they defied his efforts to question them upon advice of William G. Comb, assistant United States attorney.

GIRL CAST OFF AS DRY INFORMER IS DEAD BY SUICIDE

Life Wrecked by Record as Snooper.

Wellsville, N. Y., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The body of 18 year old Mary Booth lies in the home of her parents at Middaugh Hill, near Belmont. She killed herself by shooting.

It was not so long ago that Mary left home to come to Wellsville, to find work. Some time later she was offered a job. The Alleghany county officials hired her to accompany officers and "front" for them to gain admission to speakeasies and beer flats in the towns and villages of the county.

She was a success from the start and the evidence the officers gained through her resulted in the closing of a number of places.

Value Soon Is Ended.

But soon she became known as the "Buy Girl" and "The Informer" and her value to the dry raiders was gone.

She no longer was able to gain admission to resorts the officials wanted to close and she was summarily dropped from the service.

Her reputation by that time prevented her from obtaining other work and she had made many enemies. One of these enemies caused her to be "taken for a ride" a few months ago. She was forced to accompany three men on a wild automobile ride during the course of which acid was thrown on her. The burns she suffered then kept her confined in a hospital. Those on her left arm never entirely healed.

Arrested After Joy Ride.

Mary drifted over to Olean. She went riding with an Olean man Friday night. In a lonely road ten miles from the city, she eluded her companion and drove off, leaving him to walk back to Olean police headquarters to claim the car.

About midnight she was stopped by Olean police. They locked her up on a disorderly conduct charge.

Saturday she went on a hunger strike after Judge Dennis W. Keating sentenced her to a year in the county penitentiary. The judge told her, however, she would be released if her parents would claim her. She refused to eat and drink from that moment.

"I came to Olean six weeks ago when my parents kicked me out of the house," Mary told Judge Keating.

Coroner Halsey E. Cooley, Wellsville, said he would issue a certificate of death by suicide.

SKILL OF PILOT SAVES WAR DEPARTMENT OFFICIAL FROM INJURY

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Skillful flying by his army pilot saved F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war in charge of aeronautics, from possible critical injury today when the Lockheed monoplane bringing him to New York from Washington was landed at Mitchel field without the use of its landing gear.

The pilot, Lieut. Elwood Quesada, landed the ship on its fuselage when the retractable landing gear failed to function. Landing at exactly the right angle, the ship slithered across the field on the fuselage and right wing for a short distance, and neither Mr. Davison nor the pilot suffered more than a shaking up.

$50,000 BAIL SET FOR DEFENDANT ON RAPE CHARGE

Accused with 2 Others in Attack on Girls.

Charles Latronica, 24 years old, 6943 South Wood street, was held in $50,000 bond yesterday on charges of rape and the kidnaping of two girls who were taken to a barn on a farm near Joliet and attacked. He was arraigned before Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court. Latronica was arrested last week. His co-defendants, Russell Kelly, 16 years old, and David Flanigan, 21, had been captured previously. The trial of the trio was set for Nov. 10.

The crime was committed on July 10, just a few weeks after Latronica's brother, Dominick, 20 years old, a beer runner, had been taken for a ride and killed with Joel Bartel. Both bodies were found in a prairie near Willow Springs.

Captive Gives Clews.

An 18 year old youth of the neighborhood was arrested about that time for stealing an automobile. He sought leniency by telling about a gang of youthful murderers. He named two men, one known only as Harding, and the other Ed Pulaski, as the killers of Latronica and Bartel, and he said the pair had been killed because they had taken part in the murder of Edward Fitzgerald, one of Frank McErlane's beer lieutenants.

On the information of this youth police raided a basement at 6737 South Paulina street and seized three youths, who had two submachine guns, two stolen police shotguns, and a quantity of dynamite and grenades. The youth said he told Charles Latronica of the identity of Dominick's murderers and that Charles appealed to the three other youths, Michael Mattola, William Archer, and Roy Anderson, for help in avenging the killing.

Seize Youth on Farm.

Following information obtained from those arrests the police raided a farm home near Orland suspected of being the place where McErlane tortured his gang enemies into giving him information about murders and beer transactions. There the police found Russell Kelly. Through his arrest on July 31 the identity of the attackers of the two girls was obtained.

MANGANO DENIES THAT HE WANTS CAPONE'S THRONE

'King for a Day? Not Me,' Says Dago Lawrence.

Significant words were uttered yesterday by "Dago Lawrence" Mangano when he was asked in the office of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker if he is to succeed Al Capone as titular head of the booze, gambling and vice syndicate.

"I don't want to be king for a day," Mangano said with a characteristic shrug that implied he would expect to be killed if he assumed the reins of leadership.

"How will they go about selecting Capone's successor?" Chief Schoemaker asked. "Will they call a meeting of the board of directors of the syndicate?"

Mangano did not reply.

Public Enemy No. 4.

"What is your number as a public enemy?" Chief Schoemaker asked.

Mangano grinned. He is 41 years old, suave and sleek, and evidenced no shame at the stigma of being termed a public enemy.

"I guess I'm No. 28," he replied. Chief Schoemaker sent for his records.

"No, you're No. 4," Mangano was told. "Capone is No. 1, and his lieutenants on the north, south and west sides are next in order."

There have been reports that Sicilians from New York have been arriving in Chicago and that under Mangano's leadership they have been planning to form a new syndicate to carry on where Capone leaves off. Mangano had sent an attorney to Chief Schoemaker to say that Mangano would "come in whenever you want to see him," but this move didn't prevent Mangano's arrest on Monday while he was in a barber shop for a shave.

Ordered Out of West Side.

"You're going to be arrested every time any of my men see you," Chief Schoemaker informed Mangano. "And if they don't see you I'll get some squads over there on the west side who will find you. You've got to get out of there."

"But that's my happy hunting grounds," Mangano protested.

"I know it's your hunting grounds, but you'll do no more hunting over there," said Schoemaker.

"This is just politics," Mangano asserted. "I'm a Republican and you're a Democrat. I have to stay in the 27th ward."

"There never was any politics involved with me," Schoemaker retorted. "For a long time I was in command of districts where I didn't encounter you. Now I have the whole city for a district."

By this time Chief Schoemaker was looking over the police record sheet on Mangano.

"You served time in 1911 for pandering," the chief remarked. "If you would take money from women you would steal from anybody. How many times have I arrested you?"

"O, if you kept track of those pickups you'd have about twenty-five sheets," said Mangano.

"Remember the time you had me in and that guy pointed me out as one of the guys in the Rondout mail train robbery?" Mangano asked. "I said, 'You are a lying son of a gun'; and he said, 'Now I'm sure of you.' That's a funny sensation, gentlemen. I had to put up over $100,000 in bonds. Then when I appeared before the commissioner he said, 'You are discharged.' That was a relief."

How He Escaped Charges.

"How did you beat those burglary charges and other indictments?" Schoemaker asked. "It must have cost a lot of money to get those cases stricken off."

"O, they were all bum raps and I had good lawyers," Mangano explained.

"Why did you kill Mike De Pike Heitler?" said Schoemaker. A purported Heitler letter named Mangano as one of the men seeking to kill him.

"He must have done something wrong," Mangano said, evading the direct question.

U. S. Unable to Find Star Witness.

The liquor conspiracy cases against Ralph Capone, Al's brother, and seventeen of his benchmen were continued by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday. Assistant United State's District Attorney Victor E. La Rue asked the continuance on the plea that an important prosecution witness was missing, perhaps "taken for a ride" to prevent his testimony.

RALPH CAPONE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The missing witness is Ted Moore, who transported liquor from Canada to this country for the Capone syndicate and became an informant when caught by the government.

Two Other Witnesses Slain.

Government prosecutors lost two other important witnesses against Capone when John I. Wilson and Walter N. Gilbert, special prohibition agents, were shot and killed near Fort Wayne, Ind., on July 22 by George Adams, a bootlegger. Wilson, Gilbert, and Moore made buys at Ralph's Cicero cafés, the Cotton club and the Montmartre, which were raided on several occasions.

Special prohibition agents have been trying to find Moore for several months. According to the agents, Moore has either been slain or has been intimidated.

At the request of Prosecutor La Rue, Judge Lindley ruled the cases could be called for trial on five days' notice to the defendants.

Bare Rum Running Methods.

Ralph Capone was first indicted on the liquor charges on May 28, 1930. At this time the methods of the Capone syndicate in spiriting liquor from Canada to a base near Detroit and thence to Chicago by trucks was revealed. Eight of Ralph's associates were indicted with him.

A reindictment of Ralph and seventeen others was obtained by federal prosecutors in December of 1930. Sale of liquor in Ralph's night clubs was included in the charges in this indictment.

File Tax Case Brief.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—How Ralph Capone tried to evade payment of the income tax assessed against him by pleading that race horses and racing losses kept him poor, was revealed today in the government's brief filed in opposition to Capone's appeal for a Supreme court review of his case.

The judgment sought to be reviewed is that of the Circuit Court of Appeals which last July upheld the District court's judgment, finding Capone guilty and sentencing him to three years imprisonment and to pay a $10,000 fine.

POLICE CHIEF NOT GUILTY IN ASSAULT CASE

Albert A. Terry, chief of police of Midlothian, was found not guilty of assaulting Dr. C. E. Steckbauer, 6137 Kenwood avenue, by Judge John Prystalski of the Criminal court during a bench trial yesterday.

Dr. Steckbauer exhibited a scar on his forehead as proof of his contention that Terry had beaten him with a blackjack. The trouble occurred when Dr. Steckbauer failed to come to a dead stop at a stop light.

Chief Terry told the court that he struck the physician with a blackjack on the hands. This was done to make Dr. Steckbauer loosen his grip on the steering wheel, Terry testified. "Although the police chief went a little too far, none the less he had some provocation for striking the complainant,' said Judge Prystalski. "I know of no law which would direct that the defendant be found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon in this case."

ROBS SHOE STORE OF $93.

CAPONE TO STAY IN COUNTY JAIL; BAIL IS REFUSED

Judge Alschuler comes from Aurora, Judge Evans from Baraboo, Wis., and Judge Sparks from Rushville, Ind., so that each of the three states in the 7th circuit is represented on the Appellate bench.

Ahern Gets Assurance.

After the order of the court had been read Attorney Ahern asked:

"Will that prevent us from asking for a vacation of the supersedeas?"

"Certainly not," replied Judge Alschuler.

"We may decide to go down to Washington and ask Justice Van Devanter for bail," continued Ahern. "In the event bail were denied, we should wish to have the supersedeas order vacated so that the defendant could begin serving his penitentiary sentence and get credit for it."

"You may apply for a vacation of the order at any time," said Judge Alschuler.

Appeal Is Docketed.

Two hours ater the decision of the court was announced, a law clerk from Mr. Ahern's office called at the office of the clerk of the Appellate court, presented Clerk Fred G. Campbell a certified copy of Judge Wilkerson's judgment and order allowing the appeal, and paid him $25, the initial fee. The appeal had been docketed, and the order of the Appellate court was entered.

Under the terms of the Appellate court's order, Capone's appeal may be disposed of within two months, federal prosecutors said. The defense must file its bill of exceptions and the record in the case, which will be bound with the assignment of errors, with expedition.

See Ruling in Two Months.

Since the government is allowed only fifteen days after the defense brief is received to file its own brief, the defense lawyers probably will not be allowed more than three weeks to file theirs, the prosecutors stated. This would be five weeks and the case would be argued immediately. The court probably would take it under advisement and a decision would be forthcoming about three weeks later.

The prosecutors said no immediate action toward collecting Capone's $50,000 fine and the costs of the prosecution, estimated at $30,000, would be taken. The only step that could be taken by the department of justice would be a levy on Capone's property, and this is already tied up by a prior lien filed by the treasury department, claiming some $137,000 in delinquent income taxes.

The usual procedure in such a case is to delay action on the fine until the defendant has served his sentence.

Capone's Routine in Jail.

While Capone's lawyers are working for him, he remains in his hospital ward cell on the fifth floor of the jail, with his bodyguard, Philip D'Andrea, who is a contempt of court prisoner. He eats the jail's cornmeal mush or oatmeal with his morning coffee and stewed fruit, butter and bread with his evening tea, but has his luncheon sent in by his family, a privilege accorded all prisoners.

court as those present reflected on the tragedy that accompanies the separation of a literary guy from his books. Druggan shaded his eyes with his hand as he reflected on such a sorrowful possibility.

"There aren't any de luxe editions that might bring in about $25,000?" queried the judge, suspiciously.

Just Personal Books.

The judge lifted an eyebrow. The spectators tried to imagine Mr. Druggan curled upon a cozy lounge with a good book.

"Well," said the judge, finally, "you can have your personal books. I guess there's no objection to that."

Druggan murmured his gratitude. His voice throughout the hearing was low and gentle and frequently tinged with that English accent. He showed a preference for using the word "either" pronounced "ey-ther," and his repeated use of the word fostered a suspicion in some of the cynical hearers that this booklover had but recently learned the drawing room pronunciation.

In addition to the cash payment, Druggan said he would assign to the receiver two accounts in his name with a total balance of $6,582. This sum, added to the cash, made a total of $9,082 paid upon his $17,000 debt.

"I think we ought to hear again from Mr. Druggan in three weeks," remarked the judge. "We have enjoyed this visit very much. Let us issue an invitation to him to appear again on Nov. 17."

The court then tried to discover from Druggan the whereabouts of his brother, Willie, who owes the bank $3,500. A subpoena has been issued for Willie, but a deputy sheriff cannot find him.

"I'd need about a week to find Willie," said Terry. "I might be able to reach him on the phone."

"You advise him to come in," said the judge. Druggan said he would do so.

Denies Paying Commissions.

Druggan denied he had paid any commissions to Andrew Dressel, president of the bank, in order to obtain loans on unsecured notes.

"But of course I can't say that positively," said the wary witness out of his long experience in the courts. "Because I wouldn't want to have some one come in and prove that I did."

"And tell your friends not to interfere with the receiver in his management of your apartment," said the judge in parting. He referred to Louis Clusman, self-styled broker, who said he had bought the apartment and furnishings from Druggan six months ago for $3,000 cash. Clusman was warned not to press his claims.

Let's talk Straight from the Shoulder

WHAT'S the net of this cigarette question? Let's lay the facts face up.

What you want in a cigarette is taste. You want mildness . . . smoothness . . . and pleasure when you smoke.

You rule out harshness, bitterness and bite.

IT'S no secret that Chesterfield pays top prices . . . yes, and a premium for the ripest, mellowest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows.

But it makes Chesterfields taste better and smoke smoother . . . and that to us is a justifiable extravagance.

The men who do the curing and conditioning are specialists, too . . . carefully trained in handling these fine tobaccos.

• • •

IN BLENDING, Chesterfields are also different.

Instead of merely mixing the tobaccos together . . . we cross-blend them. It's like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco—a tobacco with greater smoothness, more mildness, and a more pleasing aroma. That's how we get that Chesterfield flavor. Milder . . . riper . . . mellower.

What about cigarette paper? . . . That's part of the story, too. Only the best that's made—the purest and finest—is good enough for Chesterfield.

Pick up a package. Note its clean appearance . . . free from heavy inks. And it's moisture-proof.

And three big factories at Richmond, Durham and San Francisco—operating under the strictest sanitary standards—rush them fresh to you.

Good . . . they've got to be good. Because they're made that way.

And most important of all . . . you can taste this goodness in the cigarette. You can tell it in the smoke.

Light up, Mister! Try Chesterfield.

Let the cigarette do its own talking. You'll get the whole thrilling story, in just two words . . . "They Satisfy"!

"Yes Sir—Mild yet they Satisfy"

SORE THROAT

There's a world of winter comfort in Bayer Aspirin tablets. If you take them only to break-up colds, you know only half the story. Three tablets crushed in a little water will relieve the sorest throat with one good gargle. That's what the specialists use in cases of sore throat. That's what you ought to use at home—every time you want throat comfort and protection from infection. Remember, every case of tonsilitis began with just a sore throat! Don't neglect any sore throat. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at the first tickling felt. Take a couple of tablets for that headache that comes with a cold—for neuralgia, neuritis, or similar pain. If it's genuine Bayer, it can't hurt the heart.

JUDGE PROBES D'ANDREA CASE; DECISION TODAY

Capone Gunman Throws Self on Court's Mercy.

The contempt of court case against Philip D'Andrea, Al Capone's bodyguard, for toting a gun in Federal Judge Wilkerson's court during the Capone income tax trial was thoroughly examined yesterday. At the conclusion of testimony Judge Wilkerson said he would dispose of the case at 10 o'clock this morning.

Judge Wilkerson took an active part in the questioning, particularly when D'Andrea took the witness stand and threw himself on the mercy of the court. The judge seemed most interested in determining if the bodyguard appeared in court with Capone as a member of his organization.

D'Andrea took refuge behind his disputed claim that he is a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court and is therefore entitled to carry arms.

Laubenheimer First Witness.

United States Marshal Laubenheimer was the first witness called after Judge Wilkerson had disposed of motions in other cases pending before him. Assistant United States Attorney Jacob I. Grossman conducted the marshal's examination.

Marshal Laubenheimer said that on the second day of the Capone trial he told Defense Attorney Michael J. Ahern the court had given instructions that Capone would not be allowed to enter the federal building with armed guards.

"Ahern just shook his head when I told him," said Laubenheimer, adding that Capone was immediately behind his lawyer when the statement was made.

Q.—And you spoke loudly? A.—I did.

Inspects D'Andrea's Back.

Q.—Did you ever examine D'Andrea for arms? A.—About an hour before he was arrested I saw him in the hallway and I looked at him closely. His back was toward me and he wore a tight fitting coat. It was hard to tell if he had a gun.

Q.—Did you see any guards with Capone? A.—I saw D'Andrea. He always followed Capone.

Q.—Did you see any other guards? A.—I saw Lieut. McCarthy, and I was informed that he had a squad of police with him.

Attorney Ahern cross-examined Marshal Laubenheimer.

Q.—You told me that you believed the judge would revoke Capone's bail if police officers continued to follow him to the court? A.—Yes, I told you that Capone could not have armed guards.

Q.—Did you talk with McCarthy? A.—Yes, and he told me that he had been sent by the city to precede Capone to the court and to direct traffic in front of the building.

Agent Wilson on Stand.

Prosecutor Grossman called Agent Frank J. Wilson of the special intelligence unit, bureau of internal revenue, to the stand. Wilson is given credit for most of the work leading to the indictment of Capone.

He told of hearing the court state that no armed guards would be allowed in the courtroom. This was at the preliminary hearing on July 30 which resulted in Capone's withdrawing his plea of guilty to the tax evasion charge.

"Yes," said Judge Wilkerson, leaning over the bench and speaking with vigor, "and the court made repeated inquiries about it."

Wilson then told of arresting D'Andrea on Oct. 10 as he left the courtroom. The appearance of D'Andrea's clothing led him to believe D'Andrea was carrying a gun, Wilson said.

Q. [by Mr. Grossman]—Did you ask him if he had a pistol? A.—I did. He said "No" at first and then admitted that he did have one. I asked him to hand it over.

Q.—Was it loaded? A.—It was, and he also gave me six extra cartridges from his vest pocket. It was a .32 caliber Colt revolver.

On cross-examination Mr. Ahern asked to see the gun. Special Intelligence Agent James N. Sullivan took it from an envelope and handed it over. With an apology to the court for turning his back, Mr. Ahern swung about so that Wilson could not watch him and placed the gun in his waistband approximately where Wilson had said D'Andrea had been carrying it. Then he buttoned his coat and walked to the witness stand.

Mr. Ahern unbuttoned his coat and repeated the question. Wilson said he couldn't tell, adding that D'Andrea's clothing had been tighter than Ahern's.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Grossman two days before D'Andrea's arrest that he had a gun on him? A.—No.

MR. GROSSMAN—Some agent said to me: "How can D'Andrea get away with carrying a gun into the courtroom?"

MR. AHERN [to Wilson]—You wouldn't have believed D'Andrea if he had said he didn't have a gun? A.—No.

Judge Wilkerson Interrupts.

Here Judge Wilkerson interrupted, speaking with feeling.

"It came to the attention of the court," he said, "that the defendant [Capone] had been coming in and out of the courtroom with armed guards. The court would order the courtroom searched now if there should be a suspicion that there are armed men in it."

Judge Wilkerson paused a moment, then continued: "Probably the only mistake that was made—and we learn as we grow older—was that when it came to our attention we didn't put the entrances of the building under the control of that branch of the government which is charged with the protection of the court."

MR. AHERN—I could kick myself for not thinking that D'Andrea might have had a gun. I regret exceedingly that I didn't ask him. I asked Capone in my office one day if he had a gun. He said he hadn't and I advised against it because it would be contempt of court. If D'Andrea had been there then, I would have told him the same thing.

Admits Capone Knew It.

THE COURT—Under all the circumstances, is there any doubt that Capone knew he [D'Andrea] had a gun? The court would have revoked his bail when the gun was discovered had not a trial been in progress.

MR. AHERN—I asked Capone if he knew about it and he said that he had never asked D'Andrea but that he knew he was a bailiff. "That's the reason I brought him here," Capone said. I believe, your honor, that Capone did know he had a gun.

THE COURT—Wouldn't the fact that he is an officer aggravate it?

MR. AHERN—If I had known he had a gun. . . . On the surface this looks aggravated, your honor, but I have known D'Andrea for a long time. He has two sisters in the court room here. He supports his mother and I don't think he had an evil intent. Capone lent him money to start in business and has visited him at his home in Michigan. He is a high class boy.

Throws Self on Court's Mercy.

An intermission was then taken. At the resumption of court Mr. Ahern advanced to the bench, after whispering with D'Andrea, and announced: "Your Honor, I have suggested that the defendant throw himself on the mercy of the court and he has agreed."

D'Andrea took the witness stand. Judge Wilkerson questioned him.

Q.—Did Capone know you had that revolver? A.—I don't know. He knew that I was a bailiff and he may have assumed that I had a revolver, but we never discussed it.

Q.—Did you have the gun in court every day? A.—Yes.

D'Andrea, at Mr. Ahern's suggestion, then told of his job as deputy bailiff of the Municipal court, to which he was appointed by B. W. Snow, former bailiff, at the urging of State Senator Dan Serritella. Capone lieutenant and former city sealer, now under indictment for conspiracy. D'Andrea said he had his credentials "renewed" when the present bailiff, Albert J. Horan, came into office. He received a letter from Horan last February asking him to turn back his credentials, whereupon he went to call on the bailiff, he said.

Works Without Pay, He Says.

"It was a shortage of money that caused me to be laid off," D'Andrea went on, "and we finally agreed that I should continue without pay, working in the 11th Street court."

[After court, Horan branded this statement as ridiculous, but admitted that D'Andrea had gone to see him, asking to be kept on the roll. Horan said he told D'Andrea that he would "look into it," but did nothing more about it.]

On cross-examination, Mr. Grossman brought out that D'Andrea once traveled with Capone on the steamship Northland from Florida to Nassau, the Bahama islands, and had visited Capone often.

Mr. Grossman then asked about papers found in D'Andrea's possession when he was arrested, which included a courtesy card from the west park police system and a slip of paper requesting the transfer of a policeman from the Deering street station to the detective buerau.

In the Cartage Business.

Q.—What is your business? A.—I am in the cartage business at 2514 Normal avenue.

[The pay roll sheets in the bureau of streets, department of public works, show that a D'Andrea trucked ashes for the former city administration and had one truck working as late as last week, when it was on duty three days in the First ward. The truck was listed as owned by "P. D'Andrea, 2145 South Michigan avenue."]

Q.—Do you know Winkler of Lincoln, Neb.? (Winkler, according to a later statement, is charged with bank robbery.) A.—I don't know him personally. My wife knows his wife and I was asked to help get him a lawyer.

Judge Quizzes D'Andrea.

Judge Wilkerson then turned to the witness and took up the questioning in a sharp tone.

Q.—How frequently did you visit the Lexington hotel (Capone's headquarters) during the trial? A.—Every morning.

Q.—How many were there with Capone? A.—Four or five.

Q.—In what business was Capone engaged? A.—I think he bet on horses.

Q.—Where did he get the money to bet on the horses?

D'Andrea said he didn't know and later stated that he had heard that Capone was in the gambling and bootlegging business.

Sticks to His Denials.

Q. [by the court]—He trusted you but did not tell you his business? A.—No.

"Those gentlemen are not talkative," remarked Mr. Ahern.

Q.—Have you told everything you can about Capone's business? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you ever hear Capone talk about his business? A.—No.

Judge Wilkerson then adjourned the hearing.

TELLS HOW JUSTICE IS OBSTRUCTED BY PROSECUTION DELAY

How delays in prosecution and incarceration of criminals reacts against the public welfare was explained in an address yesterday by Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the crime commission, at the City club. Judge John P. McGoorty presided.

Col. Chamberlin cited the prosecution of a bartender who, in 1911, shot and killed a 17 year old boy for striking matches on top of the bar and kicking the saloon keeper's dog. After eight years the bartender was acquitted. The jurors said the case was too old and that it appeared to them that all the facts could not have been presented.

"Two defendants charged with rape appeared before a certain judge," Col. Chamberlin said. "When it appeared that the trial could not be avoided counsel for one of the accused asked leave to withdraw from the case.

"Shortly after this request was denied it was discovered that the defendant represented by this attorney had left the courtroom and had failed to return. His bond was forfeited. Counsel for the other defendant presented a petition for a change of venue. After many other delays his case was called but he had disappeared."

"If laws could be enacted and intelligently administered which would place at the disposal of Justice not only the scales and sword but also speedometers and stop watches it might be possible to insure swiftness as well as exactness of justice."

THEATER LEASED AS COURT FOR TRIAL OF BLUEBEARD POWERS

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Harrison County court today signed a lease for Moore's opera house, where the trial of Harry F. Powers for the slaying of two women and three children will be held, probably the first of December. The court signed the lease which calls for a weekly rental of $450 and $50 daily for each day over that period.

Notice will be posted on the theater building which has been closed during the summer, twenty days in advance, stipulating it as the place where the trial will be held.

Judge Southern informed Maurice L. Loudin, county clerk, today that he will decide within a few days when the notice shall be posted.

ACCUSES WIFE OF DESERTING HIM IN CHINA

Arthur G. May, 1129 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, filed a suit for divorce in the Superior court yesterday, charging that his wife, Marcelle, deserted him on March 10, 1926, in Tientsin, China. Shortly after his graduation from an eastern university in 1918, the bill asserted, they were married and immediately left for China, where he was employed by the Standard Oil company. May asserted that his wife tired of the orient and left him to return to America. At present she is in Canada, he stated. May asks the custody of his 11 year old son, Walter, who has remained with him.

LOST! 22 Lbs. Of FAT

Well Known Battle Creek Woman Jubilant! Reduced Waist Four Inches—Limbs More Shapely—Feels Oh, So Light and Full of Pep!

Suppose you weighed 172 and your mirror constantly reminded you of a double chin, heavy arms and legs, large hips and bust.

And suppose this over-fat condition made you too heavy for your own feet—until you felt constantly all dragged out, stomach upset with gas and indigestion, and your were grouchy and irritable.

And then you tried one thing after another—and you're all ready to give up in despair.

Such was the dilemma of Mrs. Harold Tyler, 291 Elm St., Battle Creek, Mich. She read about Bonkora, the safe, natural way to take off excess poundage by cleansing wastes from the intestines and removing retained moisture from fatty tissues. But let her tell the story:

"I wanted to reduce badly, for I was far too heavy. I was nervous and irritable. I tried one reducing preparation after another, but got no results. They seemed only to increase my nervousness! Then I tried Bonkora, and the results certainly came fast. I lost 22 pounds of fat and 4 inches of my waist line—from 172 to 150 in a short time, without following any special diet."

You may not want to lose 22 pounds. But if you have excess fat you can lose it in the famous "3 easy stages" as shown in this picture. For the next week, before meals, take a little Bonkora, the new Battle Creek treatment, in half a glass of water. No need to starve. Eat as much as you want. The big secret is selecting for each meal the proper combination of foods that do not clog the system and turn to fat. An almost endless choice of appealing dishes, showing how to select the correct combination of foods you probably like best furnished free.

Bonkora, the safe and effective method to reduce—recently perfected by a skilled chemist—contains only the choicest and most efficacious medicaments of Nature. No thyroid or other drug that may jeopardize your health.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

WHAT IS A DEFENSE NAVY?

A defense navy probably indicates an idea of a bulldog on a chain at a door. If an intruder does not try to enter the house the dog will not attack. He can't. Nor can he run the neighborhood, causing alarm or doing damage. A defense navy, then, is a cordon as if on a chain at the entrances to the country. If an enemy does not come near it there will be no trouble. It will not slip its chain and make trouble. Thus it has the moral justification that it is not to be used for aggression.

There are several faults in the idea, the chief one being that there could not be such a navy. It is more difficult to define a defensive navy than it is to find a defensive war. Occasionally an aggressor nation is plainly recognizable, although not often. A defensive navy is a navy unequal to the responsibility of defending anything. If the term has any meaning, that is it.

Nelson defended Great Britain, finally, at Trafalgar with a fleet superior to the combination which could be brought against it. Trafalgar is a point in southwest Spain. While Napoleon was holding an army on the channel for an invasion of England the naval defense was in maneuvers running from the French ports to the West Indies and back again. The bulldog was all over the Atlantic.

In our war with Spain the people of the Atlantic seaboard were frightened and cried for the protection of the fleet. The defense was in the Bay of Manila and at Santiago. The first defensive work of the early American navy was in the Mediterranean. It defended American commerce by attacking the forts and shipping in African harbors. In the civil war the Kearsarge protected American shipping by destroying the Alabama off Cherbourg.

The best naval protection of the Pacific coast now would begin at Guam and in the Philippines. American diplomacy, in effect, has denied the navy those points, and the defense is based on Hawaii. The Philippines are not regarded as under naval protection or any other protection. Everything west of Hawaii is cast adrift. A "defense" navy is one thing in one condition and another thing in another condition.

Great Britain, at different times in its history, has based its naval defense on different places. In its feebler days its ships have been confined in the channel ports, and then it was in its greatest danger. In such days the Dutch sailed the Thames and burned warships. The navy was willing to do its duty by James II., but the fleet failed to intercept William's transports, and his army landed in the Bay of Torbay. The classic example of a fleet fighting in defense off its own shores is found in the action with the Spanish armada, to which there might have been another outcome if the Spanish had been better sailors and the gales less vicious.

For purposes of defense the British have concentrated in Portuguese waters—a reason Portugal has been so long a ward of Great Britain—in the Mediterranean, in the North sea and in American waters. A defense plan which has its ups and downs with changes of government requires Singapore for the protection of the empire.

A fleet at sea is naval defense, and its power in offense is its real power. The commerce of a great trading nation is everywhere, and the defense of transport is as important as the defense of warehouses. A nation can be forced to close up shop without having shells fired into its counting houses, docks and markets. Whatever encourages a people to think of naval protection as a species of coast fortifications is encouragement of a fallacy easily believed and utterly wrong.

Navies for defense alone in such a sense do not exist. The business and politics of a country determine whether fleets are adequate or inadequate. It all depends on what the commerce and statesmanship of a nation seek. If American politics cut the Philippines away, and if American trade had no necessities in the far east, the American navy would be larger. It and its job would be more nearly of a size.

THE LEGION RUNS OUT AN AGITATOR.

An organizer for the Trade Unity Union league in Council Bluffs was seized in the city council chambers by members of the American Legion and driven twenty miles out of town. He was released with the warning not to return. The man had called the city officials a bunch of hypocrites in a controversy over the treatment of the city's poor. The members of the Legion thereupon disposed of him summarily as an agitator and an undesirable.

The enemies of the Legion make considerable of such episodes. The friends of the Legion cannot ignore the criticism. When the members collectively assume that they have a special responsibility for what they regard as security and order they are mistaken. Although Americans think of themselves as having established a free society, they retain the instinct in some communities to manhandle the person whose opinions and acts they do not like. When this takes the form of night riding, kluxing, and punishment administered by private individuals for what they consider public purposes the wrong is apparent. The rights of people cannot be limited by the decisions of other individuals organizing to suppress them, nor can organizations of private citizens turn to law enforcement at their own caprices.

The American Legion is not an exception to this. Its patriotism does not give it civil authority. The great majority of its members do not think it does, but occasionally the service men in a community will execute public opinion upon an offender whose offense is against feeling and not against law. It is particularly difficult to protect the rights of a stranger and agitator where and when the inhabitants are angry over some issue, but such protection is exactly what American society is supposed to offer such a person.

Occasionally when Legion members have done some rough riding they are persuaded of general approval. Their more thoughtful leaders will discourage such tendencies. The Legion is not a law enforcement agency. It is neither the klan nor the Anti-Saloon league and does not want to be either.

FARM BOARD SECRECY.

The federal farm board has changed its mind and decided not to publish the facts regarding its holdings of wheat and cotton or the loans it has made to cooperatives from its half billion dollar revolving fund. The board had decided a few days ago to let the world know how much wheat it held and what the wheat had cost. That decision has now been rescinded. The board's operations with the taxpayers' money still are a secret and will remain so unless congress pries off the lid.

This secrecy is justified in the minds of the board's members by an analogy. The farm board regards itself as in the position of a banker whose loans to clients are not a matter of public knowledge. The analogy does not hold. The farm board is dispensing public money, like any other agency of the government. Its business is public business. Any cooperative which borrowed from the farm board's fund must have been aware of the fact that it was borrowing public money and therefore that its loans were subject to public scrutiny.

If congress permits the board to operate in secret, congress will assume a heavy responsibility for what ensues. It is a matter of common knowledge that, even with all the safeguards of publicity which can be thrown around government spending, enormous sums are lost through dishonesty or errors of judgment. If that can happen in the open, there is no estimating what can happen if the financial operations of the government are protected from examination and criticism.

The secrecy which is permitted to bankers' loans is balanced by the banker's responsibility to his directors and stockholders, who themselves may be held liable for improper conduct of the bank's affairs. There is no corresponding check to operate against politicians. The farm board's expenditures all may have been above criticism, but the precedent of secrecy in the use of public money is dangerous. Congress ought to lose no time in making the board's dealings public.

TWENTY-ONE GUNS FOR MUSSOLINI.

Mussolini in his Naples speech appealed for a renewal of the oath of loyalty to the house of Savoy, the "bulwark of the resorgimento." Crown Prince Humbert is preparing to make his residence in Naples and the premier cheered on the multitudes for him, seemingly the act of a loyal and dutiful servant of the crown, which the house of Savoy may regard as applesauce in view of the fact that Mussolini now when he takes a salute takes twenty-one guns. That's the royal salute, and if Mussolini thinks he rates it the answer may be just around the corner.

The twenty-one gun salute is given in the United States to the President. It is given to the president of a foreign republic and to a sovereign or the member of a royal family. It is given the flag of a foreign country when the occasion requires a salute. In Great Britain twenty-one guns is the royal salute. The prime minister rates nineteen.

The Italian resurrection is not yet complete. When it is the house of Mussolini may be its bulwark. When salutes are fired the duce already steps out as imperator. The house of Savoy may reflect that this sort of thing has happened before and Mussolini might reflect that when it did the duration was not so long.

INTELLIGENCE COMPARISONS.

[Sioux City Journal.]

Intelligence comparisons conducted by Dr. L. D. Zeleny, professor of sociology at St. Cloud Teachers college, Minnesota, and affecting prisoners in state institutions and law abiding citizens, blasted the popular theory that feeble-mindedness is a major factor in crime. He compared intelligence tests of 61,999 criminals with those of 93,995 members of the United States draft army.

Only 2.3 per cent of the prisoners who took the test, according to Dr. Zeleny, appeared to be feeble-minded. This left 96.2 per cent of the criminals mentally able to adjust themselves to their social and economic environment. It followed, therefore, that about 96 per cent of the crime committed in this country is directly due to other factors than feeble-mindedness.

In recent years it has become a popular belief that about 25 per cent of offenders are feeble-minded and do not know better than to commit crimes, said Dr. Zeleny. Meanwhile it also was the popular belief that only about 2 per cent of the rest of the population was similarly affected. As a matter of fact there is little difference between criminals and law-abiding persons when it comes to intelligence.

There are some persons who insist on excusing all criminals from punishment on the ground that none of them know better than to follow careers of wrongdoing. The reasoning starts with the assumption that no individual would do wrong if he knew what was right. Or that if he knew the difference between right and wrong he still was without sufficient intelligence and moral courage to refrain from crime. Carried to an extreme, one might apply this to every individual who failed of perfection in conduct toward his fellow man, and that would include the whole population of any country.

If one considered some of the arch criminals in recent years one might readily agree with Dr. Zeleny. Take, for example, Al Capone. If one called him feeble-minded and the gangster chieftain heard about it, some one would be put on the spot. Capone's intelligence test no doubt would compare favorably with that of many successful business men. He has wonderful powers of organization. He is a good executive. He is a dominant personality. All these traits, highly developed, are employed in the wrong direction, against society, but not because of feeble-mindedness. It were high time to get rid of this fallacy and go after crime with a club.

HOW MUCH SLEEP?

THAT old men require a full eight hours of sleep is one of the conclusions that Dr. W. A. Laird draws from replies received from several thousand brain workers. The elderly male has his rest broken by physiological demands once or oftener during the night; but if he is wise he returns to bed after each interruption, relaxes himself mentally and physically, and resumes sleeping where he left off. The age at which men seem to require most sleep is 35 to 45 years. Men in that period should see to it that nothing interferes with eight quiet hours of slumber.

This study of sleep requirements shows eight hours to be about right for an adult. Of those 25 years old who were investigated, one-fourth got more than eight hours; at age 35 the proportion was 45 per cent. It remained at this level, or thereabouts, until age 45. By age 70 it had dropped to 35 per cent, after which it rose until it reached 60 per cent at age 85. Plainly, this aggregation of old men got plenty of sleep, on the average.

The proportion of men who got less than six hours of sleep nightly followed a changing curve. At age 25, one-quarter of them got less than six hours sleep. At age 45 16 per cent were in that class; at age 70, 27 per cent; at age 85, 12 per cent.

Sixty per cent of the group of several hundred reported that they suffered ill effects following a night of poor sleep. Those noted were: "Less mentally active," "feeling of drowsiness," "lack of pep," "sleepy in late afternoon," "energy impaired," "lacking in initiative," "lack of strength," "shaky," "tired," "drowsy early in evening," "creative ability on the wane," "loss of keenness," "lessening of spontaneity," "not as clear-headed as usual," "a little languor," "eye trouble," "irritable." Some had headaches, backaches, or vague aches in the legs.

The age at which loss of sleep was most likely to cause symptoms was 35. The men in that group were 50 per cent more liable to be made inefficient and uncomfortable than was the case with men of 85.

The railroad people will do well to study that part of the report that has to do with sleeping on the train. The proportions of the different groups that did not recuperate satisfactorily by a night's sleep on the train were always high. More than one-half of all the correspondents who were between 28 and 42 years of age reported that sleeping on a train was not restful. The young and the very old got the best rest. Some reported that they went to bed on the train very early, and made up for quality of sleep by quantity. Some reported that they dozed during the day and took an afternoon nap; in this way they compensated for restless nights. A few reported that the rhythmic noises and movements of a train were conducive to sleep.

LAWS VARY ON TESTS.

B. F. R. writes:

1. My husband has had tuberculosis for the last three years, and I am told I am compelled by law to have my children examined. Is this true?
2. What examination does the board of health put the children through?
3. If the mother of the children wants her family doctor to examine the children, can it be done?
4. Does the blood also have to be examined to find out if the children have tuberculosis?

REPLY.

1. Laws vary and, your letter being undated, I cannot say what your law requires. However, you should be anxious to do what you can to protect your child, even though not compelled by law to do so.
2. As a rule, only a physical examination and a study of the history.
3. Yes.
4. Rarely is this test made.

NO LIABILITY TO PAY.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man entered an office offering for sale three well known magazines for the price of two. A young woman who was a regular reader of these periodicals bought them. She was somewhat surprised, however, when she began to receive them regularly from a distributing agency. Then she received a letter requesting part payment on her two year subscription of twelve dollars. She answered that she had not authorized any such subscription and requested the discontinuance of the magazines. They wrote that they held her contract and threatened suit if she did not pay. As she had not signed a contract, she ignored the threat. But evidently they are not to be thwarted in what seems an attempt to "make" business, for she is being continually harassed by a certain collecting agency. I am told this is a common practice. What can be done about it? G. O. U.

She should write to them, squarely stating that she signed no contract and that she did not orally order more than the single copies which she received. She should also refuse to accept further copies from the mail. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WILL BE REPLACED.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—A half year ago the bureau of streets tore up the wayside in our block on Lexington street to install a water main. In doing so, many lawns and much shrubbery were destroyed. I would be pleased to know if these lawns and shrubs will be replaced, and if so, when? F. W.

We will replace these lawns in a very short time. The shrubbery and trees cannot be planted at this time of the year. However, they will also be replaced late this fall or early next spring.

B. W. CULLEN,
Supt., Water Pipe Extension.

STREET PARKING.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can you please tell me what the city ordinances, if any, are regarding the parking by a fire hydrant? 2. What is the law regarding obstructing the entrance to a hotel by automobiles and cabs? 3. Can these ordinances, if any, be enforced? A. A.

1. A city ordinance prohibits parking in front of a fire hydrant.
2. There are special ordinances prohibiting parking at various named locations.
3. In general, yes.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

RIGHT WHEN WE THOUGHT these United States of America were busy scrapping the navy and thinking over the pact it had agreed on with Monsieur Laval, and pondering over war debts, reparations, the gold standard, and the unemployed, what happens but a letter to us right straight from the government itself. Yessir, a letter to us, a mere plodding, humble citizen who is only one of 122,728,873 people. This letter came from the Bureau of Standards down in Washington, and, so far as we can make out, some nosey bird has told the government that we are thinking of moving and that we can't make up our mind whether to move next door to a saxophone player or across the street from a tap dancer. The government says the saxophone's sad cries are not heard as readily through a partition as the staccato ratty-tat-tat of a hoofer. The idea we got was that the government thought we would do better to move alongside the saxophoner than the tap dancer. The letter also said that dropping one's shoes on the floor when taking 'em off penetrates through partition walls easier than radio programs or family quarrels. This looks to us like dirty work at the cross roads. Somebody has been writing to the government about us dropping our shoes on the floor. Well, as we say here in Chicago, it's a bum rap. We never drop our shoes on the floor; we unlace 'em and walk out of 'em. The government seems to be pretty nice about it, though. As we read the letter from the Bureau of Standards, it seems to us that the government is suggesting that wa tune in the radio or start a family quarrel in place of taking our shoes off at night because those things don't penetrate the partitions so easily and annoy the neighbors. Anyhow, it's mighty fine of the government to show so much interest in a mere citizen and tell him how much worse a tap dancer is for a neighbor than a saxophone player. It will probably please the saxophone players, but it's going to make the tap dancers mighty sore. Or aren't they counted as citizens?

A STROLL ALONG THE DRIVE—

Without My Wire-hair, Skippy.

At Schiller, I saw Wee Mon
Leap with love around his master.
I quickly turned the other way
And walked a little faster.

I next encountered Burnie, leading Whiskered Tam o' Shanter.
I stopped and passed the time of day
In pleasant Scotty-banter.

As though that weren't quite enough,
At Banks, I bowed to Jitters—
And wished that I had stayed at home
With whisky, gin, and bitters.

A Tommy Atkins' frolic—
A rather tame affair compared With Skippy's bounds bucolic.

At Elm, I hailed a Yellow.
I was definitely through
With chatting, Skippy-less,
With dogdom's urban Who Is Who.

DALE FISHER.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS gently intimates to Japan that if she doesn't get out of Manchuria by Nov. 16 they'll put her out. "You and who else?" says Japan. That's just it, the League and who else?

UP TO THE HOUR of going to press we were about to say that Mr. A. Capone was no nearer the large, grim penitentiary belonging to the U. S. and located at Leavenworth, Kas., than he has been for months and months. We were in error. Mr. Capone is remaining with us for a time longer, but he is nearer the Leavenworth institution than before. He is stopping indefinitely in our county jail, but that is over on the west side of our city and is at least seven and a half miles nearer to Leavenworth than Mr. Capone's residence in Chicago. It is five hundred miles from Chicago to Leavenworth, and, having got Mr. Capone seven and one-half miles on the way, there remains but four hundred and ninety-two and a half to go. But the first seven and a half miles are the hardest.

IN THE TREMENDOUS UPROAR and excitement of the election yesterday in England there was only one man not afraid that the voters might give him a kick in the pants. And that man, ladies and gentlemen, was Mahatma Gandhi. Which is a big argument for not wearing 'em.

FOR MY SON.

If I knew I were going to die tonight
I wouldn't scold because you track mud on the porch;
I wouldn't tell you to hush when you whistled so shrilly;
I wouldn't be irritated because you forgot to hang up your cap and coat;
I'd be so glad to be able to do one more thing for you.
I'd be so happy that you were happy enough to want to whistle.
I'd realize that mud on a porch is more easily removed than memory of a cross word.
And I'd want to leave you with last memories of a pleasant mother, if I knew I were going to die tonight.
And, after all, how do I know I'm not?

MARJORIE F. W.

THIS YEAR, the tailors tell us, the well dressed man will wear a white vest with his full dress suit instead of the black waistcoat of last year. Which is going to make it harder for us young society devils. Last year when we spilled soup on our vests the man we rented them from couldn't see it. But this year he'll soak us for cleaning the darn things.

IT WAS NAVY DAY yesterday. But whether in celebration of—or in memory of—nobody seems to know. R. H. L.

THE FOUR STAGES OF A DEPRESSION

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 28, 1915.

LONDON. — The German army which crossed the Danube at Orsova has joined with the Bulgarians who invaded Serbia near Prahovo and the central powers now have an open road through northwestern Serbia and Bulgaria to the Ægean sea and Constantinople. They are thus in a position to send guns and munitions by river and railway to their Bulgarian and Turkish allies, who will be greatly strengthened thereby. So far as the north of Serbia is concerned, it is feared it is doomed, but in the south, reinforced by the French and British, Serbia is using all its strength to throw the Bulgarians back.

PETROGRAD.—British submarines have sunk four more German steamers in the Baltic, according to a Russian official announcement. The Germans continue their attacks against the Russians in the Riga and Dvinsk districts, but without success. In the south, along the Styr river and the Galician frontier, the Germans assumed the offensive, but were repulsed in counter attacks at every point.

AMSTERDAM.—Anna Benzet of Verviers, Belgium, was sentenced to death by a German court martial at Liege. She was one of nine convicted, seven of whom were Belgians and the others French. The charge was of having collected information useful to the French government.

OCTOBER 28, 1901.

CHICAGO.—As an excommunicated priest, divested of every right to claim membership in the Roman Catholic church, Father Jeremiah J. Crowley defied the order of the highest tribunal of the Catholic church in Chicago yesterday and attended mass at St. Peter's church and the Holy Name cathedral. He was present at early mass at St. Peter's and high mass at the cathedral. By appearing in church Father Crowley set at naught the order of Archbishop Feehan that he should not be allowed to be present at or assist in any public service of the church.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By the end of this week all the testimony will be in and the arguments will be nearly if not quite concluded before the Schley court of inquiry. Admiral Schley has still to be cross-examined and there are some unimportant witnesses to be examined in rebuttal.

AUBURN, N. Y.—The time that Leon F. Czolgosz, assassin of President McKinley, has to live is reckoned by hours now, but there has been no relaxation of the stringent rule under which the prisoner has been secluded since his confinement. The hour of 7 on Oct. 29 is the time set by Warden J. Warren Mead for the execution.

CHICAGO.—Should the public respond to her request for contributions to build a memorial to Leon F. Czolgosz, assassin of President McKinley, Miss Henrietta Tice of 360 Fulton street will go farther than erect a mere mausoleum to his memory and will build and run a cheap boarding house for workingmen. She has changed her mind and now believes that a cold marble slab is not a fitting testimony to what she terms his "warm and lovable nature."

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 28, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Judge Charles J. Folger of New York was nominated for secretary of the treasury and his nomination was confirmed by the senate. He accepted the portfolio and came to a definite understanding with President Arthur. There are rumors that Judge Folger only consented to surrender his position on the bench of the Court of Appeals, practically $12,000 for life, for the cabinet place at $8,000, for a short term, on the condition that when Justice Hunt is retired from the United States Supreme court Folger shall be appointed to that place. This report, however, is strenuously denied. President Arthur also nominated Postmaster General Thomas L. James to succeed himself.

DAVENPORT, Ia.—Nine persons were drowned when the steamer Jenny Gilchrist became unmanageable half a mile above the government bridge and drifted in the swift current down against the piers.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Since all people of the nation are economically interdependent, the consolidation of governing agencies, proposed by Gov. Lowden, should be nationally extended. If the states average approximately 70 counties, there are 2,160 counties in the United States, the majority organized in the footpath and buggy age, which could be reduced three-fourths, a saving of 2,520 county governments with their hordes of official mendicants.

The states could be consolidated from 48 to 19—for instance, Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont; Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut; Pennsylvania and New Jersey; Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia; North and South Carolina, etc., throughout the nation. The vociferous house of representatives would, thereby, be reduced from about 600 to 150, and the solemn senate from 96 to 38; but why not unite the two houses, inherited from feudal aristocracy? These consolidations are feasible, because technology has annihilated time, distance and space.

These movements should be extended into the industrial sphere. A hundred thousand miles of railroad should be abandoned for more efficient truck, bus, and air lines, since they are increasingly an economic burden, and the remaining roads should be united into one system. Various other industries should likewise be merged. These suggestions would, no doubt, be gladly adopted by the American people, once shown the way, and the annual savings would amount to billions of dollars.

The boundary between the United States and Canada should be wiped out. Most of the Canadian states are large enough. Canada being, on the whole, better governed than the United States, we should consent to be taken into the Canadian system. The future capitol of the North American States could be at Winnipeg, Minneapolis, or any other place that Canada should think best. There is little doubt that, after having cleaned up our own anachronisms, and if we would humbly apply for a place in the Canadian policy, we would be whole heartedly welcomed by our Canadian cousins.

As a name for the new nation, United States of Canada, is suggested, so that "Uncle Sam" would still be available for Mr. McCutcheon, and Canadians would still be Canadians, even after taking such a gigantic bite, and increasing her population from 10,000,000 to 135,000,000. After seeing the value of American integration, Canada would, no doubt, as a preliminary to the proposed adoption, simplify her own system before taking Uncle Sam to her bosom.

PROFESSIONAL GAMBLERS.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—As long as there's so much talk about Capone being not a big gambler why don't the authorities do something toward ridding Chicago of those crooked little professional gamblers, the kind who never take a chance, but live by luring decent men to reckless living? Our husbands are the boobs, but we women are the real victims of those smiling sharks who play a fixed game in their own favor whether they are taking bets on horses, cards, or wheels. I don't see how men can be so stupid as to believe they have a chance.

My husband is one of the best-natured men in the world, but he has the ta horn gambling fever. I have darned his clothes without complaining. I have endured poverty when he was making good money. I have stood for his friends without a murmur. Now I find that he has laid our small savings on one of these "sure things."

Why do we allow crooked gangsters to exist when we know they can't live without men like my husband and women like me? L. F.

HELP FOR THE TEACHERS.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—There must now be several thousand school teachers who are flat broke and must be helped. To each schoolroom there must be at least a dozen parents who can each manage to spare a $5 loan to the teacher each month. The Parent-Teacher associations might round up the loans, or just leave yours with the principal to loan to the teachers who are hardest hit. The teacher of your child should not be compelled to spend her time out of school trying to borrow money. M. D.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—The committeemen who urged the farmers to kill every tenth cow should certainly be urged to burn up every tenth share of stock or bonds that they own. It might do the market a lot of good. MRS. SHILLANDER.

DAYS OF HUNGER ARE PASSING FOR MANY CHILDREN

Open School Lunchrooms on Gifts to Fund.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 7101 East 63d street, and 4102 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Days of fasting are over for thousands of needy boys and girls in Chicago schools. Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department, yesterday announced that sixty institutions are now receiving funds for free lunches from the hungry school children's fund. Few of these schools have less than a score of destitute children to provide for, and the majority have approximately a hundred. Some even exceed that total, and more are being added daily.

Over hot soup and cups of milk, tasty sandwiches and nourishing cereals, hundreds of youngsters chatter each noon about their important juvenile affairs. That strange quiet in which groups of them had formed the habit of gathering at doors or windows, staring moodily out at nothing in particular, is evaporating as regular, healthy diet dispels these dizzy spells, headaches, and familiar pangs of hunger.

Open More Lunchrooms.

Five lunchrooms have been opened with the aid of the fund in schools which had not previously had any such service, and a list of others is in prospect. As speedy action as can be obtained is being taken in those areas where relief is a pressing need. Two of the new restaurant rooms were installed in schools on the far south side which have been especially hard hit by the depression. Another, which opened yesterday, was started in a large school on the north side under a temporary arrangement.

Parent-Teacher organizations throughout the city are pitting their energies against the situation facing the schools, and are cooperating to the utmost in the work. Many of the lunchrooms are manned by mothers who cook and prepare the food, set the tables, and then wash the dishes after the children have eaten. Others are supplementing these duties with collections of clothing and shoes, and many benefits are staged by the individual organizations for their particular district.

Ask Gifts of Wheat.

If any farmer feels that he can afford to donate several bushels of wheat to help out the fund, Miss Swain announced yesterday, it will be gratefully received if too much is not delivered at one time. A local mill has offered to prepare the wheat so that it can be served to the children at the lunchrooms. A sample tried out last week demonstrated that this cooked food will serve twenty children to a pound, with generous helpings. It is praised by dietitians as one of the most healthful of foods.

Contributions received yesterday to the hungry school children's fund were:

$100—Mayor A. J. Cermak.

BARON SHOWS UP TO CLAIM $250,000 ESTATE OF UNCLE

Baron Giorgio Mario Surlani showed up yesterday to claim a fortune of 5,000,000 lira, or $250,000, left him by his uncle, Giacinto d'Nels, a philharmonic orchestra leader. The baron, who took up professional dancing several years ago, after giving up his plan of offering his hand and his 16th century title to any woman with $100,000 to spare, was glad to hear about the fortune. He and his wife returned yesterday after spending a few days in Indiana.

Presenting himself to Attorney Leslie G. Agasim, 134 North La Salle street, who inserted a want ad in THE TRIBUNE last Sunday stating that the baron was wanted in connection with an estate, Baron Surlani clicked his heels together, bowed low, and said:

"I am the baron. Do we get this money right now?" He hesitated, then continued: "Of course, it was a great shock to me to learn of my uncle's death. I was his favorite nephew, and naturally it was a shock. Still, I had not seen him for 17 years. The money will come in handy now. My wife and I have had some struggles since the depression set in."

COLLECT 8,000 GARMENTS FOR CITY'S JOBLESS

The Episcopal Young People's association of the diocese of Chicago yesterday delivered 5,000 garments for the unemployed to the Cathedral shelter, Washington and Peoria streets. The association, under the leadership of William E. Whitely, president, recently undertook the gathering of clothing to be distributed by the Rev. David Gibson, the shelter's pastor, on Thanksgiving day.

The work has been done by nearly 1,000 members of the association who have set a quota of 25,000 garments by Nov. 15. More than 4,000 garments were delivered a week ago. In the past the organization has limited its work to the promotion of the annual May ball, the proceeds of which go toward a fund for the building of a new cathedral for the diocese.

HOOVER OPPOSES CUTTING LOOSE OF PHILIPPINES

Time for Independence Is Not Yet Ripe, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—President Hoover does not consider that the time is ripe for granting independence to the people of the Philippine Islands, it was disclosed at the White House today. In a formal statement, the President said that the granting of independence to the islands at this time would be followed by the collapse of Philippine government revenues and economic disaster for the islands.

While stating that the Philippine problem had engaged the attention of the cabinet this morning, President Hoover said that no conclusive policies as to the future of the islands had been agreed upon. He gave the distinct impression, however, that a considerable time would elapse before the Philippine government would be ready for complete separation from the United States. Before the islands are granted their independence, the President said, this country must be assured that independence for the Filipino people will be durable and that a stable government can be maintained.

The President's Statement.

"With Secretary Hurley's return, the cabinet this morning discussed the Philippine question at considerable length," the President said at his Tuesday press conference. "We explored the subject, but formulated to conclusive policies in the matter. These discussions will be continued.

"Independence of the Philippines at some time has been directly or indirectly promised by every President and by the congress. In accord with those undertakings the problem is one of time. In the interest of the Philippine people the time element involves the necessity that independence must be assured of durability and the government of the Philippines must be assured of stability.

"For instance, the economic independence of the Philippines must be attained before political independence can be successful. Independence tomorrow without assured economic stability would result in the collapse of Philippine government revenues and the collapse of all economic life in the islands.

Davis' Statement Cited.

An indication of the dependence of the islands on the United States is shown in the latest communication on the island economic situation, forwarded to Washington by Dwight F. Davis, the present governor general. He stated that the one thing which saved the Philippine islands from a major economic disaster during the last year was free access to the enormous American market.

Judge Joseph B. David of the Superior court celebrated his 68th birthday yesterday by going to his chambers in the county building and working on opinions on a number of law cases pending before him. He found a number of floral tributes awaiting him there, and received congratulations during the day from a number of attorneys, associates on the bench, and other friends. Judge David recently completed his sixteenth year on the bench.

WHAT SIX PRECEDING PRESIDENTS SAID OF FREEING FILIPINOS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The assertions of former Presidents on the question of Philippine independence, alluded to today by President Hoover, were as follows:

McKINLEY—The Philippines are ours, not to exploit but to develop, to civilize, to educate, to train in the science of self-government.

ROOSEVELT—The islands should at an early moment be given their independence without any guaranty whatever by us and without our retaining any foothold in them.

TAFT [commenting in 1908 on a Democratic platform advocation of independence.]—It is an affirmation of a policy only very slightly different from that repeatedly announced by this and preceding Republican administrations.

WILSON [in 1913]—We must hold steadily in view their [the Philippines] ultimate independence.

HARDING—No backward step is contemplated. At this time it is not for me to suggest the day distant or near [for independence].

COOLIDGE — Although they have made wonderful advances in the last quarter century, the Filipino people are by no means equipped, either in wealth or experience to undertake the heavy burden which would be imposed upon them by political independence.

SEIZE FUGITIVE EX-BROKER IN BOND THEFT CASE

A fugitive for two years in a stolen bond case, Edward J. Sweeney, 45 years old, former broker and an ex-convict, was found ensconced behind a massive desk yesterday in a suite of the Engineering building, 205 West Wacker drive, administering the affairs of "The Knights of Washington."

E. J. SWEENEY.

The Knights of Washington, he explained, was an organization of key men, such as Republican national committeemen, congressmen, and others, banded together for mutual advantage and for the protection of lesser members against the annoyances of speed cops, police magistrates, prohibition agents, and others of that ilk.

Sweeney, once a cellmate of the millionaire bootlegger, George Remus, in Atlanta penitentiary, where he ser 1 a term for an automobile theft, achieved notoriety in Chicago when $156,000 in stolen bonds was found among the assets of his brokerage office in the Metropolitan block.

Sweeney was arrested in his large home at Michigan City, Ind., refused to waive extradition, and finally was forced to face a charge of receiving stolen property in the Illinois courts. Of the lot of bonds $91,500 had been taken from the office of Walter Paepke, president of the Chicago Mill and Lumber company, and $64,500 from the Baltimore offices of the Finance Company of America.

Tribune Ship Loads Wheat for Journey to Quebec

Rain yesterday delayed for a time the loading of the freighter New York News, one of THE TRIBUNE fleet, which was due to take on a cargo of 80,000 bushels of wheat for Quebec. Lowering of the water also interfered with the loading, and Capt. F. V. McIntyre was obliged to set the load limit at 70,000 bushels, lest the ship become stranded at the wharf. The load was taken from the elevators of the Rosenbaum Grain company, 102d street and Calumet harbor, and was consigned to Quebec for export to England and Italy. The wheat is part of the holdings of the Grain Stabilization corporation. Capt. McIntyre expected to start for Quebec during the night.

GOVERNOR'S NEW PARK JOBS DRAW DEMOCRATS' FIRE

Stormy Days Forecast in Revenue Session.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Gov. L. L. Emmerson's social experiments in the field of unemployment relief for politicians bade fair yesterday to inject a strident note into the special session of the legislature on financial reforms.

Democratic leaders, pointing to the west parks, declared that three good jobs were created to take care of three jobless ward committeemen, adopted by the administration, and they prepared to raise the question at Springfield whether this is a sample of the new "economy and retrenchment" program.

The three who landed on the pay roll some weeks ago for new jobs as division superintendents are William M. Garrison of the 27th ward, James Vignola of the 31st, and Paul Rothenberg of the 24th.

Garrison Gets Highest Pay.

Garrison, who is Homer K. Galpin's head man along West Madison street, used to be city purchasing agent, and his new job is reported to pay $6,000. The other two, as lesser lights, are drawing salaries reported as $4,500. Vignola was on the board of local improvements, while Rothenberg was in the coroner's office.

Democratic leaders held that Republican leadership is being torn between two wild horses traveling in opposite directions. They said that while ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden is making speeches saying the big trouble with taxes is that there are too many office-holders, and that one chief reform is to consolidate jobs, the administration, in the instance of the west parks, has made three jobs flower where none existed before.

Comment from Igoe.

Commenting on the trend of unemployment relief in politics, Michael L. Igoe, minority leader in the state house of representatives and a Democratic candidate for the nomination for governor, remarks:

"Kness was the best informed man on prison administration in the state. I think he owed his dismissal to the fact that he told the investigating committee that the troubles at Joliet were caused by over-crowding and lack of employment for the convicts, and the dissatisfaction of the prison-ers with the operations of the state parole board."

Meanwhile in the Lincoln park area the political job seekers yesterday had two plaints. One was directed at the administration of Warren Wright as board president, for the policy of reducing pay rolls to keep expenses within revenue and to escape going "in the red."

The other protest was over the performances of State Senator Daniel Serritella of the 1st ward and Ald. William V. Pacelli of the 20th in trying to work the north side of the river in the matter of operating trucks at an advance of 15 cents a cubic yard for stone hauled.

Rumors that President Wright was thinking of resigning roused hope for a time among the followers of Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] and Ald. W. H. Feigenbutz [45th], but they were dashed yesterday by Mr. Wright who denied that he had any intention of retiring.

Under the Emmerson scheme of patronage distribution, recognition was to be given Nelson and Feigenbutz, both of whom are heirlooms from the former city administration. The Nelson and Feigenbutz followers at once jumped to the conclusion that prosperity was just around the corner, but the job distribution has been so slim that the job hunters yesterday were yelling that political unemployment relief is no good unless it also carries employment insurance.

COUNTY FORESTS TO PROVIDE FUEL FOR NEEDY FOLK

Provision of wood fuel for the stoves and furnaces in homes of the needy was undertaken yesterday by President Emmett Whealan of the forest preserve commissioners and Walter C. League, superintendent of the Goodwill Industries.

President Whealan ordered that all timber felled in the forest preserves when the cold weather begins be cut into logs 6 to 8 feet long. The logs will be turned over to the Goodwill Industries, where they will be chopped into stove lengths in four wood yards in Chicago.

The wood chopping will be done by deaf dependents. This employment is a part of the general program of the Goodwill Industries, which obtains jobs for handicapped persons.

Supt. League said that his trucks will be prepared to collect timber from a central point in the preserves. From this spot it will be taken to the wood yards. Payment of the wood choppers will be made possible through a coöperating arrangement with the joint emergency relief organization. After the wood is chopped into stove lengths, it will be distributed throughout the county.

SUSPECT HUNTED 4 YRS. BETRAYED BY FINGERPRINTS

His fingerprints in the bureau of identification yesterday betrayed Louis Katzewitz, 25 years old, 3949 Roosevelt road, as a man sought since September, 1927, when he forfeited a $10,000 bond on a charge of attempting the robbery of the Everett Coal company, 7694 South Chicago avenue. He was tried and acquitted in the same year of the murder of Fred Matson, who was slain by Katzewitz' companions during the holdup attempt.

Katzewitz' acquittal on the murder charge caused Judge Harry B. Miller, who heard the case, to reprimand the jury which voted to free him. The robbery charge was then lodged against him, but he failed to appear for trial.

Katzewitz used the alias of Frank Lewis when he was arrested early yesterday in a poolroom at Lawndale avenue and Roosevelt road. A writ of habeas corpus was sought for "Lewis" but when Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court learned his identity he ordered Katzewitz brought before him today for arraignment on the charge of attempted robbery.

Igloo Grins at Life's Perils in Polar Regions

Finn Byrd's Praise as a Lesson to Mankind.

By Fanny Butcher.

"Igloo," by Jane Brevoort Walden. [Putnam.]

LAST December I met a personality I never shall forget, and whom, I suspect, after reading his biography, just written, a great many others never will forget. The body which sheltered this personality had traveled nearer to the north pole and within less miles of the south pole than any one but a hundred living human beings. He had met more great men and women in a few weeks than a lifetime offers most people.

This personality was as marked, as vivid, as memorable as that of many of the great ones who had been proud to own him. His name was—sufficiently—Igloo. And now, a few months after his death, his biography has been written like the biography of any other great person.

Because I felt that I had added something fine to my experience in that brief contact with Igloo, I could not resist reading his biography, even though it was avowedly written for boys and girls. When I finished it (a minute or so ago), reading every word with increasing joy, I couldn't keep myself from leaping to my typewriter to talk about it to that one smartest reader of whom I am very proud [whoever you are—there MUST be at least one!]. The rest of you are nice enough occasionally to read my growlings. For "Igloo" also is a book for grownups [at least grownups of MY age].

If "Igloo" is only a juvenile then I am astute 12 years, because it astonished me as a critic of writing, a critic of the author's attitude toward her subject, and as an equally severe critic of any one who dared to write the life story of some one of whom I was fond and whom I respected.

"Igloo" is the story of the five years of the life of the most famous dog of his generation—the little, smooth haired fox terrier. He went with Commander Byrd to the north pole and accompanied Rear Admiral Byrd back from two years in Little America (after he had, of course, gone there with him in the first place).

Jane Brevoort Walden has written a classic dog story about an epic dog. She has done it with a rare understanding of dog psychology (you can't tell me or any other lover of dogs that they don't have any) and a wit and humor that have real zest.

She doesn't do any of the baby talking that many dog books are filled with, using that kind of soppy language and sentimentality that some people think is the essence of writing about "man's greatest friend." She knows, as does every other real lover of dogs, that a fine dog has human personality and character and gives a spiritual solace to his master that only a few human persons ever are able to equal. A fine dog, as well as a fine person, gives as well as receives.

Such a one is worthy of an author's sincerity. Jane Walden treats him with the dignity which a fine dog deserves.

Those of you who think we are a little daft who find such sustaining joy in the companionship of a fine dog will long ere this have disgustedly left this column for more pleasing subjects, and having determined not to read "Igloo" will miss not only a delightfully written book, a short but vivid record of the most romantic human adventure of exploration of our day, and a subtle picture of its leader, but also a beautiful page of human tribute to the vocally inarticulate members of nature's family. That page is written by the man to whom Igloo was more than a friend" [as the stone over Igloo's grave reads]. Richard E. Byrd has written a foreword to "Igloo" which is itself an added monument to his "good companion."

Among other things, Admiral Byrd wrote: "He taught me much. We humans are, I am convinced, far too casual in our acceptance of the qualities of wild creatures. The amazing feats they perform as part of their routine we dismiss as instinctive. But the golden plover, without compass or sextant, flies unerringly in nonstop flight from Alaska to Hawaii, a two way trip each year. The arctic tern, avid of sunlight, migrates between the north and south polar regions, eleven thousand miles each way, and thus dwells constantly in daylight. . . .

"We are too smug about the mentality and the emotions of animals. Is our society as well organized as that of the bees and the ants? I have seen a wild duck linger and die because its mate was killed. I have known Eskimo huskies to pull in harness until they dropped of exhaustion—for what else but for zeal. And one husky, too old and weak for full duty, died of grief when a pup took his place on the team.

"Igloo it was who opened my eyes to the fact that animals can think and suffer, be loyal and gallant."

CYRENA VAN GORDON RETURNS FOR OPERA AFTER NURSE'S ROLE

Cyrena Van Gordon, contralto of the Chicago Civic Opera company, arrived in Chicago yesterday for the coming operatic season after a summer spent in nursing her foster brother, J. L. McGriff, 35 years old, who was seriously ill. She arrived on the Broadway limited of the Pennsylvania railroad in the Union station, accompanied by her brother.

In the Hotel Sherman, where Miss Van Gordon will make her home, she told the story of her fight to help her brother regain his health. As she was preparing to sail for Europe she was notified that he was ill in Springfield, Mass., from a rare type of cerebral hemorrhage. She took him to New York, where he entered a neurological institute, and when he was able, removed him to her New York apartment, where she nursed him alone.

"I just canceled my European engagement and donned a nurse's uniform," she said. "He is now on the road to recovery, and will make his home with me as he has in the past. He was totally paralyzed, but is only partially paralyzed now and will be entirely well before long."

Miss Van Gordon said she had lost considerable weight, but was in excellent health.

Claudia Muzio, leading soprano of the opera company, who will open the season in "La Tosca" next Monday night, arrived yesterday morning over the New York Central Commodore Vanderbilt in the La Salle street station. Miss Muzio was accompanied by her husband, Renato Liberati, and her mother, Mrs. Giovanna Muzio.

Stock's Melody Makers Open Tuesday Series

Every One Seems Pleased, Including Conductor.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mr. Stock's great band of melody makers, the Chicago Symphony orchestra, opened the Tuesday series of concerts yesterday afternoon, and the patrons did their bit by filling the hall with their physical presences and the air with their applause.

Every one on the platform and off seemed to be having the best kind of a time. The program was expertly conceivrd and joyously executed. The orchestra was its own soloist, a whole constellation of star performers. The audience was greeted with Brahms' "Academic Festival" overture and sent away with Strauss' "Emperor" waltzes ringing in their ears and tingling their toes. In between these limits were other observances of a most agreeable nature.

One of them was Franck's single symphony, a thing of delicate contours and gorgeous mass effects, about as imaginative and colorful an affair as the modern symphonic world has so far made public. The other was Dohanyi's Suite, opus 19, by no means as large in acreage and avoirdupois as the symphony, but even more fascinating in color and elusive in tricky melody. These, with the overtures and the waltzes, made up the program.

It was sheer delight to hear the orchestra play them. The suavity of tone, the elasticity of rhythm, the delicacy at one moment, the unblared firmness at another showed that even thus early in the season that the orchestra has attained midseason form.

Mr. Stock was pleased at the results. He had every reason to be.

Don Jonson, who has met and overcome about as great a handicap as can confront a pianist, gave a recital at Kimball hall last evening. The handicap is that he has no left hand; only a right hand and a left wrist. But it is astonishing to hear what a brilliant effect he makes with a sixty per cent equipment.

Naturally, there is some piano music that he must avoid entirely, and naturally, also, he is obliged to rearrange what he does use for his own type of technic. Rearrangement in his case does not mean slighting. He plays ancients like Bach and Scarlatti and moderns such as Ravel, Debussy, Albeniz, Scriabine, and Prokofieff firmly, generally correctly, and frequently brilliantly.

He is also a composer of considerable talent. Some of his works he played as piano solos. Two groups of songs were sung by William Russell, a baritone with a fresh, agreeable, and expressive voice. In them Mr. Jonson, who, by the way, is a protégé of Paderewski, indicated that he has a distinct taste for well wrought melody and that he has observed modern tendencies of harmonization with a good deal of accuracy.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Almost anything can cause a row at a bridge table, yet there is no single subject so filled with controversy as that of preempting.

During the recent official convention in Chicago four well known bridge experts and the writer were asked to go over a series of hands which a lecturer had arranged on lantern slides to illustrate various bids. This man had some ten hands as examples of each possible initial bid. Without exception, all those present nodded approval on the examples of the one bid (game approach) and the two bid (game invitation) and the three bid (game demand). But when the examples of so-called preemptive bids were shown the air was filled with shouts and heated argument.

While it is possible that the strong top hearts might fit with the heart holding of partner, it is improbable that game would be more likely at hearts than at clubs. On the other hand, the great weakness in spades and diamonds gives rise to a strong possibility of adverse strength in these two suits which, if bid by opponents, might easily result in the loss of the declaration by South. The hand:

NORTH.
♠—A,10,8,5,4
♦—K,5

WEST
♠—K,9,2
♥—J,5,3,2
♦—Q,J,10,3

EAST
♠—J,7,3
♥—8,7
♦—A,9,8,7,6,2

SOUTH (Dealer).
♠—Q,6
♥—A,K,Q
♦—4
♣—K,Q,J,10,7,4,3

Whether or not this hand requires a shut-out is unquestionably open to debate. But, in spite of the strong holding I believe this hand should be preempted.

South opened with a bid of five clubs. West, North, and East passed.

West opened the ♦ Q. The K went up from dummy and East took the trick with the ace, leading back the ♦ 9, which South trumped. South then led the ♣ K, which was taken by East's ace. East returned the ♥ 8, which South took with the ace. South then played another round of trumps, clearing the suit.

At this point most players would have conceded a spade trick and a set. However, those of you who have studied the squeeze hands discussed in my last two articles should at least know that the squeeze possibility should be considered before donating any tricks to the adversaries. Perhaps to some of you it is apparent that if the ♠ K is in West's hand that hand may be squeezed.

South should play all but one trump. This would leave South with the ♠ Q-6, the ♥ K-Q, and a small club. Dummy holds the ♠ A-10 and the ♥ 10-9-6, and West holds the ♠ K-9 and the ♥ J-5-3.

South now leads the ♥ K and Q, which leaves dummy with the ♠ A-10 and the ♥ 10, and West with the ♠ K-9 and the ♥ J. South now leads his last trump. If West throws the ♥ J, dummy throws the ♠ 10, then dummy's two remaining cards, ♠ A and ♥ 10, are good.

If, on the other hand, West discards the ♠ 9, dummy will discard the ♥ 10. South will then lead the ♠ 6 to dummy's ace, dropping West's king, and the 10 back to his own queen.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card, cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as 3, 5, H, K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Souvenir Hunters Infest Birthplace of T. A. Edison

Milan, O., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Souvenir hunters have descended in swarms upon Milan, the birthplace of Thomas A. Edison. Memento seekers have torn bark from trees about the little brick house where the inventor was born, and picked up all manner of objects lying about to take away with them. So many visitors have knocked at the door that Miss Henrietta Wadsworth, its occupant, has refused to admit them any longer.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In the Voice of the People column yesterday THE TRIBUNE printed a letter to the editor signed with the name of Carl Sandburg, well known literary man. The letter deprecated praise given by Poetry magazine to George Dillon's verse and contrasted with Mr. Dillon's work the poems of Scharmel Iris to the great advantage of the latter. Mr. Sandburg said last evening that the letter was a forgery; that he never saw it until it was printed in THE TRIBUNE. Last spring Mr. Sandburg was one of a committee of the Chicago Foundation for Literature which awarded Mr. Dillon a $200 prize for his verse.

Chief William Collins of the county highway police said yesterday he had erred in criticizing Dr. A. M. Purves of Des Plaines in refutation of charges that his subordinates were favoring the Des Plaines hospital in bringing all accident cases there. He said he unintentionally named Dr. Purves when he meant Dr. C. A. Earle of Des Plaines who had complained to him about the alleged practice.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

AMONG the new shows of the week, the best may be found at the Majestic theater, where the Civic Shakespeareans are giving "Julius Caesar" a sonorous and stirring performance. After the gibbering of "The Blue Ghost" and the twittering of "Against the Wind"—recently inspected as examples of the virtues of modern authorship—the stately stride of the old Romans and the majestic poetry of Shakespeare in one of his greatest tragedies come as a welcome relief.

Fritz Leiber, as in former seasons, is the Mark Antony, romantic firebrand of this great story out of Plutarch's Lives. He is Antony the athlete and demagogue, rather than Antony the patrician sportsman and polished orator. The characterization is picturesque, highly emotionalized and intensely energetic.

The stage direction of the mob during the famous funeral oration changes Mr. Leiber's treatment of that scene, it seems to me, giving a more lively color to the action, but interfering with the oratorical flow and rhythm of the speech. This is the most highly elaborated management of the episode that I have ever seen, and the mob, which includes all of the minor principals in the company, is such a busy and turbulent gang that Mr. Leiber is compelled to deliver his address in innings, with numerous pauses for warming up to new climaxes.

Brutus, the troubled statesman and central character, is acted with impressive dignity by Tyrone Power. He follows the idealistic line of interpretation, and achieves a Brutus who lives up to his epitaph. This noblest Roman of them all has the noblest voice to be found on the American stage.

Pedro de Cordoba is a commanding figure and a threatening personality as Cassius, the political realist among the conspirators; and Helen Menken sketches Calpurnia vividly in her brief appearances. William Faversham, a brilliant Mark Antony of twenty years ago—the best of my play-going experiences—flits into and out of the picture as a hoary soothsayer.

Comparison between this "Julius Caesar" and that of last year's company may be unnecessary, but it struck me that there has been a slowing down of pace in the movement of the play. There is something to be said in favor of the simplified and unpretentious Shakespeare that Mr. Leiber offered at the Civic theater.

"The Third Little Show" has decided to continue to enjoy its popularity at the Great Northern theater through the week of Nov. 1, and maybe longer. . . . The perennial operetta, "Blossom Time," will follow Miss Barrymore at the Grand Opera house Nov. 8.

Public Upholds Rector's Revolt from Dry Law

Rev. Dr. Prince Tells of Congregation's O. K.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rev. Dr. Herbert W. Prince, rector of the Episcopal church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest, last night strengthened his stand against the use of churches in the wet and dry issue. In a recent issue of his parish bulletin the Lake Forest rector stated formally why he would not allow his parish paper to print announcements of dry massmeetings to be held on the north shore and declared the prohibition law cannot be enforced.

In his statement last night, Dr. Prince declared the whole problem of the 18th amendment should be presented to the country in a referendum. He asserted his agreement with the recent action of the American Legion which seeks such a nation-wide vote.

"The charge that my statement caused a rift in the congregation is pure nonsense," Dr. Prince added. "Quite to the contrary, my statement which has been in the hands of the parish several days, has drawn nothing but favorable comment. This has been coming to me in the mails both from people within the parish and out of it."

Comments throughout the city on Dr. Prince's statement varied. Dean Shaller Mathews, president of the Chicago Church federation, stated last night that in such issues "silence is propaganda. The announcement of either wet or dry meetings would not seem to me to commit the group to whom the announcement was made to a partisan position. On the other hand, the silence in the refusal to make such an announcement would seem to commit that group to a partisan position."

BRITISH LADY TELLS OF PRESIDENTIAL GIN FLAVORING OF 1828

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—To British eyes there seems to have been a tarnish of crassness in the glitter of Washington's social life in 1828.

Letters written 103 years ago by Mrs. Basil Hall, English visitor, just received by the manuscript division of the library of congress, recite in great detail the things she found objectionable in capital life and customs.

Mrs. Hall, wife of an author, spent several weeks in the city and reported to her sister, to whom she wrote, she cared little for anything in America and less about the "muddy, cold little town on the Potomac."

Gin and tobacco were among the most obnoxious things about which she complained in her almost daily missives. The gin bubbled up at a reception given by John Quincy Adams. Refreshments "smelling strongly of gin," she remarked, were "handed areund, but the greater part of the eatables was devoured by the most ordinary company."

Tobacco was another of the capital horrors besetting her, particularly the "eating" kind. She described her fear for her dress while a guest at a ball given by the secertary of the navy.

Mrs. Bevans Answers Critic Who Believes She's Too Lenient

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A father took me to task the other day.

"I think you were too soft," he said, "in what you wrote yesterday. I mean, about not correcting children before people, about reproving them and scolding them privately.

"Now take table manners. Suppose were having dinner at home and Ellen spills some gravy on the tablecloth. I motion to her to leave the table and out in the hall I say, 'Darling, you spilled gravy on the cloth. Thats very unpleasant.' Our little Mary sticks her spoon in her ear and I call her into the other room and say, 'Mary, take your spoon out of your ear—that's a very careless way to eat. No one likes to see you put your spoon in your ear.' I think that is altogether too gentle."

Then he grew serious and went on to say that when children get out in the world they are not reproved so softly. They get in full force the world's blast. The world does not temper the wind to the shorn lamb and if nothing but gentleness and softness have marked their treatment at home, the world's disapproval hits them too hard.

And I got thinking about the criticism. In the first place, no suggestion for management can be absolutely put into effect—to the letter, I mean. It isn't humanly possible never to correct or scold a child before any one. Table manners are rather a special exception, because almost the only time you can teach them is at the table when there are others present.

In the second place, I dont believe that having consideration for children's feelings is being soft. I think it is merely being friendly and intelligent.

And in the third place, I don't believe that a home should be a slice of the world at large—that it should try to reproduce the hard knocks, the impersonalness, the unsparingness that is a necessary part of business or professional life.

George Arliss, star of the stage and screen, and his wife passed through Chicago yesterday on their way to Hollywood. Mr. Arliss said that he was rested and fit for work after a five and one-half months' vacation in England.

An impression of English life was that the British stage is holding its own with the moving pictures, Mr. Arliss revealed. His next picture will be "The Man Who Played God." Dudley Diggs, Arliss' manager for eight years, accompanied him.

Afternoon Suit Has Chic Basque Jacket

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Suits for afternoon this winter are prone to depart from the classic cut that is the tailor's specialty. They are often individual and always distinctly dressmakery. Jackets cut like the old fashioned basque are a new style that is being worn for afternoon. Yvonne Carette created this jacket, for the tailleur. Her best basque jacket model is shown in our sketch today. The suit is made of moss green duvetyne, and trimmed with black astrakhan.

The jacket of this suit closes surplice fashion, 'way around on the left hip, with four duvetyne covered buttons. The shawl collar of astrakhan meets these buttons in a loop. A flared peplum of black astrakhan, whi is very wide on the right side and narrows to a triangular point at front and back on the left side, gives the jacket a personal character which is increased by the astrakhan puffs at the tops of the sleeves. There is a large, flat muff of astrakhan to complete the suit.

The skirt of this suit is narrow and quite long, in the newest skirt mode of Paris. It wraps across in front, and down the closing on the right side is a row of duvetyne covered buttons from the top of the skirt to the hem.

The blouse, which is shown in the small sketch, is made of white brocaded satin, and it follows the lines of the jacket, except that the sleeves end with the short puff tops and the waistline is held by a satin sash knotted on the left side. There is a flat tailored collar of satin and a matching bow tie.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DINNER FROCK.

This new hostess or lounging pajama ensemble has a quaint charm all its own. It has slim, diagonal lines, and is carried out in three shades of one color. The tiny bolero jacket with little puffed sleeves finishes its perfectly. Black transparent velvet, with the upper part in gold lamé, and three tones of purple satin crêpe are chic suggestions.

The pattern, 3367, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 5 yards of 36 inch dark material with ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting and 1 yard of 39 inch light material.

Parisian Offerings of Styles for Autumn Kind to Complexions

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Nobody need fear now that fashion will flaunt favored colors in her face which will make war on her complexion—or the shade of her hair.

There are colors to keep everybody in the mode, and at the same time be kind. For instance, consider Maggy Rouff.

Rouff currently is employing marigold, sulphur yellow, grege, coral, and black. Also white silks and wools for day wear.

Chantal is offering navy, emerald, light greens and black for day wear. This designer uses royal pink, slate blue and black for evening.

For day wear, Chantal advances shantung, crêpe de chine, georgette, duvetine, and diagonal wool. Heavy crêpe satin and velvet have their place in the evening garb, too, as do small, heavy pattern laces, and chantilly. Breitschwantz, caracul and red fox are Chantel touches. Many contrasting bodices are here to choose from.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Millions of square feet of greenhouse space will be open to public inspection for the first time when Illinois florists celebrate a national fall flower festival by keeping "open house" Nov. 7 to 11. In addition to obtaining information on one of the state's great industries, visitors will see such floral treasures as rare orchids, roses, chrysanthemums and other flowers far out of their natural season and habitat.

Invitations have been extended to garden clubs, women's clubs, civic organizations and high schools as well as the public in general by Paul E. Weiss, Otto Amling, and Joseph Kohout, members of the special flower growers' committee of the Allied Florists of Illinois. During the open house period, doors ordinarily locked will be open from 1 to 4 p. m. daily.

United States census figures credit Illinois greenhouses with covering a total of 16,000,000 square feet, employing more than 4,000 persons, structures and equipment costing more than $14,000,000 and producing annually flowers sold wholesale at $11,188,362.

Accurate control of temperatures and moisture will be one of the unusual features interesting to flower lovers unacquainted with the greenhouse procedure.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Mrs. Hoover was guest of honor this afternoon at a tea of the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Otto Veerhoff, president of the Washington branch, received the guests with Mrs. Hoover.

Wife Admits Mate Is Kind and Generous, but Wants to Leave

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am a young woman of 30 and have been married six years. I have a nice home and a husband who loves me and for whom I have a deep respect. But there is another man in my life. He is only 24, but looks years older and acts older.

"I met him not so long ago, but it was a case of love on sight, a feeling I never had for my husband. He returns the feeling. But our question is: 'Who is to tell my husband?' He thinks I should. I say it is his place.

"I don't want to hurt my husband too much, as he always has been good to me. Lou."

Well, it WOULD be a woman, with a husband that is good to her who would be working up a silly liaison on the side, now, wouldn't it? What a big, brave fellow that is you've got on the string! Wants you to do the dirty work about announcing the news to your husband. Perhaps he is the man for you, after all. What's that old one about birds of a feather?

Anyway, your type of woman, "Lou," is just too stupid to be rescued from the trouble you set out to make for yourself. You are selfish. No one counts but yourselves. No one's happiness matters but yours. And you take such crazy routes to reach happiness.

You, being the woman and older than the boy, are the guilty party. It's no trick, therefore no triumph, for an older woman to stir up a certain kind of emotion in a young man. It's not the real thing in emotions, as your maturity should recognize. This thing between you two isn't the love that carries marriage through to a successful finish. The other man, who in spite of your lightheaded tendencies can win your respect, is far and away the best bet.

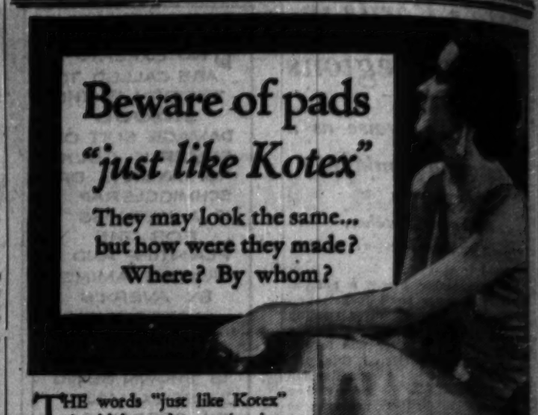
I think some of you married women, spoiled by kind husbands, deliberately work yourselves up into romances on the side. Some of you, luckily, have the good sense to withdraw before you break up a couple of other lives. But, because you have everything, you must have that one extra thing, which, if you ask me, is excitement more often than anything else. Or, you want to pose as martyrs, married to a man who doesn't thrill you every minute.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Boy Friends Banned.

"Dear Miss Blake: I like a boy who asks to take me out persistently. I am not allowed to have boy friends. Shall I tell him this? Lorraine.

Tell him the reason and assure him that when you are allowed to go out you will gladly accept his invitation.



THE words "just like Kotex" should be a danger signal to every purchaser of sanitary protection! They cannot be true.

A pad, to be like Kotex, would have to be made in the Kotex factory. Unique, patented machinery makes Kotex from start to finish. Hands never touch it. Rigid cleanliness prevails. Materials used are superior, made especially for Kotex.

Take no chances. When buying sanitary pads already wrapped, ask the clerk, "Is this real Kotex?"

Thus be sure you are getting no inferior substitute. You know Kotex is safe. Hospitals used more than 10,000,000 pads last year.

Kotex is soft. It is adjustable, easily disposed of. May be worn on either side with safety.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Corbin, while playing a week's vaudeville engagement in Thrace, an upstate New York town, is showered with invitations by Bill Fitzroy, friend of her pianist, and Wallace Graham, a wayfarer friend of Bill's. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's attitude to her is of a sufficient nature. Irma marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence on the estate of her Aunt Tessie. A son is born to Irma. He becomes the center of attention. Wallace, and Irma go on a trip to Europe. Irma spoils their pleasure because of her worry over the baby. They meet Kenneth Byrnes, a wealthy banker from New York, through friends from the boat. He has a cabin on a boat sailing to the Orient, which Irma persuades him to sell to Wallace. Back to Thrace they find the baby well. Mildred planning a romantic marriage with Scott Avery. Wallace takes Mildred out of school and appoints Irma to guard her. Mildred eludes her guard and elopes with Avery. Wallace accuses Irma of marrying Mildred off to be rid of her. They quarrel and Irma leaves, taking the baby with her to New York.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

A NEW PARTNER.

Lying, stretched upon her day bed, with the baby prattling contentedly beside her on a big chair, Irma thought of Wallace. Had he been surprised to find her gone? By this time Bill had told him all he knew about her departure. Wallace no doubt was perfectly contented. He certainly would not mind losing her, and no matter what his opinion of her was, he would know that in her care his child was safe. Just before she dropped into a short, heavy slumber she hoped that Mildred had been located and that Wallace had reconciled himself to her marriage.

Miss March, looking very disapproving and hampered, prepared dinner for herself and the baby in the shallow, little kitchenette. It had been agreed that Irma was to shift for herself, eating out or cooking her own dinner as her mood dictated.

Tonight she went out. The short nap refreshed her considerably and when the baby was sleeping peacefully in the bed which Irma, after careful examination, knew to be clean, she bathed and dressed and ventured forth. She dined in a Hungarian restaurant and later went to the movies. Tomorrow the practicing that had been set aside in the interests of dining out and seeing the movies would have to start. Also, unless she had paid a whole month's rent, but God alone knew how far she was from a job.

She pondered with increased trepidation just how far away that job was when, on the following morning, she joined the limbering up class at Rackoveya's studio.

The awful stiffness of her body frightened her. Would it ever again move without effort? Within the week would she be able to make it forget that years had passed and that she had borne a child since she had last done professional dancing?

The fresh, easy grace of the younger girls struck terror to her heart. They were in choruses of current attractions. Some were no older than Irma. All of them were able to do the most strenuous contortions with almost casualness. There was a dubious consolation in remembering that she wasn't an acrobatic dancer, anyhow. Her forte was romance dances. There was money, perhaps, but certainly not beauty in rolling splits. Still, even in her sort of dancing one had to do a back hand without looking as though it were an agonizing pain.

She worked very hard that day. It was more wearing and the results far more heart warming than the cleaning of the little apartment. It was difficult to get to sleep that night. How in the name of God could she ever get a job if every little chorus girl in town could dance circles around her? How could she live on a chorus salary providing that her dancing and looks were good enough for her to get a chorus job? As a matter of fact it would probably be as tough to get that as it would to get a decent job. At almost 30 a girl is getting a little old to break into the chorus.

By the time her money was getting very low she would know whether or not she could ever dance professionally again. Suppose she couldn't? What then? What would become of the baby? Wallace would take him, of course, but how could she bear giving him up. Wallace would not take her nor would she care to go to him. She had no friends. Bill Fitzroy was ruled out, but unless some vital matter concerning the baby arose she would not impose upon his kindness again. What was ahead of her?

But like so many things that haunt us in the dark hours, Irma's fears fled with the sunlight and that day saw her terror substantially lessened. Though her body ached from the strain which had been put upon it, there was a noticeable improvement. It was as though her limbs were awakening to the fact that at some earlier forgotten period these ridiculous undulations had not been completely unknown. At noon she had a sandwich and a cup of coffee, and put in the balance of her rest period practicing hand and arm movements with castanets and tiny jangling thumb cymbals used in oriental routines. She put "Anitra's Dance" on Rackoveya's victrola and after a few minutes turned it off. There was a baby faced blond watching her with a slightly amused light in her eyes. Irma knew better than to express her rising spirits to such a blight.

She couldn't guess that by the end of the week she and the little blond would be munching their sandwiches side by side and that the little blond would be painstakingly imitating the graceful gestures of Irma's arms. Nor will she guess that by that time the almost insolent confidence in her ability which had placed her in many engagements would have returned with full force.

Mr. Rackoveya introduced her to a young man who was interested in finding a partner with whom to practice Spanish dancing. His name was Carlos Gonzales. At least he said it was. Looking at his undeniably Anglo-Saxon face, Irma was reminded of Phil de Rodriquez's passion for having his name agree with his dancing. But there the similarity between Phil and Carlos ended. Carlos was depressingly refined and mannerly.

He was a good dancer. There was strength and sureness in his slim body. Almost from the start Irma knew that here was an ideal partner. She had never felt the confidence with Phil that a few days with Carlos gave her. He was pleased with her, too. It had been difficult to find some one slight enough for him to handle with ease and an appearance of lazy strength. From the first each regarded the other calculatingly, wondering if a permanent business partnership could be established. Carlos' interest was solely in Spanish dancing, and Irma knew that she was at her best in it. If some crass didn't suddenly sweep the country like the Hawaiian fad had some years before, Spanish dancing had a chance to be in the money. Lots of people had drawn huge salaries with Spanish dancing. To be sure, most of them had been mainly genuine Spaniards who had cashed in. Still, all Irma wanted was a decent living. The day was gone when she craved sparkling lights and hear her name to high heaven.

Over coffee and ham-on-roll sandwiches at the Automat the dancing team of Gonzales and Irma was formed. Carlos thought that both Corbin and Gonzales were fatal names to attach to a Spanish dancing act.

"I'll call myself Irma if that'll please you better, but you know, kid, it'd be a good act I could call myself O'Shaughnessy and they'd still book it."

"Yes, but there's no use in starting out with a handicap, now is there?"

He shook her head. She was wondering if she shouldn't have tried to get a job independently. Carlos was excited over the idea that he could devise a smart routine and get in a Broadway show. Irma was given to day dreams at this stage of the game. She was thinking how fortunate it would be if they could get some vaudeville booking. Still vaudeville would be difficult for her. She would not be able to command a salary large enough to have the baby and Miss March travel with her. To have him home would be hell. Besides, for Spanish dancing an act had to be beautifully dressed. Where would she and Carlos get a $1,000 for costumes, to say nothing of cyclaramas and drops?

"You know," she said, "you and I must have put coke instead of sugar in that coffee. Where could we get money enough to dress the act?"

"I'm telling you, darling, we're going in a Broadway show. They'll furnish costumes."

"Yes, but just supposing we're too good for Broadway shows," she insisted grimly, "or they haven't enough money to pay us? In that case we'll have to try vaudeville. Where would we get drops and costumes?"

He stared meditatively at the crowd around the coffee slots. "I don't want to go in vaudeville," he said. "I can't bear being thrust into a new town every few days. It's depressing. If I wanted to go in vaudeville I would have gone long ago. I could have gone with the Dorothy Diamond act."

"Well, you know, I have terrific responsibilities, Carlos. I'll tell you what. We'll arrange some routines together. It won't hurt either of us to work them out. Then if one gets a chance at a job, okay. You see, I may have to try for a chorus job."

"All right. We'll leave it that way." He sighed deeply. "The need for money is a nuisance, isn't it?"

"You talk as though you didn't have to worry about money."

"Well, of course, I have no responsibilities and I live very cheaply. You must come see my place. It's really very pleasant."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Asks for Heating Stoves.

"Do you know where we can secure some heating stoves? We have been trying to set three families up in housekeeping and have been able to get the furniture they need but we still lack stoves. M. H."

With the coming of cold weather many needy families will suffer intensely if we do not provide them with the stoves which needed stoves. If you have one not being used, won't you donate it, please?

Bright Sayings of the Children

My little daughter Virginia was quite eager to enter some of our flowers in a contest. I told her I thought it best not to enter them as she would not get a prize. She exclaimed, "But, mother, I'll get horrible mention."

"T. E. C."

While having our dinner the other day Harold, our little boy, sipped his coffee and said, "Mother, put some sugar in my coffee." I said, "I did, son."

"Well, then, you didn't wind it," he answered.

Some Visitors Who Formerly Resided Here

BY THALIA.

TOWARDS the end of November and the beginning of December Chicago will have several interesting visitors. Mr. and Mrs. F. Louis Slade, she who was Caroline McCormick and is Chauncey McCormick's sister, probably will make a stopover stay on their way home from the Institute of Pacific Relations which they have been attending in China. And Mrs. James W. Morrison, who, with Mrs. William S. Monroe, have also been attending the institute, is expected to arrive shortly thereafter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Herman Gade are coming over from Paris, sailing on the Ile de France next Sunday, for quite a long stay in this country. They're to be in the east for most of November, though, and won't arrive here until the last of the month. May Birkhead writes an interesting tale in the Paris Tribune about Mr. Gade's store of fine old Kentucky bourbon, shipped over B. P. [before prohibition] and preserved in special wooden casks in the cellars of the Gade château at Mesnil St. Denis. One of the enjoyments of the Gade Sunday receptions has been the very excellent mint juleps [Mr. Gade had a bed of mint planted soon after they took the château], but recently there were indications that the supply of bourbon wasn't as great as supposed. The opening of a new barrel revealed rye content instead of bourbon, and the tapping of a second barrel showed the same result. Mr. Gade refused to investigate further.

At the Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan asylum's benefit at "Against the Wind" at the Blackstone theater last night were a gay group of debutantes, guests of Mrs. Roy Sturtevant, ticket chairman for the benefit; Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. in a delightful white satin evening ensemble with a bouquet of black velvet violets at the waist and black suede gloves; Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler, chairman of the board of the nursery, and Mr. Sudler, the Louis Sudlers, Miss Eleanor Dennehy in a deep purple dress with an interesting flat cowl collar; the Lawrence Williams, Mrs. William E. Clow, Miss Martha Sarver, Mrs. Henry Blair and Miss Anita Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Van Wagenen Ailing, Mrs. Jacob Bauer, her daughter, Miss Rosemary Baur, and the latter's fiancé, Bartle Bull; Miss Hortense Henry in white satin and a nasturtium-colored velvet wrap, her fiancé, Gordon Kelley, the Russell Kelleys, Mrs. Leroy Fuller, Mrs. Robert G. McGann, the James H. Douglasses Jr., Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter III, in sapphire blue chiffon, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moyer, Mr. and Mrs. Eames McVeagh, Augustus Peabody, Mrs. Hugh McBirney, Col. George Voevodsky, the George A. Ranneys, and many more.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. McKinlock Soon to Go to Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock are in Chicago at the Lake Shore Drive hotel, but they're only staying for about two weeks and are then going to their place in Palm Beach. Mrs. McKinlock tells me that work on their new residence in Lake Forest is to begin in the spring, and that Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard [Muriel McCormick] won't be making any visits to Chicago this winter, but are going to be in Florida about the middle of December.

Mrs. Bruce Thorné was elected president of Emerson House to succeed Miss Ruth Elting at the annual meeting yesterday, and the other officers are Mrs. Louis Sudler, first vice president; Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, second vice president; Mrs. Press Hodgkins, treasurer; Miss Barbara Neff, assistant treasurer; Miss Elting, corresponding secretary, and Miss Jane Schutler, recording secretary. The board is planning some sort of a benefit to raise its yearly budget, but hasn't decided yet what it's to be.

Gertrude Ely to Talk on Tuesday About Russia.

Tickets for Gertrude Ely's informal talk on "Seeing Russia with Bernard Shaw," under the auspices of the League of Women Voters at the Casino next Tuesday, are going with a rapidity that gratifies the committee. Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, Mrs. Clyde Carr, Mrs. Robert Gregory, Mrs. Hugh McBirney, Mrs. J. Paul Welling, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey [who has just become a member of the Cook county league board], and Mrs. Quincey Wright are among those who have reserved places. Miss Ely isn't to arrive until the day of the lecture, and Mrs. William G. Hibbard, whose guest she is to be, hasn't heard whether she can stay over for a day or so to be entertained by all the people who want to give parties for her. Mrs. Grant Laing is to take tickets at the door, and Louise Brewer, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Roberta Harvey, and Elinor Durbin are to usher. The talk is to be at 5 o'clock, so that Tuesday afternoon Symphony-goers may attend.

Notes—The young Joseph Terbells (Phoebe Logan) are to depart this region for the east about Nov. 10. They'll be with Mr. Terbell's mother, Mrs. Joseph W. Terbell, in New York until they decide where they'll live for the winter, and next spring they're to get a place of their own in the country.

Members of the Service club are congratulating themselves on the total receipts—$15,000—of their annual revue last Saturday night at the Civic Opera house. During the dress rehearsal on the night before the show, the club presented the president, Mrs. Stanley Zaring, with a platinum wrist watch as an expression of gratitude for her efforts toward making the affair a success.

Some more—The Conway Olmsteds [Mary Elizabeth Johnston] are back from their wedding trip to Honolulu and are getting established in their apartment at 1309 Astor street. . . . Mr. and Mrs. George E. Marcy, who have been at the Drake hotel for the last few months, have departed for their annual winter stay in California. . . . Mr. and Mrs. George B. Massey have returned from an enjoyable jaunt to Washington in their son's open Ford roadster—they made the trip in three days each way and are enthusiastic about that method of traveling. . . . Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis is again at the Ambassador, having arrived last Friday in New York on the Bremen—she attended the reception given by Ambassador Claudel for the French delegation to the Yorktown celebration. . . . Jean Adams and Samuel Carson Pirie Jr., after their marriage on Thursday, are to motor to Florida, and then will have their car shipped to Havana and Jamaica; on the way back they will spend Thanksgiving in New York with Mr. Pirie's parents.

Speaker on Russia

MISS GERTRUDE ELY.

Miss Gertrude Ely of Philadelphia is to give an informal talk on "Seeing Russia with Bernard Shaw," under the auspices of the League of Women Voters at the Casino at 5 o'clock on Tuesday, Nov. 3.

FLEMISH MASTERS' COLOR SECRETS, LONG LOST, ARE REGAINED?

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 27.—A claim has just been made before the Academy of Sciences here that the secret of colors used by old masters has been rediscovered after having been lost for two centuries.

The discovery is said to have been the work of Jacques Maroger, technical counsel of the Louvre museum. He has spent twenty-five years studying the composition of paint. An account of his studies and the result was read to the academy by Maurice Bocagne, a member of the academy.

According to M. Bocagne, M. Maroger has rediscovered the old process of grinding and mixing pigments as it was originated by Van Eyck and used by a long succession of great painters to whom the secret was handed down orally from studio to studio. Of that line Fragonard was the last to use the old method. With him the formula was lost.

Chemists and painters have searched in vain since then to find it. Now Maroger claims to have discovered a method of grinding and mixing pigments with linseed oil which gives the same transparency and luminosity which characterize the work of great masters.

Food Talk

"Will you please print in your column a recipe for pumpkin pie? Also, tell me is the crust supposed to be baked first for pumpkin pie, or does one put the pumpkin filling right into the unbaked crust? Is pie crust, such as is used for cream fillings, satisfactory for this kind of pie?" asks Mrs. F. L. S.

Pumpkin pie filling is poured into an unbaked crust, and the completed pie should then be put into a rather hot oven for the first ten or fifteen minutes, after which period the heat is reduced to slow oven temperature, and the slow baking, if it is a large pie, will take about an hour more.

It is difficult to make generalities about the different pie crusts. Ordinarily a good pie crust recipe will serve for most pie filling. When a cream pie filling, such as custard, is used, the cooked filling is placed in a baked crust. In instances such as the pumpkin filling, where the ingredients are not cooked, the filling is poured into an unbaked crust.

PUMPKIN PIE.

2 eggs.
¾ cup of brown sugar.
1 cup of rich milk.
¼ teaspoon of salt.
½ teaspoon of cinnamon.

Put the pumpkin through a sieve. Mix the sugar, spices, and salt in a bowl. Beat the egg yolks and add to the pumpkin, and add together to the dry ingredients. Pour in the milk, and then the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into the unbaked pie crust.

FAIRY GINGERBREAD WAFERS.

1 cup of sugar.
½ cup of butter.
½ cup of milk.
Small ½ teaspoon of soda.
2 cups of flour.
1 teaspoon of ginger.

Cream the butter and sugar thoroughly. Dissolve the soda in the milk, and add to the sugar and butter. Sift the ginger with the flour and add to the mixture. Turn cookie sheets or pans upside down; grease, and spread the wafter mixture over the surfaces very thin with a knife. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] until a light brown. Mark off in squares as soon as the sheets are removed from the oven, and slip the cookies off while warm.

CABBAGE, PINEAPPLE AND RAISIN SLAW.

Shred one small head of cabbage very fine. Add to it one-half cup of shredded pineapple and one-half cup of seedless raisins. Marinate with French dressing. Toss the ingredients with a fork until thoroughly combined with the dressing. Drain, and serve with a fruit salad dressing.

Beautiful Femme, 1931, Must Exhibit Well Cared for Nails

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Do you file your nails with a steel file or an emery board? The emery board is the nicer tool of the two. Anyway, it should be used after the steel file, if the latter has been used to pull down nails that have grown too Oriental of length for active American girl use.

When you file the nails, file from the sides toward the tip. Finish with the fine side of the emery board to bevel the nail edge smoothly. Then, if you are brittle nailed, don't forget to serve your fingertips with a bit of massage cream or cuticle oil just so you won't have to struggle to keep that broken nailed finger out of sight at the luncheon table.

Now, one thing a lady just cannot have this year of the sweet, simple and girlish five feet or so of femininity is a nicotine stained nail tip. No suspicious smudge along the inside length of the second and third fingers. It just doesn't go with the sweet, unsophisticated dear in her new type frock. There are some good nicotine stain removers on the market. They'll take them off nails and fingertips. All discolorations respond to their application. Gardening stains, vegetable fall preserving stains, etc.

There are some good home remedies for removing stains. Tomato juice is almost as invigorating in this respect as in cocktail form. A spotless nail pick-me-up, you may consider it. The vegetable stains respond almost instantly. For stubborner stains, as nicotine, you can mix a bit of powdered pumice stone with peroxide and scrub the stain off with a nail brush. Or, wet the fingers with the peroxide and then add some pumice stone and scrub. This scrubs off the nail polish, to be sure, but there are those clever little bottles of nail polish to be had at reasonable prices so that every dressing table simply must have one.

No doubt you've seen the neat little nail tip whiteners that come in pencil form. A neat invention, that. You can carry one around in your purse for 5:30 nail primping for the downtown dinner date.

LILLIE H.: STRENUOUS EXERcise is necessary to reduce the bust, and it must be done systematically to be effective. Rowing, bag punching, and swinging Indian clubs are excellent exercises for that purpose. Rotating the arms is another effective exercise.

Prevent . . . TONIGHT or Cure . . . TOMORROW

WHICH WILL YOU DO?

It may be just a coated tongue tonight . . .

When Nature coats tongues, makes eyes dull and breath bad, she says, "Your child's system is clogged with waste impurities. He needs help."

Help tonight is simple. A dose of Castoria will bring relief; may even keep a serious illness from developing.

Castoria, you know, is the children's own remedy—is made specially to give the mild, gentle help their delicate organs require. It is a pure vegetable preparation. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

In any starting illness, such as a cold, a little fever, a food upset, a first-aid dose of Castoria is always a wise precaution which your physician will commend you for.

Its gentle effectiveness has brought quick comfort to many a baby suffering with colic pains, by relieving the gas pressure and urging little bowels to act. And it is the "standby" regulator for older children in many homes.

It's never any trouble to get your children to take Castoria. They like its taste. Be sure you get the real Castoria which always has the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Say Kind Words as Parity Is Being Scuttled.

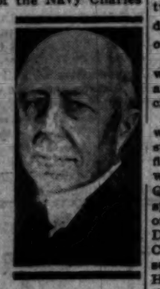
Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams closed a nation-wide observance of Navy day tonight with an appeal for the maintenance of an adequate navy as the best guarantee for the maintenance of peace. Prior to his address delivered from the deck of the historic old frigate Constitution other speakers, many of them officers of the United States navy, had spoken of the importance of adequate defense at celebrations held wherever national personnel were stationed.



CHARLES F. ADAMS. [A. P. Photo.]

As the navy celebrated the day set aside to stimulate interest in the nation's first line of defense, state department officials were completing the draft of an American communication placing the United States on record as in favor of a world-wide naval building holiday during the next year. Such a step will halt the laying down of new keels for the American fleet and postpone indefinitely the day when the United States will attain tonnage parity in warships with Great Britain as arranged by the London treaty, and parity in auxiliary ships with Japan.

Calls Voluntary Holiday.

As understood here, the American communication will notify the league powers that this country will not lay down any new warship keels during the year running from the first of next month to Nov. 1, 1932. Work on seven 8 inch gun cruisers, one aircraft carrier, three submarines and five destroyers will be continued during the holiday which is designed to cover the period embraced by the Geneva arms conference.

"Our modern policy of limitation of armaments and the more recent one of renouncing war, under the conditions specified in the Kellogg pact, have sometimes been wrongly interpreted as substitutes for the traditional policy of keeping armed in order to keep peace," Secretary Adams said at Baltimore. "There is no warrant for such an assumption. Washington's doctrine that 'to be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace,' is still applicable under the new policy, remembering also President Hoover's assertion that 'proper defense requires military strength relative to that of other nations.'"

Gen. Fries More Emphatic.

"When we stand for an adequate navy we therefore stand for peace, rather than war, of which America and the rest of the world has had enough. We stand for a more certain peace than would be possible without naval armament, and for the stability of our national policies and our very essential overseas commerce."

"An adequate navy for the United States is one that is powerful enough to defeat any navy any place in the world," Gen. Amos A. Fries, retired, asserted at exercises today at the John Paul Jones monument.

Some observers saw a thrust at President Hoover and his advisers when Gen. Fries said that John Paul Jones did not take the line of least resistance, but went out to meet the enemy, and later asked "who is the man or group of men to tell us exactly what an adequate navy is?"

"If we have one ship too many we have kept men out of the bread line," said Gen. Fries. "If we have one ship too few it may cost us billions and the loss of some of our territory."

CITY OBSERVES NAVY'S DAY ON LAND AND LAKE

At the Great Lakes naval training station special exercises were conducted. Dress parades were conducted twice in the afternoon on the main drill ground and airplanes circled overhead in special demonstrations.

At Lake Forest the public schools were closed early so that students and teachers might attend the exercises at Great Lakes.

Many naval officers at Great Lakes were unable to attend the training station's program, because they were filling speaking engagements elsewhere. Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley, commandant of the station, spoke before the Cincinnati chamber of commerce; Capt. Halsey Powell, at Detroit; Dr. Michajah Boland, at the Chicago Y. M. C. A.; Lieut. C. E. Olsen at the Exchange club of Benton Harbor, and Lieut. E. H. Duane, at the North Chicago Rotary club.

GEN. FECHET, HEAD OF AIR CORPS, TO RETIRE ON DEC. 31

Gen. Foulois to Succeed Veteran Army Man.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, who climbed from private soldier to chief of the army air corps during his 35 years of service, will retire from active service Dec. 31.

MAJ. GEN. FECHET. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, who like Gen. Fechet, climbed from an enlisted status to the top of the service ladder, has already been announced to succeed Gen. Fechet Dec. 20. Gen. Fechet, for the eleven day interval until Dec. 31, will revert to the rank of colonel, although he will retire as a major general.

Although no official announcement will be made until Gen. Foulois assumes actual charge of the air corps, it has been learned from authoritative sources that Lieut. Col. Roy C. Kirtland, now commanding Langley Field, Va., will be promoted to the rank of brigadier general to succeed Gen. Foulois. He will probably come to Washington as chief of air corps training and operations.

U. S. NAVY HOLDS 'OPEN HOUSE' AT FETE IN PANAMA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Oct. 27.—Navy day was celebrated here with open house on naval vessels in the harbors of Balboa and Cristobal. The cruiser Rochester of the special service squadron was visited by large crowds of civilians. Two squadrons of airplanes from the naval air station at Coco Solo gave a demonstration.

The funeral of Charles A. Comiskey tomorrow morning is expected to be one of the largest ever conducted in Chicago. The funeral, at the home tomorrow at 9:30 o'clock, will be viewed by but a small fraction of the Old Roman's friends who are expected to go to the south side for the services. The mass is expected to be true at the church, St. Thomas the Apostle, at 55th street and Kimbark, though the edifice is a large one. HANLEY DISPELS ANY IDEA OF AN EASY VICTORY

Meenan, Weldin Not Likely to Play.

Regardless of what may be the existing odds a contest with Illinois always stirs Northwestern's campus to the boiling point and this year's football game is no exception. The rivalry between the two institutions is intense and there is no secret that each team would rather win this game than any other.

Coach Hanley is not inclined to regard Illinois as an easy game for the Wildcats. Rather his reaction to the Michigan-Illinois game leads him to believe that the Illini will be a stubborn foe to overcome.

Preparing for Hard Fight.

"We aren't fooled by that Illinois-Michigan score," Hanley pointed out yesterday. "Remember that Illinois was only trailing by two touchdowns until late in the fourth quarter when Michigan took advantage of a momentary lapse on the part of the Illinois defense. Our experience has taught us to expect a hard fight Saturday, and that is just what we are preparing for."

Definite announcement was forthcoming from the Wildcat camp yesterday that Reb Russell, full back, who has been on the injured list since the first game of the year, would not participate against Illinois. Although Reb has joined his mates and is now working out, Coach Hanley stated that there was no chance of Russell getting into Saturday's game.

Meenan, Weldin on Shelf.

Al Moore, who turned in a fine performance against Ohio State, averaging 4.7 yards in carrying the ball, will start at left half against Illinois. Ken Meenan, who has started in that position in previous games, is still hampered by injuries and it is not likely that he will be recovered sufficiently by Saturday to get into the game.

The only other member of the regular lineup who will not be able to play Saturday is Harold Weldin, center, who is nursing an injured shoulder received in the Ohio game.

ILLINI MAKE CHANGES

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—New starters at guard, tackle and full back against Northwestern Saturday appeared likely this afternoon as the Illini went through 15 minutes of scrimmage and then studied Wildcat formations demonstrated by freshmen.

Zuppke favored the same lineup as he used yesterday, including Eddie Schalk at full back, Dick O'Neill at tackle, and Lind Platt at guard. That trio played against Michigan, although none of them started. The remainder of the line this afternoon consisted of Fred Frink and Scott Marriner, ends; Cliff Hyink, tackle; Bob May, guard, and Bill Hedtke, center, forming an entire sophomore forward wall.

PURDUE BACKS READY

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Purdue eleven will present its full complement of backs in perfect condition for the first time this season when it meets Chicago at Stagg field Saturday. In tonight's drill Coach Noble Kizer trotted out two complete back fields.

Fred Hecker, star sophomore back, will headline one back field combination that will include Paul Pardonner, sophomore quarter back, who is second in the conference scoring race, along with Dezie Moore, still another sophomore, and Roy Horstmann, veteran full back.

MAROONS ARE CRIPPLED

One reason is that reports from Purdue indicate the Boilermakers will be in the best shape of the year. The other reason is that the eight Chicago men are ailing in greater or lesser degree.

Coach Stagg will have to depend heavily on his reserves. An X-ray examination showed that Stanley Hamberg's injured shoulder is a dislocation, which will probably keep him out of play for the remainder of the season.

Capt. Horwitz and Bernie Wien, also regulars, were not allowed to participate in scrimmage, and Tolgo and Birney were not well enough to appear in uniform. The end problem is acute with the two regulars, Tolgo and Wien, and Warren Bellstrom, who played for Wien most of the Indiana game, unavailable.

Comiskey Worked as Train Butcher to Play Ball

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Once Charles A. Comiskey had received his baptism as a regular member of a regularly organized amateur team on the west side in 1876, events occurred rapidly. The teams — Libertys, Franklins, and the Actives — were amateur only in the sense that they took no money because there was none to take. The boys were willing enough. In this company Commy had his first contact with the four Foley boys, of whom Tom became widely known as a loop billiard hall proprietor, and the three O'Day brothers, one of whom, Hank, became a famous National league umpire. The O'Day lads were members of Commy's team—the Libertys.

After Commy got a job with the Libertys by offering to pitch when a pitcher was needed, Ted Sullivan bounced back into Comiskey's young life. They had been buddies a few years previous at St. Mary's school in Kansas. Ted, from his early days until his death, was an organizer. He never ceased to dream of leagues he was going to organize. His influence on the game as we now know it was greater than is realized. Certainly his influence on Comiskey steered the latter along the right road.

Got Commy Chance with Milwaukee.

When Comiskey did fairly well with his pitching chores in '76 Sullivan was prompt to realize that his friend should seek financial reward. He induced Commy to sign with a team which was going to play in Milwaukee's Third ward. The few dollars a month looked like a fortune to the "amateur," so he accepted. He was the only paid player on the team. But his career there was limited to a short stretch, after which he moved to Elgin, where his success was so great that he was almost unbeatable.

It was Commy's recollection that he was in the first game played on Chicago park property. The game was the entering wedge on the move that resulted in the city's present elaborate public play ground facilities. After a game Elgin played at Rockford in '77 the team returned to Elgin, where Comiskey found word that his old team—the Libertys—wanted him to come back and pitch an important battle against the Franklins, a team made up of newspaper printers. It meant a ride back to Chicago in a tiny passenger coach attached to a freight, but Commy went.

The slim, tall kid pitcher won his battle by 2 to 1. Among his teammates that day were Manager and First Baseman Ike Fleming, Bill Healy, Dan O'Day, George Eddy, Mike Hayes, Billy Magrad, and Johnny Fitzgibbons. That was in the days of underhand pitching at a distance some 15 feet shorter than under the present rules. Comiskey's success was in the great speed he could put into his throws.

Sullivan Organizes Team at Dubuque.

It was a few years later when the influence of Ted Sullivan again asserted itself. Ted, the indefatigable promoter, had placed a sort of semi-professional team in Dubuque, Ia., in 1879. He managed and pitched for it when not engaged in looking after his interests as boss of the train concessions on the Chicago-Dubuque run. The pro venture was a financial frost, but, instead of abandoning the team, Sullivan merely devised an arrangement by which he was fairly certain to come out no worse than even. He engaged youths who could play ball on his 1880 amateur team, known as the Dubuque Rabbits, and at the same time serve as train butchers. It was a two sided job such as this that Comiskey accepted.

It was while with the Rabbits that

DEMPSEY OF GOLD ERA MAY MAKE US DIG AGAIN

Then Bellhop Would Shun 50 Cent Tips.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 27.—If Jack Dempsey wishes to fight again, I am sure that is his privilege, and because it would gore my own ox if his fight or fights should prove to be commercial mishaps, I hope and trust that they draw a lot of customers at generous prices.

You see, if the customers should show little or no box office interest in the second Dempsey recrudescence, my head man might say "Oh, well, there is no heat in this so maybe we had better let the A. P. cover it all and you can just stay home and interview yourself on the last series and overemphasis and, maybe, write us a six part life of William Muldoon, the grand old man of fistiana."

Has Right to Peddle "Fish."

It gets very cold along in February when Dempsey may be upending Primo Carnera down there in the suburban country. There isn't a cook in the state of Florida above professional status of the lunchwagon, but a fellow must be willing to put up with any hardships to get a story.

So, while it stands to reason that Dempsey is pretty well shot by now, I am glad to concede that he has as much right as the next man to peddle his fish for what they bring. Dempsey has always affected the public like strong liquor and he might once more induce among them that happy daze in which of yore they scorned the cost.

I hear that there is a lot of money on ice and possibly a little program of old-fashioned free spending in a localized scale would start a general thaw.

Many Things May Happen.

The beautiful peace lately consummated between the Garden corporation and Tammany Hall when James J. Johnston was appointed matchmaker for the Garden, however harsh the conditions imposed on the beleaguered millionaires, may eventually confer a great good on a large number. Mr. Johnston produces some Florida fights, the censors dust off their money and send it in, the hotels open again, the rum-runners crank up their dories, the bell-hops begin to cast disappointed glances at 50 cent tips, the $20 bill becomes the spending unit and everything less is small money, and due solely to the deplorable accident of his having been born in London, James J. Johnston is not elected president, as the man who led the country back to prosperity.

In view of his services, however, he is made secretary of the treasury, his brother, Charlie, is made foreman of the hundred dollar bill factory, Jack Lawrence, their public relations counsel, becomes the White House spokesman and the New York state prize fight commission supersedes the United States Supreme court. The whole vision is very beautiful to me.

Room for Speculation.

As to the probable outcome of a prize fight between an old and creaky Dempsey and Primo Carnera there will be plenty of time and room to indulge in useless speculation before they take the ring in Miami, but I must admit to a morbid fascination in the scenario. I know that Primo can't hit and his huge left jab cannot seriously embarrass a well conditioned fighter of sixty pounds less weight Jack Sharkey, who proved this at Ebbets field that recent night, also disclosed that Primo cannot digest a left hook either in his center or on his chin.

Mr. Sharkey mastered him but not with that gorgeous finality that Dempsey used to put into his work, and I found myself visualizing this old Dempsey, flat on his feet, shuffling in close enough to plant the most dramatic punch ever seen first in Primo's middle and then, quick up, on Primo's chin. Primo crashes down twice then rolls like a whale on a beach, whooshing and laboring on the floor and Dempsey spins into his chair

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

It took Boston university less than ten minutes to find out that its noble experiment of "player control" during football games was not practical. The plan was tried out against De Pauw at Greencastle, Ind., last Saturday.

Arrangements called for the coach to sit in the stands with the spectators and let the captain run the team.

The dean at the eastern school who fostered the idea contended that the players should select their own substitutes and solve their own problems during rest periods. He argued that "player control" guaranteed to the athletes opportunity to enjoy their games as they cannot under orders from a coach.

Press reports of the De Pauw game stated that the system was abandoned early in the first quarter, after two Boston players had been seriously injured.

That to me is the primary objection. Football is a game of violent physical contact. Injuries occur even under expert supervision. A captain is under a greater physical strain than a coach, whose position on the side lines enables him to size up the condition of his men better than if he were actually engaged in the competition.

Many a football player has held his feet and carried on for several minutes without knowing what was going on about him. After the Yale-Chicago game it was found that Capt. Horwitz of the Maroons had played most of the last half without any recollection of it.

Is a man in that condition fit to determine when substitutions are required?

If the purpose of the "player control" syrtem is to give the game back to the boys wouldn't it follow that all the players should be taken into council when a change is to be made? If the captain is to be in complete charge what difference does it make to John Smith at right guard whether he takes orders from the captain or the coach?

Fun in football does not come from participation in talkfests about procedure. The debating team can uphold the school's prestige in that line. Fun on the gridiron comes from playing a smart, soundly taught game, winning when you can and losing only when you have to.

The University of Michigan has announced a reduction in the cost of tickets to its game with Indiana. The prices range from $3 for seats between the twenty yard lines to $1 for locations on the end of the field.

This looks like a sensible move. It always has seemed unreasonable that a seat in the north stands at Soldiers' field, for instance, should cost the same as one on the fifty yard line. There is no way of proving it, but I would wager modestly that the recent Northwestern - Notre Dame game would have been sold out in advance of the rain if the prices had been scaled according to the Michigan plan.

While college football in the main is still conducted on an amateur basis, there are indications here and there that schedules are built up entirely for the purpose of enticing the piquant frogback. Officials at Purdue, Indiana, and Iowa perhaps appreciate the situation more than those at other schools located in larger cities or equipped with huge stadia. It takes considerable persuasion to induce certain teams to visit Lafayette, Bloomington, or Iowa City.

The commercial spirit is not limited to the large universities. Several of the smaller institutions have gone in for night football. If games under lights are not arranged as a dollar lure, what is their purpose?

Out on the Pacific coast some of the colleges are playing Sunday football. There can be no quarrel with Sunday football on moral grounds, unless you hold that a man should spend Sunday afternoon walking around with a book in his hand discussing Shakespeare and the water lilies.

But we have a suspicion that games which customarily would be played on Saturday some times are postponed until Sunday to avoid conflict with rival attractions or for some other reason affecting gate receipts.

The commercial leadership of the college probably explains why occasionally we hear of practical individuals or groups of individuals who demand monetary compensation for their part in these spectacles.

BURY SHERIDAN AMONG NATION'S HEROES TODAY

Army to Play Out This Year's Schedule.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Cadet Richard Brinsley Sheridan came back to the plains of West Point today to find a last resting place with some of America's most distinguished soldiers.

The 21 year old Army honor student and football star, who suffered a broken neck in the Army-Yale game at New Haven Saturday, died in New Haven hospital late yesterday, ending a battle for life which surgeons had declared was hopeless almost from the moment the 148 pound end was carried from the field.

Bury Cadet Today.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock funeral services will be held in the Catholic chapel at West Point. Cadet Sheridan will be buried in the West Point military cemetery, where are buried Gen. Winfield Scott, Gen. George Custer, Gen. Robert C. Anderson, commander of Fort Sumter in 1861; Gen. George W. Goethels, builder of the Panama canal, and many other famous military figures of the past.

The cadet's mother, who, with another son, Gerald, sped to New Haven from Greenville, S. C., did not see the boy before he died.

Mrs. Sheridan arrived at the hospital three hours before her son's death. Gerald Sheridan entered the room where his brother lay in a respirator. Because, in his opinion, Mrs. Sheridan would not have been made happier by seeing her son unconscious and dying, she was taken into another room and allowed to rest.

Services Private.

At her request the funeral services, both in the West Point chapel and at the cemetery, will be open only to the corps of cadets and officers of the military academy.

The football schedule of the academy will be played out according to schedule despite the death of Cadet Sheridan, it was announced by Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, the commandant.

In a formal statement Maj. Gen. Smith explained the decision to continue play was arrived at "on the expressed desire of the football team, of the corps of cadets, and of the members of Cadet Sheridan's family, now present at West Point."

Continue Practice.

The statement was issued, Maj. Gen. Smith said, "in answer to the many inquiries from various sources."

Until a definite policy is established the football squad will continue to practice in preparation for its game Saturday with Colorado college. The usual daily routine will be maintained even as it was resumed yesterday, with the A and B squads reporting for practice.

Sheridan's father, at first believed too ill to leave home at Augusta, Ga., for the trip here, will arrive tomorrow.

Players Pallbearers.

Three of Sheridan's teammates, Capt. John M. Price of Fort Dodge, Ia.; Kenneth B. Fields of Elkhart, Ind., and William Y. Frentzell of Danville, Ill., will head the list of pallbearers, which include Cadets Thomas B. Hall of Chama, N. M.; Horace B. Thompson, Pocatello, Idaho; David W. Gray, Evansville, Ind.; Christian F. Dreyer, Freehold, N. J., and Harvey H. Fisher, Duns Muir, Cal.

Company I, Sheridan's company, will fire three volleys across his grave as an army bugler blows "taps" over the cadet's final resting place.

Leonard Floors Livan Four Times; Knocks Him Out

Boston, Mass., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, floored Vittorio Livan, Italian middleweight, four times before knocking him out with a right to the jaw in the third round of their 10 round contest here tonight. Leonard, who appeared in splendid trim, weighed 151, and his victim was four pounds heavier.

George Beats Malcewicz in Private Match

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Don [Handsome] George, the youngest of wrestling's ex-world champions, last night disposed of Joe Malcewicz in two out of three falls in the feature match of the mat production presented by the Chicago Stadium. An appreciative audience of 1,500 contributed gross receipts of $2,200 to witness the Stadium's first venture into the grunt and groan market.

It was a good performance, the artists cast in the headline act and the four supporting skits bringing a new touch to wrestling in this stand of the mat circuit. The talent was supplied by the Bowser syndicate, a rival booking office to the Londos and Lewis firms.

Audience Needs Rehearsal.

There was only one fault evident at the show and that was the quality of the audience's criticisms of the acts presented. They were decidedly old, remarks of such ancient vintage as "Don't make those funny faces," "Hold that line," and "Slow down, this is the other guy's round," grating on the sensitive ears of the temperamental artists as they went about their chores.

The George-Malcewicz match contained all of the elements of a good show—mystery, drama and suspense. Mystery was injected into the script quite early, for George won the first fall in one minute and six seconds. He applied a painless looking reverse nelson to Malcewicz, and Joe suddenly

Governor's Help Is Enlisted to Save Pheasants

BY BOB BECKER.

Urging all of the chapters in Illinois to support the movement, the national headquarters of the Izaak Walton league yesterday swung into action to obtain legislation that will give hen pheasants in Illinois protection from all hunting.

The league took this action following assurance from Gov. Louis L. Emmerson that he will request consideration of the "pheasant law" at a special session of the legislature to be called in November.

The 1929 game code protected hen pheasants "until Sept. 16, 1931." As the league pointed out in its communications to chapters, except for the words specifying this date the old law would still hold and provide protection for hen pheasants.

In commenting on the action of national headquarters of the league to seek a way out of the present game crisis in the state, M. K. Reckord, general manager of the league in Illinois, said last night:

"We are asking every Walton chapter in the state to take up this pheasant crisis with all civic organizations in its community and have individuals and organizations write senators and representatives, urging them to give attention to the pheasant law.

"The state organization of the league, under the direction of the president, Josiah Treharne, has been working along these lines for some time.

"Gov. Emmerson has indicated to us that he will include the pheasant law item in his special call. We believe that all good citizens, regardless of party, deplore the present slaughter of hen pheasants and will want the legislature to remedy the situation with adequate legislation."

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Wise Counsellor, quite a famous race horse in his day, would have patted himself on the chest and might have strutted up and down the club house lawn in great glee if he could have been at Hawthorne yesterday to watch two of his sons perform.

Both of them—Tadcaster and Wise Advocate—ran nobly over the heavy track and at the finish each was the easiest sort of a winner much to the delight of most of those in the crowd of 11,000.

Tadcaster was the odds on choice when he won the Jovial purse, which was the day's feature race. Wise Advocate became so popular right at post time that he dropped from 8 to 1 to less than 4 to 1.

Wise Counsellor wasn't particularly noted as a muddy track performer back in his balmy days, but his sons who triumphed yesterday can run just about as fast in the gooey going as they do over a fast track.

Field Cut to Five.

Because of the muddy track the field in the Jovial purse was reduced to five starters when one after another of the candidates was scratched out. Corbett was in the saddle on Tadcaster, and in the early part of the tussle Princess A. O. from Joe Leiter's barn ran head and head with the son of Wise Counsellor. Rounding the turn, Princess A. O. began to drop back, but saved ground by hugging the rail. Dis Dat rushed up with a challenge that found him slightly in the lead as they straightened out for the dash home.

Tadcaster evidently had been enjoying a breathing spell, for he rallied again, and moved along with such speed that in twenty strides he was once more in front. That settled Dis Dat, Princess A. O., and any of the others that were in a mood to take issue with Tadcaster.

He pulled out into an advantage of two lengths. He increased it to 2½ as he went sailing past the finish line. He had so many backers he paid only $3.54 to win, $2.42 to place, and $2.22 to show. He ran the six furlongs over the heavy track in 1:16 1-5.

Comes from Behind.

Wise Advocate had to come from behind to score his victory. Jockey Fronk got him away a bit tardy, and F. Grabner, the favorite, made the pace until they hit the lower bend. Fronk by this time had raced Wise Advocate from out of the pack and was within striking distance of F. Grabner. He moved Wise Advocate up alongside of F. Grabner at the head of the stretch and flew past him as if he had been standing still.

Wise Advocate proceeded to make a runaway of it and was leading F. Grabner by four lengths when it ended. Prince Ascot, from the Leiter stable, took down third money and was going well near the end.

Wise Advocate races for Fred Burton's Everglade stable, which also owns Wise Counsellor. Tadcaster is the property of F. A. Carreaud of Oklahoma. Wise Advocate, despite the last minute plunge on him, paid his backers $9.22 for a two dollar ticket. He won in a way to indicate he might be a juvenile of considerable class.

Jockey Lewis didn't accomplish much during the afternoon. He was out of the money on Stick Around in the second race and on High Proof in the fourth and Fort Dearborn in the sixth. But he was home in front on Otilla in the last.

Dempsey May Loosen Purse Strings Again

Primo Owes a Knockout.

Primo owes it to the American citizens to get knocked out conclusively before he is through and Dempsey, though he were eighty years old, with his left hook would be the one to do it best. That left is an autonomous unit of the Dempsey physique, immune to the decline that weakens the old legs and curtails his endurance. Let him get close enough and hit him right and he would knock out Schmeling today or five years hence.

Can this be ballyhoo? I suppose it is, but I have turned right minded. With Mr. Schwab and all those big men talking up the turn of conditions and the business revival, who would I be to talk down the big prize fight and truest gauge there is of good times or bad?

BURDICK, INJURED BACK, REJOINS GOPHER ELEVEN

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 27.—[Special]—Coach Fritz Crisler of the University of Minnesota today held out a slight hope that Quentin Burdick, senior half back, will be able to play part of the Wisconsin game next Saturday. After overcoming an acute attack of appendicitis, he suffered a knee injury that has kept him out for three weeks. He returned to active practice today and figures he will be ready for work as a blocking back Saturday.

Crisler said that he would use Burdick only if he is needed and then for only short stretches in order to keep him physically fit for the final conference games with Northwestern and Michigan.

The regulars were back in uniform today and engaged in a dummy offensive scrimmage against the freshmen. Crisler gave them some new plays and then tried them out against the frosh. Oen and Wells didn't even get into uniform, being replaced by Stein and Gay, respectively.

Rain has slowed up practice so far. The coaches refused to take any more chances on injuries and called off serious tackling.

There were only 10,000 tickets out of a capacity of 50,000 left for Saturday's homecoming game with Wisconsin. Tickets are selling at the rate of 2,000 a day. Wisconsin has ordered 5,000.

BADGERS GET NEW PLAYS

Madison, Wis., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's football squad began the serious work of getting ready for its game with Minnesota Saturday in a long drill today on new plays, with emphasis on speed, precision and tackling.

Then the squad went on the defensive against Minnesota's passes, first in dummy scrimmage, followed by a 15 minute drive of the real thing. Goldsberg, blocking back, was sent in after a few minutes, although he will not play Saturday, due to an old injury.

HOOSIERS WORK INDOORS

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Rain this afternoon forced the Indiana university football squad to seek shelter in the field house, where the varsity scrimmaged the freshmen. The frosh used plays which Ohio State is expected to spring at Indiana's homecoming game Saturday.

The Hoosiers were drilled on passing and receiving, with Opasik, Sabisti, Baer and Dauer getting most attention. Adolph Sabik, withheld from the Chicago game, will be one of the key men of the passing attack.

IRISH DEFY MUD

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—A heavy rain, which drenched Cartier field, failed to hinder preparations in the Notre Dame football camp today for Saturday's game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh. The second team plodded its way through a scrimmage that reminded spectators of the Northwestern game at Chicago.

Coach Heartley Anderson is looking for reasons for gloom he found then in today's drill, in which the reserves and ineligibles, garbed in suits resembling those of the Spartans, pushed the second string line over the field at will. Passes also caught the shock troop secondary napping frequently.

The offense against the second beat back team on the lot the No. 2 varsity was not much better. The yearlings broke up many line plays and the slippery ball contributed to fumbles and incompleted passes. The first freshman team will oppose the No. 1 varsity tomorrow.

The Irish will entrain for Pittsburgh Thursday night after two more days of practice.

HUDSON SPURS MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Capt. Roy Hudson was the most active ball carrier on the squad during a dummy offensive scrimmage today as Michigan speeded up work for its game at Princeton Saturday. Hudson was in a back field with Fay, Brevet and Newman against a freshman team. His condition indicated that he will start Saturday. Should he be used, Tessmer is likely to get the call at quarter to provide the team with a punter.

Coach Kipke gave Hudson, Eastman and Renner a punting drill this afternoon with the idea of fortifying the squad against loss of kickers. Both Bernardus and Heston are only able for light work now, leaving Tessmer as the only available kicker of ability. Hudson has done some kicking, Eastman is a letter man who has been used little this year, and Renner has been promoted from the "B" squad.

HARVARD WILL PASS HAT FOR POOR AT GAMES

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The Harvard student council, with Football Captain Barry Wood presiding, tonight voted to ask the Harvard corporation to approve a plan to take up collections for the unemployed among spectators at Harvard's football games with Dartmouth, Holy Cross and Yale. The action followed a proposal made in an editorial today in the Harvard Alumni Bulletin. The money taken up in the Harvard sections of the stadium would be pooled and turned over to overseers who would dispose of it as they saw fit. Collections from the sections used by followers of the three visiting teams would be turned over to the presidents of the respective institutions for disposal.

Tilden Faces Lindblom in Prep Feature

The Lindblom-Tilden game in the central section, which will be played at White City Saturday afternoon, is the outstanding contest on this week's Chicago Public High School Football league schedule. This section has produced the league champion since the organization of the league with the exception of three years.

Each team has scored two league triumphs thus far this season. Victory for either squad will assure it of a tie for the sectional title, since each has only one more contest. Hyde Park will meet Tilden and Lindblom will face Englewood on Nov. 7.

A heavy practice session was staged at Schurz, which will attempt to regain the north section championship from Lane Tech at Soldiers' field Saturday. Schurz has defeated Roosevelt and Lake View. It will be Lane Tech's last league game of the season.

Harold Block, Marshall tackle, probably will be out of the lineup for the remainder of the season. Two of Block's ribs were broken when Marshall was upset by Crane last Saturday. Crane will seek its third league triumph against Austin at Mills stadium Saturday.

The preliminaries of the Chicago Public High School league twenty yard pool swimming championship will be held at Austin on Dec. 5. The finals are scheduled at the University of Chicago, Dec. 12.

The undefeated St. Rita and Mount Carmel squads will clash at St. Rita field, 63d street and South Oakley avenue, Sunday afternoon. St. Rita is confident of retaining its sectional championship, according to the Rev. M. R. Kirk.

St. Philip, which leads the north section of the Catholic league, now is confronted with its three hardest opponents, De Paul, St. Mel and St. George. De Paul will be met Sunday afternoon at De Paul field. St. Philip is undefeated, having scored six consecutive victories.

Oak Park and Deerfield drew byes in this week's Suburban league schedule. Only two games are on the card, New Trier at Evanston and Proviso at Morton.

Amateurs Fight for South Side Titles Friday

The south suburban amateur boxing tournament will be held Friday and Saturday nights at Johnny Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street. The tournament is restricted to boys from the southern suburbs and from south side neighborhoods. The flyweights, bantams, feathers, and lightweights will battle on Friday, while the heavier boxers, from welters to heavies, will have their night Saturday.

Bat Battalino and Earl Mastro, principals in the world's featherweight championship at the Chicago Stadium on Nov. 4, will arrive today to begin training, the champion working at the Arcade gym, while Mastro will drill at Brown's.

Promoters Jack Lund and Frank Knipper yesterday announced a double windup for the amateur boxing show at the Merry Gardens arena Friday night. Hank Kastman and Leo Ranieri will meet in one feature, while Danny Neenan and Jack O'Connell clash in the other.

A heavyweight bout between Rudy Starbenz, central A. A. U. runner up, and Henry Oliver will feature the amateur show at the 24th Ward Democratic club, 3243 West Roosevelt road Friday night. These shows will be staged weekly for charity.

Jack Dempsey returned to Salt Lake City after a week of hunting yesterday, according to a wire received here by Leonard Sacks, his business manager. Dempsey will resume his boxing tour on Nov. 6 at Moline, Ill., with a pair of two round bouts against George Neron and Pete Wistert. Barney Abel will send Seal Harris, Chicago Negro, against Dempsey in a four rounder at Des Moines on Nov. 9. Sacks reported yesterday that efforts to close a bout for Dempsey with George Manley, leading Denver heavyweight, on Nov. 25 had failed, because of the latter's refusal to enter the same ring with Jack.

Promoter Mique Malloy yesterday prepared to arrange the program for his show at White City next Monday night. Among the boxers who sought places on the card were Harry Ebbetts, Matt Adgis, Ray Tramblie, Chuck Heffner, Buck Everett, Costas Vassis, Dick Sisk, and Bud Saltis.

CARDINALS DO BIT FOR CHARITY

And Then Sometimes Even the Experts Can't Tell You

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Every football game has rule violations which are not understood by the spectators. And occasionally the reporters in the press box find themselves at a loss to account for the officials' actions.

This is due, of course, to the lack of proper communication with the field, or to misinformation. Particularly confusing is the infliction of two penalties on the same play. An example occurred in the Minnesota-Iowa game last Saturday, and while one of the penalties was apparent, the other was missed entirely. Referee Joe Magidsohn of Michigan explained the rulings after the game.

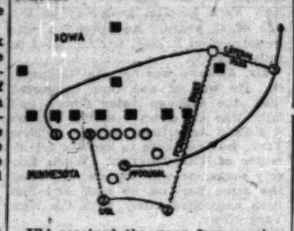
Pass Fools Scribes.

Minnesota was leading Iowa 34 to 0 late in the third quarter when a forward pass, followed by a lateral pass, sent Champlin, substitute quarter back, across Iowa's goal line for a touchdown and a gain of 57 yards. The ball was called back and Minnesota was penalized 15 yards. The penalty was for holding by Minnesota, the offensive team, but the number of the down was advanced. And herein lay a second penalty which was overlooked.

The play was called on first down. Had there been no other penalty it then would have been first down and 25 yards to gain after the penalty for holding. But the ruling made it second down and 25 yards. The attempted lateral pass, from Robinson to Champlin, was thrown a yard or so forward of Robinson's position. This made two forward passes on the same play. The penalty is loss of a down, and the ball is put into play at the point of the preceding down.

Use Play Differently.

The forward pass, lateral pass previously had been worked successfully by Minnesota in the second quarter for a gain of 26 yards in the march to the first touchdown. Coach Crisler used the play differently from either Northwestern, its chief exponent in the Big Ten, or Southern Methodist, which has used such a play for several years. A diagram of the play follows:



Ubl received the pass from center. Taking a few steps to his right he threw to Robinson [No. 1] downfield. Robinson received the pass and without hesitation tossed the ball laterally to McDougal [No. 3].

When this play was called back in the third quarter, Robinson's pass to Champlin [substituting for McDougal] violated the rules by being thrown forward.

Hawks Protest One.

Minnesota's second touchdown, scored from Iowa's 14 yard line on a forward pass from Ubl to Robinson, brought a protest from the Hawkeyes. Robinson caught the ball in Iowa's end zone. He was tackled a fraction of a second later and dropped the ball. However, it was ruled that Robinson had possession and control of the ball prior to the tackle. Catching the ball scored the touchdown, and subsequent failure to hold it when tackled did not nullify the score. The play might be compared with a fly ball caught by an outfielder and then dropped a second later. The batter, as baseball fans know, is out.

THREE PRINCETON 'BADBOYS' RETURN TO VARSITY SQUAD

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 27.—(AP)—As a reward for hard work, three of the five members of the Princeton football team who were suspended early in the season for drinking beer, have been returned to the varsity squad.

All five were suspended from the squad for one week and then demoted to the scrubs. Three of them have done such good work with the scrubs that they probably will figure in Princeton lineups for the remainder of the season.

The identity of the five suspended players never has been revealed.

Football Losing Popular Appeal, Says Yale Head

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The overthrow of football within the next ten years as the mighty monarch of college sports was predicted today by Dr. William G. Anderson, director of the Yale gymnasium.

For four decades, Dr. Anderson, nationally known organizer and educator, has watched football at Yale rise from a humble beginning to a sport which has brought more than a million dollars annually into the treasury of the athletic association. And now Dr. Anderson predicts the very sports which football has nurtured and supported will spell the decline of this crocesus of athletics.

With the widespread growth of interest among college students in athletics of all kinds, Dr. Anderson said, football will be forced to share its popularity with the so-called minor sports. Development of good football teams by smaller colleges, he predicted, will also result in a reduction of gate receipts.

Football, baseball, track and crew were the only organized sports at the university when Dr. Anderson came to Yale in 1892. Now there are 16 organized branches of sports, each with paid coaches. With the exception of football, all of the sports have ended their season with deficits, which have been wiped off with the revenue derived from football.

"As the minor sports grow in interest, they will become self-supporting," Dr. Anderson said. "Expenditures for organized sports also will be less lavish.

"We are on the threshold of a new era in athletics. The future will see less emphasis on organized sports and more attention paid to the physical training of the individual student."

Dr. Anderson, pointing out that the demand for tickets for football games has decreased, said this was one of the indications of the waning popularity of football.

Comiskey Was Train Butcher, Ball Player

Commy began to believe that the first base job wasn't a bad spot for an ambitious youth. His pitching arm was giving out even then, probably because he put too much of a strain on it. But the $125 per month alternating as ball player and train newsboy was too good to relinquish, so Commy had no qualms about moving in at first base, a position which in that period was regarded as of no importance, at least not so far as fielding was concerned. A first baseman was just a fellow who stood around waiting for somebody to throw to him.

Devise New Defense for First Baseman.

During the season of '20 at Dubuque Commy conceived the notion that there was more to first basing than anybody had as yet realized. He and Manager Ted Sullivan discussed the theory that a first baseman's defensive value could be doubled if he could move away from the bag, thus protecting much of the vacant territory between first and second. They put the theory to a practical test and found it a success. That is, it was successful except in one particular.

Comiskey discovered that by playing away from the bag he was able to field batted balls which ordinarily would have been safe hits. But he couldn't get over to the bag in time to retire the runner. Necessity being the mother of invention, he and Sullivan figured out that a pitcher could cover the base. After experimenting on this feature they decided it couldn't fail. Today the pitcher who can't cover first base is regarded as a weakling on defense. There are more than a few of them.

It was the above mentioned novel way of playing first base, along with another move by Sullivan, which in a short time was to lead Comiskey out of the amateur ranks into the "big money" as playing manager of the original St. Louis Browns.

30 LAKE FOREST PREP GRID MEN OFF FOR MANLIUS

A squad of 30 Lake Forest academy football players will leave at noon today for Manlius, N. Y., where they will meet the Manlius Military school team in an intersectional football game on Friday.

Saturday the Lake Forest boys will attend the Cornell-Columbia game at Ithaca as guests of the Cornell Athletic association.

Manlius has met the freshmen teams of Cornell, Columbia, and Princeton this year. Lake Forest has defeated Morgan Park Military academy, St. Albans, Concordia Military school, and Campion academy.

Stolen Bases Help but Won't Win the Flag, States Carey

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Max Carey, new manager of the Brooklyn Robins, who is packing preparatory to moving east, today said he was happy over his appointment and eager to tackle the problems that confront him in the task of rebuilding the club.

Carey, center fielder who led National league base runners for ten years starting with the 1913 season, is mildly amused at the baseball world's reaction to his elevation to a managerial position.

"Everybody seems to think I'm going out and try to win a pennant by stealing a flock of bases," Max said.

Saying the appointment was a big surprise, Carey, now 41 years old, let it be known he plans to make numerous changes in the team, but would not discuss his plans for the public, recalling "it takes two to make a trade."

So the fall was conceded to the former Michigan and Olympic star. Malcewicz then startled everybody, including himself, by taking the second fall at a time when George appeared to have the advantage. This was consummated in 27 minutes and 10 seconds with a reverse body slam.

Grandovich Should Have Punted.

Jack Sherry, with a pair of ears resembling bluepoints on the half shell, subdued John Grandovich in the semi-windup. Grandovich appeared to be on the verge of a touchdown several times, but Sherry, using the Warner system, ran out of bounds, wriggling his way from midfield to the safety of the side lines. He finally plunged over with a series of headlocks in 20 minutes and 5 seconds, leaving Grandovich in a daze somewhere about the ten yard line.

Len Macaluso, the former Colgate university fullback who followed Sonnenberg, George, Savoldi, and Bruder into wrestling, used the college wrestlers' patented hold—the flying tackle—to eliminate Boris Demitroff in 11 minutes and 17 seconds.

Joe Devito and Jack Ganson struggled for thirty minutes without effecting an agreement and both adjourned, presumably to a barber shop, each being in great need of a shave.

Richard Wagner of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, in another automobile behind Berger's car, swerved over the curbing and into a field to avoid a collision. Welch jumped from Berger's car and ran over to Wagner, who escaped with minor bruises. Reassured, Welch started back to the other sedan when he was run down by a third car in Sheridan road. $20 MOURNERS SHUN FUNERAL OF THIEL'S WIDOW

A few mourners gathered in Montrose cemetery yesterday for the burial of Mrs. Frances Thiel, 75, year old widow of Louis A. Thiel, eccentric fresco painter, who died more than a year ago in his home at 2126 Leland avenue.

Twice since Thiel's death hosts of friends have milled about the family burial plot, but yesterday there was no large crowd at the place. The $20 gold pieces which were the lure for the once large throngs are no more.

When Thiel died he left $2,500 to his lodge to pay $20 each to brothers who visited his grave on Nov. 17 and June 17 and from $5 to $20 each to stipulated friends who came to mourn. After two visits the fund had been dissipated. Attorney Milton A. Brown twice paid the various sums, while he saw the small estate due the widow disappear. Yesterday he attended the funeral and failed to see one of the "good friends."

WARN MOTORISTS OF CANE LAW TO PROTECT BLIND

Many motorists are failing to observe the ordinance, passed last summer, establishing white canes as a symbol of protection for the blind, Ald. John Toman [23d] was informed yesterday by a letter from an organization of the blind. He said that he would see Police Commissioner Allman at once, and ask that all members of the department be instructed to enforce the measure.

The ordinance, passed unanimously by the city council on July 8, provides that the right to carry white canes, or white canes tipped with red, shall belong exclusively to pedestrians wholly or partly blind. It provides that any motorist, upon seeing the bearer of one of these canes in the street, shall come to a full stop and then proceed with regard to the blind pedestrian's safety.

The penalty for violation by a motorist is a fine of from $1 to $100. The white cane system has been instituted successfully in a number of cities throughout the country, Ald. Toman said.

Break that CATHARTIC HABIT!

BOTTLES . . . bottles . . . bottles. Each one containing violent drugs—bitter cathartics, harsh laxatives, weakening pills . . .

Each one unnatural, habit-forming . . . crude.

Now, constipation is an extremely annoying trouble. It should be corrected by all means.

Then stop a minute. Consider. Why not adopt a method which the foremost medical authorities advise? A method that has proved itself in literally thousands of cases—the regular eating of fresh yeast!

Just eat 3 cakes a day, regularly. You can get Fleischmann's Yeast at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains, and directions are printed on the label. Try it, in place of medicines, for at least 60 days!

IMPORTANT!—Fleischmann's Yeast for health is sold only in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label. It is yeast in its fresh, effective form, the kind famous doctors advise! Rich in vitamins B, G, D.

ILL. CENTRAL RY. OMITS DIVIDEND AFTER 70 YEARS

Reports Sharp Drop in Earnings.

BY O. A. MATHER.

A record of seventy years of continuous dividends was broken yesterday by the Illinois Central railroad when its directors voted to omit the quarterly payment of $1 a share on the common stock.

Since 1860 and despite wars and depressions the railroad has paid varying returns. With the exception of two years in the '50s the road has paid common stock dividends since its organization in 1852.

Since 1860 Illinois Central has never paid less than $4 a year on its common stock, and since 1901 the rate has never been below $6. The rate was $7 a year from the middle of 1916 until last June, when it was cut to $4 annually. In discontinuing the dividend yesterday the directors expressed belief that it is "in the interest of stockholders as well as holders of obligations to conserve cash resources under present unsettled business and financial conditions."

The directors also reported a further sharp decline in earnings. Net railway operating income for September was $762,988, compared with $2,749,377 in September, 1930, while such income for the nine months this year totaled $8,694,433, compared with $18,-27,660 in the corresponding period last year.

In contrast with the Illinois Central's action, the Norfolk and Western railway favored stockholders today with an extra dividend of $2 a share on the common, the same as declared at this time last year. The board also authorized the regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share on the common, both payable Dec. 19 to owners of record Nov. 30. The Pennsylvania system controls the Norfolk and Western through ownership of a substantial amount of the outstanding stock.

Other News Mixed.

Other dividend news was mixed. Swift & Ford declared an extra dividend of 50 cents in addition to its regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents.

New York Transit corporation has recommended to stockholders a return of half of its capital in the form of a liquidating dividend of $5 a share on its $10 par stock, which would be reduced to $5 par, the total capital being reduced from $1,000,000 to $500,000.

The Commonwealth and Southern corporation declared a dividend of 15 cents a share on the common stock for the six months ended March 1, 1932, establishing the issue on a 30 cents a share annual basis, in contrast to the 40 cent basis heretofore maintained.

Pays Stock Dividends.

Directors of General Gas and Electric corporation declared dividends of 3.200 of a class "A" common share on the class "A" and class "B" common stocks instead of the cash payments of 7½ cents a share previously made on the two issues.

Pettibone & Alexander, Inc., declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on its common, placing the shares on a $2 annual basis. In the previous two quarters 87½ cents was declared, while in January 50 cents a share was the distribution. Sales for the nine months ended September were $4,685,754, compared with $4,601,633 in the corresponding period a year previous.

Sears-Roebuck Earnings Running 6.2% Under 1930

Sears, Roebuck & Co. yesterday reported a net profit of $9,350,760 for the period from Jan. 2 to Oct. 3, compared with $9,968,329 in the same period of 1930. Sales from Jan. 2 to Oct. 3 totaled $260,067,608, a decrease of 6.8 per cent from the $284,475,425 sales in the same part of 1930, the net profit for the period decreased 6.2 per cent.

The financial position of the company was improved by reduction of notes payable by $4,200,000, compared with this time last year, while merchandise inventories are about $12,-000,000 lower.

ECONOMISTS AGREE THAT RESERVE SHOULD PURCHASE SECURITIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 27.—A remedy for the business depression and decline in commodities lies in the power of the federal reserve system and the central banks of other countries, through their control of gold reserves, Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, Prof. E. W. Kemmerer of Princeton and other speakers said tonight at a dinner of the American Statistical association.

What is needed is a pumping of the gold supply from the vaults where it is held as backing for currency into channels where it may be used for the expansion of credit, the speakers united in asserting.

As far as this country is concerned, they agreed, this effect may be accomplished through the simple method of purchase of securities by the federal reserve bank. Economists who joined with Fisher and Kemmerer in this opinion were Lionel D. Edide, former professor of finance at Chicago university, and Dr. Warren Persons, former professor of economics at Harvard.

U.S. Steel Pays Its Dividend; Runs at Loss

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The United States Steel corporation declared a dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, thus maintaining the rate established three months ago, when the annual basis was cut to $4 from $7. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred also was voted.

Dividends ordered on the common and preferred totaled $15,009,502. To meet the payments the corporation is drawing $11,822,371 from its large undivided surplus. In the previous quarter the appropriation out of this account was $7,617,856.

Total earnings for the third quarter were $9,131,091, compared with $13,-817,524 in the June quarter, and $37,-995,299 a year ago. Net income for the three months ended September 30, after deducting depreciation charges and interest requirements on bonds, chiefly those of subsidiaries, was $3,187,131, against $7,391,355 during the June quarter, and $24,195,162 in the third quarter of 1930.

Operates at Deficit.

Net included $7,160,968 in special income, so that actual operations yielded a deficit of $3,618,743. Including the interest on bonds, amounting to $1,262,092, the total deficit for the quarter was $2,972,835. The special income represents a profit from the sale of the Gary, Ind., public utility property. A similar amount was credited in the previous quarter. This left a net income of $2,187,131, equal to about 88 cents per preferred share.

Net income of $7,391,355, including the special credit, in the previous quarter was equal to 12 cents per common share after preferred dividends, and net income in the third quarter of 1930 was $24,195,162, including $2,412,857 of nonoperating or special income, or $2.06 a share.

Nine Months' Profit.

Net profit for nine months ended Sept. 30 was $17,343,543, equal to $4.31 a share on 3,602,811 shares of preferred stock, comparing with net profit of $92,099,686, or $8.44 a share on 8,669,278 common shares after preferred dividends in the first nine months of 1930. The nine months' net profit for this year includes special income of $14,321,952. In the like 1930 period special income totaled $7,906,-129.

While officials of U. S. Steel declined to comment on dividends or earnings, it was said in high banking circles that the fact the corporation was willing to make a large inroad into surplus might reasonably be interpreted as indicating that its officials felt that more profitable operations were definitely in sight.

It is estimated that the steel corporation's operating expenses for the final quarter of the year have been reduced by about $7,000,000 by its 10 per cent wage cut, which became effective Oct. 1.

On $2 Basis.

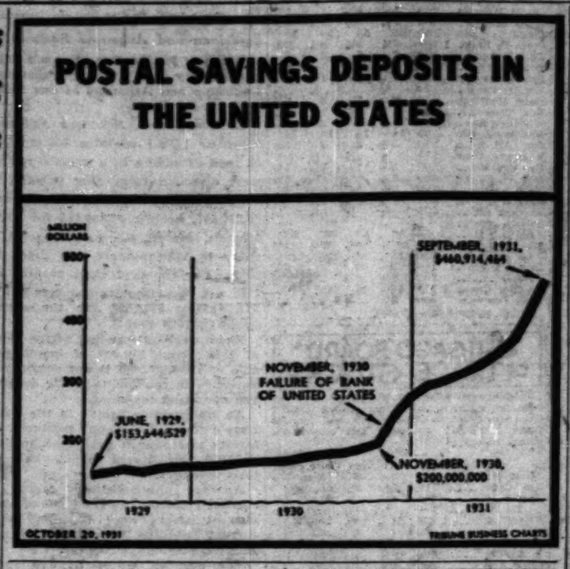
Directors of the Inland Steel company placed the capital stock on a $2 basis, against $2.50 previously, declaring a quarterly dividend of 50 cents. Third quarter net profit amounted to only $90,166, after all charges, equal to 7 cents a share, compared with $778,352, or 64 cents, in the third quarter last year. Nine months' net totaled $1,496,796, or $1.21 a share, compared with $6,110,979, or $5.09 a share, in the same 1930 period.

Republic Steel corporation for the quarter ended Sept. 30 reports net loss of $2,728,077 after charges and preferred dividends of Trumbull Cliffs Furnace company. For the nine months net loss was $6,513,975 after similar deductions.

Reports Loss.

Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation and subsidiaries report for nine months ended Sept. 30 net loss of $733,511, against net income of $5,805,-533 in the first nine months of 1930, equal after preferred dividends to $9.93 a common share.

For the September quarter the company had a net loss of $924,352, against net income of $1,050,827, or $1.43 a common share, in the third quarter of 1930.



CUT WAGES NOW MAY CALL FOR A NEW DEAL LATER

C. N. Fitts Says Labor Will Be Heard.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 27.—Members of the American Institute of Steel Construction, opening their annual convention here today, were warned by their president, Charles N. Fitts, treasurer of the New England Structural company of Boston, that if they made wage cut now they would hear from labor later when prosperity returned.

"We should not overlook the possible aftermath, and it is well to realize that for every wage cut now we will be called upon to defend the claims of labor for a new deal when business picks up again," Mr. Fitts said.

Continue to Expand.

Mr. Fitts held, however, that the situation has not been without its benefits, because, he asserted, many inequalities in wages had developed in the period from 1929 to 1930, and it was time for a readjustment of wages in some lines.

"Tales of losses in the steel construction industry are not at all new," he continued. "We have been hearing them for the past forty years. Yet I notice that the leaders continue to expand their plants and invest more capital in the business. Even during the past year there has been recorded an increase in the equipment of our industry."

Deplores Advertising Cuts.

Mr. Fitts told the members of the institute that when they cut their advertising as part of their plan of retrenchment they had made a mistake.

"The cancellation of our advertising campaign has been a very definite loss to us and one that has been recognized vociferously by many of our members," he said. "The widespread advertising of lumber and cement are classical examples of cooperative effort, and those activities have undoubtedly contributed greatly toward advancing the market for those materials.

"The expenditures we have made on advertising and publicity in the past have fully repaid us."

DAILY AVERAGE OIL PRODUCTION SHOWS DECLINE

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 55,750 barrels last week ended Oct. 24, totaling 2,381,-250 barrels. The American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California decreased 56,450 barrels to 1,873,150 barrels.

Refineries operated at 65.5 per cent of capacity, compared with 66.7 per cent in the previous week. Gasoline stocks at these refineries were 31,218,-000 barrels, against 30,826,000.

BUILDING LOSS HERE LESS THAN BALANCE OF U. S.

Construction contracts in the Chicago territory amounted to $5,361,900 during the first fifteen days of October, according to F. W. Dodge corporation. Nonresidential building took $2,450,900 of this total; residential building took $1,811,100, and public works and utilities, $1,099,900. This territory covers Indiana, Iowa, northern Illinois, and eastern and southern Wisconsin.

During the third quarter of the current year, which ended with September, this territory showed a contract loss of 18 per cent, as contrasted with the same period of 1930. This, although disappointing, still made a favorable comparison with the country as a whole, where the loss was 26 per cent. A gain in the Chicago area of 34 per cent in nonresidential building for the quarter accomplished much to offset the losses of 48 and 46 per cent, respectively, recorded for residential building and civil engineering projects.

The nine month record for construction in this territory showed a loss of 35 per cent from the corresponding period of last year. Here the loss was more drastic than that shown for the 37 eastern states as a whole, where a decline of 30 per cent was recorded.

Rumors of French Wheat Deal Boost Prices Here

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Reports from Paris yesterday claiming that negotiations were nearing completion whereby France might buy 30,000,000 to possibly 50,000,000 bushels of wheat from the American farm board, coming at a time when the pit was in an oversold condition, caused a stampede on the part of buyers that carried the deferred deliveries up 3⅛@3⅜c from the early low to a new high for the season to date, and 13⅛@14⅛c above the low made on Oct. 5.

Reinstating of recently sold out lines, combined with aggressive commission house and local buying as well as short covering developed on the way up and toward the last stop loss orders were effective in carrying the May up to 62⅝c and the December to 57⅞c, the highest figure on the latter future since July 23. The close was 2¼@2⅜c higher with December finishing at 57⅝@57¾c; May, 61⅛@62⅜c, and July, 63⅜@63¼c.

Wheat Declines Early.

Weakness in the New York stock market, and uneasiness over the English election caused a moderate decline in wheat futures early, a local professional being credited with selling out on the day down, but the surplus in the pit was absorbed by new commission house buying and by shorts. The southwest sent in fairly liberal hedging sales early, but everything of a depressing character was ignored after the market started upward.

After the close of the session President George S. Milnor of the Stabilization corporation, was quoted as saying there has been no sale of wheat to France so far, and no official transactions in regard to sales as far as he knew. Any arrangements for a sale to that country are a preliminary stage and carry no official approval, he said.

Other Markets Strong.

The fact that France was a prospective purchaser of farm board wheat was first given to the trade over a week ago, and was effective in bringing about an advance in prices at that time.

Despite the sharp advance in wheat futures in Chicago the local market was inclined to drag as compared with the southwest and northwest, Kansas City closing 2⅜@2¾c higher while Minneapolis was 2⅛@3½c higher, and Duluth durum 2⅜@3⅜c higher for the day. Choice No. 1 amber durum at Minneapolis moved upward to a nominal outside figure of 95⅜c for the cash grain, while No. 1 durum at Winnipeg closed at 83c in Canadian currency. According to seaboard reports, a northwestern interest recently took 3,000,000 bu durum wheat from the farm board.

Russian Wheat Quality Poor.

Quality of the Russian wheat arriving at English ports of late has been very poor, according to an English grain man who was in New York, and each shipment of late has shown a further deterioration in the quality to an extent that mills there do not know what to do with it. Liverpool was quiet and closed ⅜@⅝d higher, the upturn in prices about offsetting the decline in sterling with December finishing at 59⅜c figured on the basis of $3.88 for sterling.

Winnipeg wheat gained 1⅛@2c for the day in sympathy with American markets, with December closing at 82c in Canadian currency which was quoted at 10 per cent discount as compared with American fresh export sales of around 400,000 bu were claimed in all positions, mainly hard winters.

Corn Prices Advance.

Corn was dull early, but the market was somewhat unsettled, buying of corn against sales of wheat giving the former relative strength. Toward the last, however, prices advance sharply in sympathy with wheat and the finish was 1¼@1⅜c higher with December 38⅝@38¾c; May, 42⅛@42⅜, and July, 44⅝c. Shipping demand showed improvement with sales of 101,000 bu white country offerings were small.

Cash interests were fair buyers of oats, and the market showed a relatively firm undertone, shipping sales of 144,000 bu attracting attention early, but the late strength was in sympathy with other grains. Net gains were ⅝c with December closing at 24⅝@24⅜; May, 27c, and July, 24¾c.

The rye market was unsettled, easing early only to rally sharply with wheat and close 1¾@1⅞c higher with December finishing at 42⅜c; March, 45¼c, and May, 47c. Foreign news was again in favor of holders but attracted little attention.

ALLIS-CHALMERS 9 MONTHS' NET IS 95C A SHARE

Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company yesterday reported net profit for the first nine months of 1931 of $1,-212,773, after charges and federal taxes, equal to 95 cents a share on the average number of shares outstanding during the period and to 89 cents on 1,360,600 shares outstanding as of Sept. 30.

This compares with $3,034,582 in the corresponding period last year, equal to $2.41 a share on 1,258,400 shares.

September quarter net profit was $206,712, equal to 15 cents a share, compared with $523,254, or 40 cents a share, in the preceding quarter and $656,982, or 54 cents a share, in the third quarter of 1930.

Unfilled orders on Sept. 30 totaled $7,915,083, against $9,032,531 on June 30 and $15,545,567 on Sept. 30 a year ago. Bookings for the nine months' period amounted to $18,664,756, against $36,248,300 last year; for the September quarter, $6,439,879, against $6,867,249 last year.

Economists Ask U. S. Use Gold to Expand Credit

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—That the United States can put an end to its own economic troubles and greatly ameliorate the financial ills of the rest of the world by putting its huge stores of gold to work was the opinion expressed by noted economists at a dinner of the American Statistical association held tonight at the Aldine club.

Speakers on the subject of "The Price Level Slumps of 1920 and 1931—What Caused Them?" agreed that "the gold standard has not failed; it is administration that has failed." Some urged that the country's supply of gold "must be diverted from bolstering our overstuffed dollar" and used to back an expansion of credit by the federal reserve.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 27.—Railroad shares dragged the stock list to substantially lower levels today. Selling was fairly heavy in some directions in the early trading, but as operations turned into the afternoon the market took heart from the sudden advance of some 3c a bu in the price of wheat and the liquidation gradually dried up. Closing figures were generally a little better than the worst of the day, the net losses ranging from 1 to about 5 points.

The omission of the Illinois Central dividend for the first time in about seventy years was the solar plexus of a series of unfavorable developments with which the market had to contend during the day. Although there have been dismal warnings that some such action might be in store it came as a distinct shock to the speculative fraternity and served to raise apprehension over the fate of the Pennsylvania road's rate which is to come up for action tomorrow.

Not Far from Bottom.

At their bottom prices today several of the rails were not very far from their low levels for the bear market. The chief sufferers as usual included the highest priced carriers of the group, such as Union Pacific, which gave up 5 points; Atchison, which sold off 3½; New York Central, New Haven, and Norfolk and Western.

Illinois Central dropped about 3 points on account of its dividend upset, but made up more than a third of its early loss in the later trading. The issue closed at 21½, off 2⅝ points on the day. Much of the weakness in Union Pacific is also to be attributed to the dividend omission of the Illinois line. Union Pacific owns about 247,500 shares of Central's stock outright and another 101,200 shares through the Railroad Securities company, its wholly owned subsidiary.

Other dividend action had little effect on sentiment. The announcement of President Joyce of the Chicago, Great Western for instance that a 12 dividend would be paid on the common stock of the road for the first time since 1919 could not save it from finishing on the minus side of the column with the rest of the group. Likewise the news that the directors of Commonwealth and Southern had cut

CORPORATE
ACCUMULATIVE SERIES and SERIES AA—DISTRIBUTIVE TYPE

To the fundamental principle of diversification, the new series Corporate Trust Shares add many new and desirable protective features.

In order to maintain a stronger investment position, any stock may be eliminated, but only after the occurrence of certain definite fixed events.

To provide higher average return, all of the portfolio funds are invested in stocks; also interest on accumulation, compounded monthly, is paid to shareholders.

More definitely to assure continuity of the trust service, trustee's fees are paid in advance for the life of the trust.

Because they conform to the highest standards of fixed trust operation, the new series of Corporate Trust Shares are finding widespread approval among investors of all classes.

SURVEY SHOWS SLACKENING IN FORECLOSURES

BY AL CHASE.

A cheering note in the drab foreclosure situation was sounded yesterday in a survey just issued by the Building Statistics corporation, which indicates that Cook county's foreclosure peak was reached in July of this year. The survey shows September to be the second successive month of decline in amounts covered by bills filed in the Circuit and Superior courts.

The significance of this lessening of foreclosures, it is pointed out, lies in the fact that this is the first instance of a repeated decline during the year as well as being the first substantial falling off in foreclosure totals for some time prior to 1931.

A total number of 6,685 cases involving trust deeds and mortgages amounting to $287,846,136 were filed during the first nine months of 1931. This total represents an amount equal to 3.6 per cent of the total assessed value of all property in the county, the survey states.

Year's High in July.

"The year's high was reached in July, when bills amounting to $47,854,404 were filed," it says. "This compares with $38,495,065 in August, $33,226,087 in September, 1931, and $12,806,796 in September, 1930.

"Foreclosures on smaller mortgages is becoming heavier and suits on large trust deeds lighter, according to an analysis of the amounts of individual cases. The average case for June of this year was $65,214, against an average of $35,495 filed in September."

The survey points out that while perhaps the greater percentage of bond issues and large mortgages in default already have been foreclosed, small mortgage foreclosures probably will continue in substantial number because of liquidation of the holdings of closed banks, which held large quantities of such securities.

To Protect Investors.

"An entirely erroneous impression of the basic value of real estate investment has been created by a lack of understanding of the factors responsible for this unprecedented wave of foreclosures," the survey concludes. "A great percentage of the property now in foreclosure is there solely for the protection of investors and the fact that a bill has been filed does not necessarily mean the property is not capable of earning sufficient return to meet interest and properly apportioned principal payments.

"Some relief for the local government is seen in the fact that taxes which were not paid by many equity owners who were diverting their entire income to the payment of mortgage obligations, will probably be paid by receivers from the first funds available."

Mrs. Sugar Leases Candy Shop.

The Karmelkorn shops, operating a chain of 205 branches throughout the country, has leased space at 727 West 63d street, just east of Halsted, for another candy store. Oddly enough, Mrs. Kittie Sugar is lessee. Harry M. & Louis Engleseth, Inc., were brokers.

The San Francisco convention and tourist bureau, now at 209 North Michigan avenue, has leased the 17x46 store at 80 East Jackson boulevard, in the Lyon & Healy building, for a term of years beginning Dec. 1, at an undisclosedl rental, through Harold H. Egan & Co. Mr. Egan obtained the original office for the bureau in 1930.

COTTON SALES UP SHARPLY IN CHICAGO MART

The volume of cotton sales in Chicago since June 30 has increased more than 400 per cent over the total sales of the first half of 1931, according to James E. Bennett, president of the Commission Merchants' association, chairman of the cotton committee of the Chicago Board of Trade, and head of James E. Bennett & Co., members of twenty commodity and security exchanges throughout the world.

"Chicago recently has shown a steadily increasing volume of cotton transactions and is beginning to be an important market factor," said Mr. Bennett. "Cotton has come down gradually to what appears to be an extremely low price, and it is clearly apparent that constructive measures through legitimate channels are being taken to assist the cotton market. I refer particularly to the fact that merchandising has taken the place of cornering in the cotton market."

Mr. Bennett added that the return of the cotton business to the cotton merchants ought to be helpful in bringing about a revival of general cotton trade and in all probability an advanced price to cotton.

Top yesterday, $6.50; average, $5.20.

Buyers broke through again yesterday and carried the hog average down to the $4.85 line, a new low. Sellers maneuvered for position to check the break, but were unable to recover from the jolt, and some of the largest receipts for this time of year since 1923, added to their distress toward the close.

Hundreds of hogs were being held off the market in mid-session in an attempt to slow up the momentum of the decline and 8,000 were estimated left at the close, the low point of the day. This is the first time the hog average has been under the $5.00 line since March, 1908. At that time it went down to $4.35.

The extreme top for butchers yesterday was carried down to $5.15 and a big share of the good to choice 150@225 lb averages that comprised bulk of total arrivals were sold at $4.85@5.00. Another break in fresh pork loins carried the top for light weights down to 13½c. Hog receipts at Chicago this month are expected to exceed 650,000 head, the largest for October since the record year of 1923.

March Offers at $6.50.

Ten carloads of March mediums were offered at $6.50 on the futures market yesterday, but the highest bid obtained for these contracts was $5.50. Light weights for March were bid $6.00 and heavy grades were offered at $6.00. All November, December and January contracts were bid $4.50.

Cattle good enough to sell at $10.00 and above held a strong position again yesterday, several carloads of the best reaching $11.00, but plainer kinds moved slowly and some slipped down 25c on a draggy afternoon trade. The trade is a decidedly two way affair. While more than 150 steers averaging 997@1,308 lbs at $11.00 equaled the highest price paid for cattle since early in the year, stock selling at $8.50 and below show losses of 50c to $1.00 compared with early last week.

The market finished on a "catch as catch can" basis, buyers and sellers, in most instances, not being able to agree on the value of stock. Few buyers were on the market for cows and heifers and sales in that branch showed further losses. Calves closed weak to lower after a steady start. Country buyers were more conservative and stockers and feeders closed lower.

Lamb Prices are Slashed.

Buyers went on another price slashing rampage in the sheep house yesterday, and, at the close, losses of 50@75c were uncovered in natives and mostly 50c in sales of western range lambs. The trade was erratic and very spotted during the first part of the day, before the sharply lower basis had been established for quotations.

City butchers paid up to $6.50 for occasional lots of "hand picked" natives, but packers took most of their "sorts" at $5.50@5.75. Colorado range lambs went to packers and shippers at $6.10. Matured sheep and yearlings shared in the weakness and losses of 25@50c were recorded toward the finish.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 10,000 cattle, 22,000 hogs and 19,000 sheep, against 13,005 cattle, 29,898 hogs and 31,259 sheep, the previous Wednesday and 12,585 cattle, 22,091 hogs and 14,043 sheep, a year ago.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans where $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1925, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:
